Central Sports Committee Plan Draws Mixed Reaction

Representatives of several youth athletic programs in Hoffman Estates gave mixed reactions Monday to a proposal to put all their activities under the direction of a central community sports committee.

The concept was advanced by Hoffman Estates Park District Director Al Binder to representatives from the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association, Hoffman Estates Boys Club, the Community Religious Basketball League and Independent Baseball Association. Elementary School District 54 Superintendent Wayne Schiabile also attended the meeting.

Binder proposed the centralized committee as a means of maintaining quality athletic programs, involving both the skilled and unskilled athletes in the community and continually evaluating the programs being offered.

Representatives of both the HEAA and the Boys Club explained that personality disputes between the two groups would make a consolidation difficult.

UNDER BINDER'S proposal the committee would be directed by sub groups representing the various sports, services groups, school districts and residents not already involved with the athletic programs.

Binder said the first steps toward forming such a committee might include all present groups with the goal of having only one organization coordinate each sport.

George Rush, president of the HEAA said the easiest way to accomplish this goal would be to take the use of various athletic facilities away from the existing groups.

"Then they would come crying at your door, willing to cooperate," Rush said.

He stressed that he did not advocate this method however and would oppose such a tactic.

BOTH BINDER and Park Commissioner Fred Weaver stated that the park district does not "intend to cram this proposal down anyone's throat."

Representatives from the hockey programs and School District 211 did not attend the meeting.

Representatives of the athletic groups will meet with Binder individually to discuss the proposal. Another group meeting will probably be held in November after the representatives have the opportunity to discuss the proposal with the general membership of their organizations.

Binder said the implementation of such a proposal will probably take at least a year.

Strike Called 'Grounds For Dismissal'

by JERRY THOMAS

Teachers in Schaumburg Twp. School Dist. 54 were warned yesterday by a board of education letter that strike action could be considered as grounds for dismissal.

Schaumburg Education Association (SEA) Pres. David Wilson called the letter an outright threat and attempt to intimidate teachers into accepting a contract offer that was far from realistic.

The board's action came after salary contract talks ground to a halt Sunday, when the SEA declared an impasse and asked for outside mediation.

Wilson said yesterday that teachers in the district have made the last move but still are urging negotiations rather than strike. However, the Illinois Education Association (IEA) was to hold an investigation on the strike possibility at a meeting last night.

KEY COMMUNITY leaders including School Supt. Wayne Schiabile; board of education president, Mrs. Dianne Hart, and the mayors of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park were invited to attend.

Dave Tomchek, IEA representative, said his group will offer financial assistance if the strike takes place. Since the local teachers' association has conducted salary contract negotiations within IEA guidelines, such support could be expected, he added.

Teachers will meet tonight and it is expected a strike vote could be called. Wilson said teachers still desire to resume negotiations but he also insisted the request must come from the board. He added that at the last negotiations session, held Sunday, the teachers' team made the last move by lowering its total salary increase request by $100,000. "The board called it unrealistic and made no counter offer. We call it impasse," he said.

Wilson said the board's letter said that a notation of a teacher's withdrawal of service would stand as part of permanent work records when non-tenured teachers, still on probationary service are considered for reemployment.

The letter also states that teachers on strike will not be paid. Any strike action is considered illegal and grounds for dismissal for both tenured or non-tenured teacher, the letter adds.

Neighbor's Request 'Bugs' The Adjoining Land Owners

A neighbor of Hoffman Estates Trustee Diane Jensen accused her of causing "suffering" for adjoining property owners. The charge was made at a village board meeting Monday.

Mrs. Jensen, who lives at 149 Dennison Rd., has asked the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) to refrain from spraying to kill mosquitoes near her property. She said Monday that officials from NMAD told her when she made the request they will not spray at homes "two before and two behind" the address from which the request came.

When Howard Johnson, 145 Dennison Rd., raised the matter before the board, he did not identify Mrs. Jensen. He stated, "A neighbor is against having property sprayed. This in turn hurts the neighbors on either side if they are not sprayed when trucks come down the street."

Johnson said he has seen mosquito district trucks on his street only once this year, suggesting they were not fogging his streets because of the neighbor's request.

Johnson said he is paying taxes for mosquito extermination services, and not receiving them. He also said the mosquitoes are becoming a danger, noting "there have been cases of children going to the hospital" because they were so seriously bitten.

"I DO THINK a complaint should come from the board to the mosquito abatement district," said Johnson.

Then Mrs. Jensen announced a representative of NMAD will attend the Oct. 4 meeting of the environmental committee, of which she is chairman, and invited Johnson to attend also.

"She is the one I'm talking about," said Johnson. "She doesn't wish to have her property sprayed because of the environmental committee she is on."

Mrs. Jensen denied her committee position had influenced her to make the no-spraying request, saying the spray is dangerous to some persons and she is not the only one who has asked not to have it.

"I have a right to have my property not sprayed as much as yours to have it sprayed," said Mrs. Jensen.

"I question how my property could affect the entire village," added Mrs. Jensen, noting the Cook County Forest Preserve District owns about "40 per cent" of the land in the village; and prohibits spraying on its sites.

WHEN JOHNSON again asked about his tax money, Mayor Frederick Downey responded, "You don't get a return on your tax dollar just because you pay taxes," Downey said.

Johnson was urged by Trustee Bruce Lind to call NMAD and ask that his property be sprayed. Trucks are due down that street Thursday night, said Johnson. Lind suggested if the trucks do not spray at Johnson's house, he attend next week's board meeting and report again to the board.

ALEXANDRA KOSTOS, of Elk Grove Village, displays the POW bracelet engraved with the name of Lt. J.G. Norris Charles and the day he was reported missing, Dec. 30, 1971. She says she'll wear the bracelet until he comes home

Alexandra Gets Good News: Her 'Bracelet PW' Due Home

Alexandra Kostos, of Elk Grove Village, has never met Norris Charles, but she was excited when she learned he may be coming home soon.

Navy Lt. (J.G.) Norris Charles is one of more than 500 Americans known captured and held prisoner by the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong in Southeast Asia.

A week ago Hanoi announced it would release Charles along with Navy Lt. Markham Gartley and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, to a private American antiwar group to return the men to the United States. A date for the release has not yet been set.

Until Charles is back safely in the country, Alexandra says she'll continue to wear the silver POW bracelet on her right wrist inscribed with Charles' name and the date Dec. 30, 1971, the day he was reported missing. Alexandra, 271 Fern Dr., is one of thousands of persons wearing the bracelets in remembrance of the American prisoners and those missing in action, but she thinks her bracelet is the only one with Charles' name on it.

"When I first heard the news he (Charles) was going to come back, I was thrilled," the 14-year-old freshman at Elk Grove High said.

SHE SAID SHE was first told the good news by a friend who heard the announcement on television. Alexandra said she has been watching the newspapers every day in hopes of hearing when Charles will be released.

"When Charles is back, I am going to send the bracelet to him," she said. "I think I can get his address from VIVA (Voices in Vital America, a non-profit student organization which distributes the bracelets.)"

"I decided to get the bracelet because of my feelings about the war in Vietnam," she said. "I think it should be ended as soon as possible, but with the release of the prisoners."

Alexandra said she and her friends wear the POW bracelets so the men held prisoner won't be forgotten.

Chamber Readopts Old Name

After less than year with the name of Woodfield Area Chamber of Commerce and Industry, businessmen in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg have voted a new name for the commerce group.

Art Kelter, president of the chamber, announced yesterday that the group had readopted the name of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

"We realized that the name represents a greater advantage to have geographical contact with the community."

Originally the group formed from the Hoffman Estates Merchants Association.

Kelter also announced the group added seven new members recently bringing the total membership to 121 members. He said this figure represents about 50 per cent of the businesses in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

Senior Citizens To Be Visited By Governor

Senior citizens will receive special attention from Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie when he visits Schaumburg Township Thursday afternoon.

The governor will make brief visits in the office of Dr. Roy S. Carlson at 29 Weathersfield Commons, Schaumburg, and the home of Mrs. Florence Ritchie, 102 Millbrook Ln., Schaumburg. Dr. Carlson is aged 76, and is among the oldest practicing optometrists in the state. Mrs. Ritchie is active in senior citizens organizations.

The governor's visit to the area will start at Harper Junior College, Palatine, where he will meet with faculty and students between noon and 1:30 p.m. He then will proceed to Tradewinds Shopping Center, Hanover Park, to greet patrons between 2 and 2:30 p.m. At 2:30 p.m. he will start a door-to-door canvass on Edgebrook Lane, Hanover Park.

After a 15-minute meeting with Republican Hanover Park officials, Ogilvie will proceed to Weathersfield Commons Shopping Center, Schaumburg and Springmeadow Commons, Schaumburg, arriving at 3:30. While there, he will visit Dr. Carlson.

Starting at 4 p.m., the governor will canvass voters in Schaumburg Townships 23rd Precinct, the area around the Weathersfield quadhome development, and visit Mrs. Ritchie.

At 4:30 p.m., Ogilvie will meet with trustees in the Hoffman Estates village hall, leaving at 5 p.m. for the Churchill subdivision for more door-to-door canvassing.

The activities are to close with a dinner meeting at 6 p.m. with suburban Republican township committeemen at the Lancer Restaurant, Algonquin and Meacham roads, Schaumburg.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $33.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

The Illinois Education Association announced filing of a suit on behalf of teachers and college instructors in Illinois, and alleging that retirement funds for three groups of teachers were about $3 billion in arrears because of inadequate funding.

The World

Bazooka rockets fired from Syria crashed into an Israeli-occupied village on the Golan Heights and Israeli jets reportedly violated Lebanese airspace, heightening tensions in the Middle East.

A military spokesman said the Irish Republican Army is not going to run British troops out of Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital. "It is not military policy to move units under threat," the spokesman said.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with Kremlin leaders in Moscow under strict secrecy, but in Washington the White House freely announced its travel plans which may include another secret meeting with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

The War

Two units of elite South Vietnamese marines linked up inside the Communist-held Quang Tri citadel and launched a furious, last-minute drive to push the North Vietnamese out of the thick-walled structure before today's deadline set by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The Market

The stock market suffered its sixth consecutive loss as prices plunged sharply and broadly on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading continued relatively light. The Dow Jones Average fell 8.96 to 946.04. Declines outnumbered advances, 1,078 to 351, among the 1,767 issues crossing the tape. Turnover totaled 13,560,000 shares, up from 10,710,000. Prices moved lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

In 1967, howling mobs of Chinese Communists stormed and seized the British consulate in Shanghai.

Wheel Tax Enforcement 'Off Again,' Sheriff Says

At least for the moment. Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said Monday his policemen have been instructed to discontinue enforcing the controversial wheel tax ordinance in view of a recent court ruling against the tax.

The tax, adopted by the county board in late December, is similar to the charge of most villages and cities for vehicle stickers. The county version of the tax is levied only against residents of unincorporated areas, however. The rate varies from $10 and $15 for most automobiles up to $95 for heavy equipment.

Circuit Court Judge Raymond Sarnow recently ruled the tax is unconstitutional. Judge Sarnow, acting on a suit against the tax brought by the Prospect Heights Improvement Association and the Cook County School Bus Co., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township, said the tax violated the new state constitution because the ordinance failed to provide any new or specific services to the residents.

COUNTY BOARD PRES. George W. Dunne had indicated previously that the money received from the tax would be earmarked for use by the sheriff's department, but that provision was not included in the ordinance.

Following the ruling, Asst. State's Atty. Paul Biebel, representing the county, indicated he would appeal the ruling within the allotted 30 days. Last week Biebel said he expected the sheriff's police would continue to enforce the law pending the outcome of the appeal.

Similarly, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said Wednesday the police would continue to enforce the law until the appeal is settled.

Monday, however, Matthew Walsh, legal adviser to Elrod, said enforcement of the ordinance was "abated" following a meeting Thursday with Elrod and Chief Edmund Dobbs.

WALSH SAID THAT in view of the ruling the ordinance was unconstitutional, further enforcement would be an "exercise in futility."

He added, however, that if and when the state's attorney's office files an appeal, another meeting will be held and the merit of the appeal considered. At that time, Walsh said, it could be decided to resume enforcement of the law.

Walsh said he expects persons who have been ticketed for violating the ordinance will get relief from the court when they appear. He said it will be up to the individual judges whether to accept or reject Judge Sarnow's ruling.

Walsh said, however, the money received by the county in payment of the tax will be continued to be held in an escrow account pending the outcome of the appeal.

'Typical Husband' Sought In Murders

by KAREN BLECHA

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

Police believe the suspect, who they said looked like "a typical suburban husband," is the man who reportedly hired Mrs. Flanagan as a babysitter Saturday. Police believe he picked up the two victims at the CTA bus terminal at Milwaukee and Lmly avenues in Chicago, where Mrs. Flanagan had agreed to meet him.

POLICE SAID Mrs. Flanagan at about 1 p.m. Saturday received a call from a man answering an add to babysit that she had placed on the bulletin board at a Chicago Jewel food store. The man, police said, gave Mrs. Flanagan a nonexistent address.

Chicago police said yesterday they will release an artist's description of the suspect at noon today.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

Dennis said the description was not supplied by the CTA bus driver who said he saw Mrs. Flanagan picked up by a man with a 1965 blue Pontiac or Oldsmobile.

"We think the suspect has a conservative type haircut, schoolboy type, and is a neat dresser. He was wearing a brown and white sports jacket, dark trousers, shirt and tie and white shoes," Dennis said.

Dennis said police also are looking for a 1965 "clean" Oldsmobile, which may be connected to the suspect.

"We've got a maniac on our hands, a sex fiend," Dennis said. "I would venture to say he is still in the area, sitting back and listening in."

ACCORDING TO the Cook County Coroner's office, Mrs. Flanagan died from brain damage after being hit on the head with a blunt object. She was also choked, the coroner's office said. Authorities said she was not sexually molested.

The baby died of suffocation after being sexually assaulted, according to authorities.

Dennis said Niles police became involved in the case because the CTA terminal is only one block south of Niles borders. He said police assume that "the offender drove north on Milwaukee Avenue, through Niles." "We're proceeding along the lines of known sex offenders," he said.

The bus driver Sunday identified a past sex offender in Chicago police files as the man who picked up the pair. However, he failed to identify the same man in a police lineup.

Backed-Up Sewers To Be Flushed

Sanitary sewers serving Edgefield Lane residents in Hoffman Estates are to be flushed this week to determine if any extraneous material is blocking them.

Mrs. Donald Maga, 589 Edgefield Ln., Monday night asked what progress village public works employees have made in determining the cause of sewer backups that flooded several homes with raw sewage Aug. 25.

While an obstruction is not the likely cause, said Public Works Director John Hossack, it could be a contributing factor.

Hossack also said the village will place smoke bombs in the sewers in an attempt to locate any points where storm and sanitary sewers may be leaking into each other.

"I'M SURE INFILTRATION of rainwater is causing the problem," said Hossack.

If the smoke bombs do not locate the suspected leaks, television cameras will be used to view the length of the sewers in another attempt, he said.

After the August storm that caused severe damaging floods along Salt Creek, Edgefield Lane residents told the board how their homes had been flooded, in some cases with four feet of sewage.

Hossack then said it appeared storm water had entered the sanitary sewer, causing the backups. Since then he has determined there are no downspouts or other above ground sources which could have flooded the sanitary sewers with storm water.

Hossack also said his crews had suggested enlarging grate openings in storm sewer covers to help carry storm water off streets "a little sooner," easing above-ground flooding.

State Jaycee Unit Approves 'Project Break-Thru' Idea

"Project Break-Thru" a program designed to improve accessibility to public buildings for handicapped persons came a little closer to becoming a statewide Jaycee program Sunday, when the group's state executive committee approved the project.

Pete Smith, named state chairman of the project said the executive committee gave enthusiastic support for the program Sunday in Springfield. The next step will be this weekend, when representatives of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees try to get approval for the project from more than 350 chapters throughout the state.

Smith said about 15 Hoffman Estates members are planning to attend dual meeting in Galesburg.

THE EXECUTIVE committee approval was necessary to get the presentation of the project on the state board meeting next weekend, Smith explained.

The project is also being aided by the Governor's Committee on Employment for the Handicapped.

Local Jaycees worked earlier this year to get Hoffman Estates officials to pass an ordinance requiring certain accessibility standards for all newly constructed buildings. It was the first such ordinance passed in the state.

They hope to spread the program throughout the state. Ed Sturkey and Archie Nykaza have also been coordinating the local efforts.

Smith said the several state official remarked to him Sunday how the problems of the handicapped are frequently ignored in the preparation of plans for new buildings.

Smith said support for the program may be forthcoming from U. S. Senator Charles Percy next weekend.

Lions Club Seats Officers For Year

The Hoffman Estates Lions Club resumed its 1972-73 season with the seating of newly elected officers Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Maitre D' Restaurant, Higgins and Arlington Heights roads, Elk Grove Village.

Elected officers are Charles Levy, 270 Westview Ln., Hoffman Estates, president; John Reedy, 142 Berkley Ln., Hoffman Estates, first vice president; Roger Woolman, 133 Bradley Ln., Hoffman Estates, second vice president; Eugene Re, 141 N. Washington Blvd., Hoffman Estates, third vice president.

Dick Harger, 1836 Portsmouth Ln., Schaumburg, secretary; Bill Cayez, 113 Buckeye Dr., Hoffman Estates, treasurer; Bob Allen, 1512 W. Arlington Ln., Schaumburg, tail twister, and Phil Gibbs, 257 Osage Ln., Hoffman Estates, lion tamer.

President Levy is looking forward to a rewarding full year for the Lions Club and is hopeful that the community will give its help and support to the organization.

Those interested in joining the Lions can do so by contacting one of the members or by attending one of the club's meetings. Regular dinner meetings are held the second and fourth Mondays of the month in the Maitre D' Restaurant.

Meacham Road Portions Close For Repaving

Sections of Meacham Road south of Higgins Road to be closed this week for about three weeks for a major reconstruction project, county highway officials announced.

A spokesman for the highway department said that Meacham Road between Higgins and Nerge roads will be closed for reconstruction widening and repaving until the end of the month.

The section of Meacham Road between Higgins and Schaumburg roads will be closed for about one week, while the section between Schaumburg and Nerge roads will take about two additional weeks to complete.

The work will require complete removal of the existing pavement and construction of two 12-foot lanes along the entire section.

Highway officials said the timetable for the entire project is dependent upon weather conditions.

Teens Charged With Thefts Of Clothing

Three Chicago teen-agers were arrested during the weekend after police observed them stuffing several hundred dollars' worth of allegedly stolen clothing into the trunk of an auto at Woodfield.

The trio is charged with stealing clothes from Lyttons, J. C. Penney and Marshall Field and Co. stores.

Charged in the incident were Camille Woods, 18, of 6122 N. Mason; Michael Neilson, 19, of 6144 Moody Ave., and Raymond Rzewnicki, 19, of 5838 N. Melvina, all in Chicago.

The arrest occurred after authorities said they observed the group removing merchandise from the three stores and placing it in an auto parked in the Woodfield lot Saturday afternoon.

Honorable Mention

Bill Perry, 1505 Coventry Rd., Schaumburg, won honorable mention recently in an environmental poster contest for elementary school children sponsored by a gas company.

Bill is a student at St. Hubert's School, Schaumburg.

An Important Seminar/Lecture on Mind Control & ESP

for everyone interested in developing mental powers

Recently, many national publications such as LIFE, GLAMOUR, and THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, featured articles on "BRAIN WAVES" and "BRAIN TRAINING." These articles discussed a fantastic breakthrough, a new science dealing with the conscious control of brain waves.

This new science is called AlphaGenics and concerns itself with the Alpha rhythms of brain. Noted researchers discussed how any person can learn to control brain waves and revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man with self-control of his brain waves. Exploration of this almost unknown continent — the human brain — has been pioneered by a soft-spoken para-psychologist, Jose Silva, of the Institute of Psychorobotics in Laredo, Texas. This sincere, dedicated scientist has been training people to enhance Alpha Brain Wave production for many years.

ALPHA BRAIN WAVE FUNCTION — Twenty-six years ago Silva and his associates began their research in Mind Control to see if it was possible to increase a person's IQ factor. Amazingly, Silva discovered that not only could IQ be increased but a person trained in this technique could even control certain areas of the Autonomic System — heart beat, respiration, blood pressure, etc. The implications of this breakthrough with regard to health and disease were staggering. With Mind Control, students have reported that they have been able to control pain, accelerate healing, eliminate insomnia, migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems. In-depth studies also revealed that anyone with a normal brain and sufficient training could develop so called ESP and clairvoyance.

60,000 GRADUATES — COAST TO COAST — Three years ago the Institute decided to release their findings to the general public. Techniques had been refined to where only a few hours of class time were all that was required to become a truly effective person.

RESULTS GUARANTEED — With the mastery and the enhancement of Alpha Brain Wave function, students have reported they could relax anytime they desire, banish anxiety and tension, eliminate pain, enhance learning capacity and memory, eliminate bad habits, create good habits and control weight and smoking. By learning to function at the Alpha level you will easily develop psychic power and learn practical applications of ESP. Become a better student, parent, employee or employer and a more effective problem solver.

Several Groups In Area

'Jesus People' Spread Word

by JEAN CAFARELLA

Third of Three Parts

Once the Jesus people have "the word," they express a great desire to spread it. While much of the seed planting is done by individuals as the opportunity arises, there are several big interdenominational groups operating in this area.

One of the newest is the Chicagoland Christian Center in Des Plaines, which began a year and a half ago under Bob Schroy.

Schroy came from California and started the first spiritual outreach program in 25 years in the Chicago area. The center's programs include drug prevention using hot lines, Jesus music and testimony in Niles, and helping to start local Bible groups.

The center also spreads its message at 5 p.m. Saturday on Channel 44 through its show, Chicago Aglow. The center's biggest and best known activity is its monthly Jesus rallies at the Arie Crown Theater in McCormick Place.

The rallies began in March, and pack in overflowing crowds every time. Arie Crown seats a few more than 4,000 persons, and Schroy said the crowds have been up to 6,000. He estimates that between 25 and 30 per cent of these are from the Northwest suburban area. About 2,000 of those who have attended made a commitment to Christ.

The rallies start with a singing group, followed by testimony from various converts and from the speaker. The rallies last about two hours, and at the end of the rally anyone who wishes to be baptized jumps into a large plastic wading pool backstage.

SPEAKERS since March have included Pat Boone, Dale Evans, Nicky Cruz (former New York City gang leader) and Mel Tari (an Indonesian who says he has witnessed every Biblical miracle). Future guests will include Bob Harrington (the chaplain of Bourbon Street) on Sept. 18 and Maria von Trapp (heroine of "The Sound of Music").

The most recent speaker, on Aug. 29, was Hal Lindsey, who wrote "The Late Great Planet Earth" predicting the coming of Christ will be soon. He bases the book on such Biblical signs as famines and earthquakes, the restoration of Israel, war in the Middle East, and the precarious balance of world powers.

Many of the high school and college-age Christians who attend the rallies meet their fellow believers at coffee houses for weekend entertainment. The Catacombs Coffee House in Prospect Heights is part of a very extensive program under Literature Crusades, a missionary enterprise.

The Catacombs is one of eight buildings on a seven-acre piece of land, mainly supported by the Plymouth Brethren Church. Classes are held there every fall for mission work overseas, as well as programs for neighborhood outreach.

Bill Bonikowsky, one of the directors, said there is a Bible service on Sunday mornings, which many of the Jesus people attend.

One of the Catacombs' warm-up activities is a Jesus music festival, held outdoors. The next one is planned for Sept. 17; the usual crowd is between 200 and 300, occasionally up to 500.

The Catacombs has musical entertainment on Friday and Saturday nights, where the staff mingles and forms friendships. Bonikowsky said he finds that "most kids are looking for 'something more,' and the discussion of Jesus is kept low key. He finds that few kids go away permanently from the Catacombs."

THE LOST & FOUND Coffee House in Arlington Heights began at its present site in June of 1971, and manager Don Foster said his goal is to help the customers in whatever way they need it. Lost & Found is part of the Campus Life program, and is also open Friday and Saturday.

Foster said he runs into a lot of kids who are "trying to work for world peace without inner peace or interracial love without inner love." The message is the same for everybody: "from Adolf Hitler to Joe Blow, we all need God equally."

Lost & Found has Bible classes each week for about 50 kids, and attempts to offer whatever counseling they need.

Campus Life, part of Youth for Christ International, operates in the high schools. The idea is that Jesus doesn't want to ruin lives or take away fun, so Campus Life is basically a club. David Veerman, executive director in Arlington Heights, said the program has two parts.

One part is social—burger bashes, basketball tournaments, camp, games and a haunted house, for example. The other part is personal counseling and contacting, having small discussion groups on who Jesus is, how to live, and the problem of evil.

"Very often, the hardest people to reach are the most self-reliant ones," said Veerman. His brother, Ralph, works with youth guidance for nonschool oriented, troubled kids, some of whom have gone to juvenile court. They teach the balanced life, involving physical, mental, social and spiritual activity.

Ralph said most of these kids feel they're "no good." The approach used is that Jesus accepts them as they are, so they have worth. He finds that more than half make a significant change in their lives.

Between 50 and 60 Harper College students are active in the Seekers, an interfaith group sponsored by the Church of the Covenant in Palatine. The Rev. Max Rosenquist is the campus pastor, and he finds that most students wonder whether the Jesus life-style is for them.

THE SEEKERS have many small discussion groups, films and speakers. They also have a book table at the Harper College Center, and occasionally go door-to-door spreading their ideas on Jesus. Credit courses on the life of Christ are offered at Harper and North Park College.

The Jesus people, as well as these organizations, deemphasize denominations constantly and refer to themselves only as Christians. The established churches themselves aren't sure what to make of the Jesus movement. In a survey taken by the Herald of the area churches, there was no clear pattern on who favored, and who disliked, the new crop of Jesus people.

THE FARE AT THE Lost & Found Coffee House in Arlington Heights may be simply coffee, soft drinks, and snacks, but the message is overwhelming: Jesus' power and love. Don Foster, left, attempts to show this by running more than an entertainment center. Lost & Found has helped kids obtain counseling, jobs, homes, or a new life. "If I didn't believe Jesus changed people, I would have chucked it," said Don.

Some said it was a healthy reaction to the stagnant church, and others thought it was an abominable fad based on short-lived emotion. A few thought it would spell death for the institution. Many mentioned that the Jesus movement has been going on since the Resurrection. Some encourage and some ignore, and this is reflected in Sunday services.

For letters, there's a better way to fly than first class.

Sending important letters out of town by first class mail instead of Airmail is like sending business executives to important meetings on standby tickets.

What you save in money, you lose in other things; namely, speed and reliability.

Airmail gets sorted and processed before all regular mail (including all first class letters). This gives your letter all the advantages a person would get from skipping the check-in line.

Airmail always makes the first plane out. If first class mail flies, it flies standby, when there's space on the plane for it.

And since the first plane out is the first plane in, you can rely on Airmail to get there first. Airmail hardly ever takes more than two days to reach cities throughout the continental United States—often only one.

Finally, Airmail commands attention because it looks important. It tells an out-of-town customer that your company values his business enough to write him the quickest, most reliable way.

Your company spends at least $2.96 when you prepare and mail a letter. For three cents more, you can protect that investment with Airmail, the most reliable letter service going.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, following his Downstate camper-trailer tour, is turning close attention to the suburbs in the final phase of his campaign for reelection.

The governor, following a day of campaigning in Schaumburg Township tomorrow, will return to the Northwest suburbs Sunday for a day in the Wheeling area.

Ogilvie will preside at the opening of a Nixon campaign headquarters in Wheeling early in the day and then will be honored at a cocktail party from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Hartman House Restaurant on South Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling. Hosts for the party are Lake County Sheriff and Mrs. Orville (Pat) Clancy, and Chief Deputy and Mrs. Jerome P. Schuetz; and members of the Wheeling village board of trustees.

After 6 p.m., the governor will visit the "Septemberfest" celebration at Hans Bavarian Lodge on North Milwaukee Avenue.

Tomorrow Ogilvie will meet with students and faculty members at Harper College from noon to 1:30 p.m., make home visits and join Schaumburg Republican Township Committeeman Don Totten in door-to-door canvassing, followed by a dinner meeting with suburban committeemen.

Last week Ogilvie announced the opening of 20 storefront headquarters throughout the suburbs, and said a total of 60 are planned.

Mrs. Anne Evans of Des Plaines, state-wide chairman of the Independents for Ogilvie Committee, is assisting in organization of the final drive in the suburbs.

DAN WALKER VOLUNTEERS will kick-off the final phase of the Democratic candidate's drive for the governorship at a gathering at 8 p.m. tonight in the Barrington Square Club House, 1986 Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Walker's son, Dan Jr., will meet with the volunteers.

Potential Walker workers who cannot attend the meeting have been asked to call Eloise McWaters at 358-7665 or Dawn Anderson at 529-4653.

Meanwhile, the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Citizens Committee for Walker has announced that more than 250 persons have joined in the effort to elect Walker. They are part of 41,316 persons who have enlisted on the committee throughout the state.

Co-chairman of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove committee are Donna Ringelstein, 400 S. Meadowbrook, and Jane Carlson, 529 S. Wayne, both of Wheeling.

CLIFFORD E. Leverage of Elgin, Democratic candidate for the state Senate in the 2nd Legislative District, will host a theater party tonight at the Arlington Park Theatre for campaign workers and the press.

Campaign workers will be treated to a buffet supper following a press conference, and will attend a performance of "Hello, Charlie," starring Joanne Worley.

A reception by Leverage will follow the performance.

Leverage also recently announced appointment of Marshall Rothman, his Democratic opponent in the primary campaign, as co-chairman of Leverage for Senator Committee.

REP. EUGENE F. SCHLICKMAN, R-Arlington Heights, will continue a series of September coffees at the home of Carl and Jane Goldsborough, 123 Brookfield, Mount Prospect, at 8 p.m. Friday.

Another is scheduled for 8 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 22, at the home of Ted and Marianna Wattenberg, 1807 Taro Ln., Mount Prospect.

Persons wishing to attend or host a coffee for the candidate in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Glenview, Golf, Morton Grove, Mount Prospect, Niles, Park Ridge, Prospect Heights or Skokie, have been asked to phone Mrs. Roland Wiltse at 259-8843.

U.S. REP. ABNER MIKVA, D-2nd, and his Republican opponent, Samuel H. Young, will conduct their fourth debate tonight at 8:30 p.m. in St. Anselm's Episcopal Church, 1600 W. Greenwood Park, Park Ridge.

Mikva recently announced appointment of Mary Lou Shoykowski, 1405 W. Campbell St., Des Plaines, as Maine Township coordinator for a poster, car-top and bumper sticker campaign.

Mikva supporters hope to distribute more than 10,000 posters, 15,000 bumper stickers and several hundred car-top displays in the new 10th Congressional District.

Persons interested in obtaining the items are invited to call Mikva's headquarters at 267-1760.

Bob Nebgen, 1422 Henry St., Des Plaines, Maine Township volunteer chairman for Mikva, reported that more than 100 people recently attended a voter registration meeting in Des Plaines. Mikva told the volunteers there are more than 80,000 unregistered voters in the district.

SAMUEL H. YOUNG, Mikva's Republican opponent, has invited school board members from throughout the 10th District to a meeting to discuss the role of the federal government in education to a meeting Saturday.

It will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Glenview Country House.

Also participating in the meeting will be U.S. Rep. John Erhlenborn, R-14th.

In a letter urging the board members to bring their ideas to the meeting, Young declared, "We can see a growing financial crisis as well as a deep dissatisfaction with policies being imposed on the local school boards."

Young recently appointed former state representative Alan R. Johnston as chairman of his executive committee for the campaign.

Johnston, of Kenilworth, is a partner in a law firm specializing in corporate, securities and trade association law. He served in the General Assembly from 1962 to 1970.

ROBERT L. SKLODOWSKI, Republican candidate for clerk of the Cook County Circuit Court, will address the Arlington Heights Park Manor Homeowners' Association at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Southminster Presbyterian Church, E. Central Road and South Dryden Place.

Education Today

The Case Of The Fleeting Favors

by WANDALYN RICE

One of the constant fascinations with covering the local education scene is keeping tally of the number of times state and county politicians do favors for the local schools — and the favors disappear on close inspection.

One of the most dramatic examples of the disappearing good deed lately, of course, was the suit filed by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton challenging the equalizer used in figuring the county property tax assessments.

The suit was filed with great fanfare and much indignant ranting by county Democrats, who said the equalizer, by inflating property values in Cook County, had "cheated" the county's school districts out of millions of dollars in state aid.

The fault for this awful swindle was placed squarely on the doorstep of the governor, who is, coincidentally, a Republican.

Cullerton and County School Supt. Richard Martwick got some pretty good mileage out of the lawsuit for the first few days, but then it became apparent they weren't going to help the local schools at all.

WHEN THE local school officials, you see, figured out the result of changing the equalizer, they quickly realized that for every dollar they would gain in state aid they would lose two in local tax money.

The loss would amount to $1 million for

Wandalyn Rice

High School Dist. 214 and lesser amounts for other school districts. The school officials were understandably less than delighted with the "help" the county officials were providing.

Just last week another, although less dramatic, example of the headline-grabbing helpfulness of some officials presented itself. In this case State School Supt. Michael Bakalis announced with some fanfare that he was releasing state school aid money early, that this money would provide ready cash for all school districts, and that the city of Chicago should use the "windfall" to make up its perpetual deficit.

The announcement got Bakalis the predictable wave of good publicity and, as usual, it has taken awhile for people to realize the "windfall" ain't all it's cracked up to be.

Ordinarily, school districts receive their state aid money in checks at the end of each month. Bakalis now has started sending the checks at the beginning of each month.

THE RESULT of the speeded check-sending will be that the school districts will get one more check during this fiscal year than they otherwise would have.

The catch is that the districts will not be entitled to any more money — that extra check will be part of the state aid to which they will be entitled next year.

It's as if your boss paid you each week for the week you haven't worked yet. Everything would be fine unless you quit unexpectedly and ended up owing the boss money because you had been paid in advance.

Chicago School Supt. James Redmond explained to his school board that he can see the day Chicago ends up owing money looming on the horizon. In the next few years the Chicago schools will switch from a January-to-December calendar year to a July-to-July fiscal year in their budgeting process.

When they make the switch, according to Redmond, the school system will end up with one month in which they won't receive any state aid check — and will be in hot water trying to meet their payrolls.

THE IMPACT of the speeded state aid checks on districts in the Northwest suburbs will be less dramatic. Most districts, according to Dist. 214 Assistant Supt. Robert Weber, only budget for the amount of money they are entitled to in state aid. The districts therefore will count the extra check into next year and not into this year.

However, none of this has done much to improve the credibility of politicians in the eyes of local school officials. The state and county bigwigs run around declaring they are going to help the schools and the local school officials then have to explain to taxpayers that they really aren't misplacing all that extra money — they aren't getting any.

So, if you happen to talk to a school man sometime soon, don't be surprised if he seems to look all gift horses in the mouth — especially if they are coming from politicians.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like to know how long penicillin tablets are good. About four years ago I had an abscessed tooth and my dentist prescribed penicillin tablets to bring down the swelling. I had about six left over and put them in my medicine cabinet. Are they still good?

Dear Reader — Throw them away. Penicillin tablets are usually considered to be safe if stored properly only for about two years. Your letter points up a very important problem with medicine. The shelf life, or how long a medicine is effective, varies a great deal. Personally, I think every bottle of medicine that is given to a patient should have an expiration date or a statement effective only until . . . and then a specific date stamped on the label.

Don't underestimate the importance of this. The housewives in the nation raised Cain because foods aren't dated and they have a valid point. I submit, however, that the medicines that are taken for illnesses are just as important as food. Usually a person's health, and how well he responds to treatment of an illness, depends on his taking medicine which has not deteriorated from age.

Doctors could probably help solve this problem by writing on their prescription pad, "please label with expiration date for usefulness." The reason doctors often don't do this is they expect their patients to take the medicine that has been prescribed for them. Thus the doctor prescribes just the amount of medicine he wants the patient to have and there should be none left over.

Doctors are trusting souls and we often think that our patients take the things we give them. The truth is, they often don't or they take the medicine they have been given for a few days and after they feel better they stop even though they haven't taken the full course of treatment. Not only can this be dangerous to the individual's health, but it provides a ready stock of unused medicine. Your situation is a good example.

This is one of the ways a lot of dangerous medicines are available for children or to be taken by mistake. Just remember, old medicine is often not good medicine. Throw away all medicine that your doctor has prescribed for you that you have not used.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Do you consider eating sunflower seeds harmful to your health? My granddaughter, who is in her teens, likes them so well she eats them by the pack.

Dear Reader — No, they're not harmful, provided she can afford that many calories. If they've been prepared by being roasted in oils, they'll have more grease and obviously contain more calories. The oil in raw sunflower seeds is very rich in polyunsaturated fats and contains very few saturated fats. To the extent that there is an advantage to eating the vegetable polyunsaturated fats as opposed to the animal saturated fats, they may even be beneficial.

A Recycled Bowling Alley Set At Show

Recycling is becoming a household word, but who ever heard of a recycled bowling alley?

Well, one will be on display — at least parts of it will — during an ecology arts and crafts fair to be held in conjunction with Land, Living and Leisure-time Expo-72. Expo starts Saturday in the Arlington Park Exhibition Hall and will run for nine days.

Artist Charles Fyfe will exhibit tables and chess boards made from the remains of a bowling alley. Another artist, Ann Hallebach, will demonstrate what can be done with egg shells. More than 100 artists and craftsmen will join the two at Expo to present their art form — art from natural or recycled materials.

Jan Messenger, owner of Harper Galleries in Chicago and director of the art show, said several American Indian tribes will also exhibit their art. Representatives of the Chippewa, Winnebago, Pima-Pago and Apache tribes are expected to illustrate Indian culture, she said.

She said all items on display will be for sale. Further information on the art show may be obtained by calling MU 4-1173.

Admission charge for the entire exhibition, which will feature land developers products of the future which exist today, is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Harper Expands Nursing Program

Expansion is planned for the Harper College nursing program with funds recently awarded by a federal nursing grant program. Funds were authorized for the college by the Nurse Training Act of 1971.

The grant is contingent upon an enrollment increase in the college nursing program. Harper has raised enrollment capacity of the associate degree nursing freshman class this fall from 80 to 120 students.

Grant funds will permit the hiring of additional nursing faculty and provide for curriculum improvement. In addition, a training and education program will be set up for persons who have worked as practical nurses under former licensing procedures, which are now invalid. The program will prepare individuals to take current state LPN exams.

Joanne Heindl, coordinator of associate degree nursing, said curriculum improvement will include changes in some teaching methods.

A practice nursing laboratory, soon to be equipped at Harper, will furnish an opportunity for teaching skills with an emphasis on individualized instruction.

Warman, Hyde Criticized

Candidate Shifts Are Hit

It seems incredible that we have a state law which permits candidates, who have either avoided running in a primary altogether, or lost a primary election and switched districts shortly afterwards, to still show up on the November ballot.

The law, which lacks safeguards for the protection of citizen participation (also known as democracy), made it possible for State Rep. Henry Hyde to lose a primary and still go on for another chance in the regular election, and for Edward Warman to suddenly replace the candidate which voters had to evaluate in the primary, for reasons known only to the politicians who managed the whole coup.

Where does this leave the voter? What effect does this have on people who bothered to go to the polls for the primary election? How do those people feel, for example, who we know rang doorbells and worked tirelessly to defeat Hyde on the basis of his strong stand against legislation governing women's rights?

In the case of the Warman candidacy, what kind of democratic process is it whereby a closed committee of two picks one candidate to replace another before the first one is even officially withdrawn from the race, leaving voters to read about it in the newspapers after it is all over?

Ed Warman was originally slated to run for the House in the 15th District, where he lives. He withdrew, fearful that he would lose when he did not get support from Chicago Democratic leaders. However, had he run and lost, we would still have him on the ballot here in the 4th District, because the law allows politicians to play these little games unchal-

I hope that in deciding which candidates to support, voters will consider the moral implications involved, and that they will also insist on legislation for this state which will guarantee that the commitments they make in a primary election, both in terms of energy and the vote, will not prove to be a total waste of time.

Dumped In Dist. 36's 'Siberia'?

Another teacher assigned to District 26's "Siberia," the proverbial dumping ground of the district! As late as Thursday, August 31, when her classroom was all prepared for the opening of school and lesson plans made out, the transfer was announced and carried out.

We have acquired a superintendent who has a history of controversy for as many years back as one wishes to pursue his employment record.

By words from his own mouth, he is afraid of people, particularly people with problems. Rather than meet them, he attempts to cover this weakness up by diverting their attention to all the "wonderful plans he has for the district." So far, unfortunately, to those who can see and who care, he has been all too successful.

He has created nothing but havoc and confusion in a district that had been unique in this area for its harmony (not stagnation) and fiscal stability. Now, costs that normally the district should assume are directed by this man to River Road's (Maryville) account so that the state will pick up the tab. Money and labor power are wasted as a direct result of ignorance in management.

In several cases he has replaced dismissed or reassigned personnel with friends and/or people who have recently been dismissed from previous positions. I ask, are there any more "revolutionary" tactics that could be used?

Yet, our "enlightened" board, so enlightened that they do not have to look into both sides of the issues, granted this man a sizeable raise for the coming year!

Without a doubt, most of the people serving on District 26's School Board are so richly endowed with knowledge and wisdom that this service must be exceedingly degrading. Why not consider resigning your positions to "ordinary folk" who still treat people as human beings, and, go use your talents where they will be more appreciated?

the butchers have to work overtime? We only need one butcher on hand during late hours; he could come in at 5:30 p.m. and leave at midnight when the store closes, which is 3 1/2 hours a week and make up the rest of the time on Sunday for a 40 hour week, at regular pay. For a store that still closes at ten the men could juggle hours taking turns taking the later hours. Since other places have meat after hours I can't believe that Cook County unions can't come to terms that are fair to everyone (including the consumer). If meat is available longer hours more meat would be sold giving more butchers work.

By the way, I have never found butchers' wives to be such good cooks.

'Mail Carriers Need Consideration'

The lack of cooperation by the village administrators of Mount Prospect with the United States Post Office Department is regrettable.

The Village President, speaking at last night's meeting, did not think persons working for the government should be given special consideration. The mail carriers need special consideration as an aid to prompt mail delivery and they are doing a terrific job no one else wants. They should be given encouragement, instead of harassment. At the same time it is all right to give Village workers free parking space when everybody else pays, that is the village policy.

For over ten years letter carriers have been parking their cars on Maple Street without harassment from the police department. There was a gentlemen's agreement by the village and post office, over the years, allowing this parking.

Without announcing the agreement's termination, and without announcing to the letter carriers that they would no longer be allowed this privilege — our new Police Chief sent his men to tag all these carriers with parking violations. This bad practice is annoying to our good citizens.

When the village allowed this parking in this area for over ten years, they brought into effect the Common Law. This means any practice allowed over sure greater teacher-supervisor understanding. Secret notes in an individual's personnel folder serve neither the Board, administrator nor teacher well. All recordings of specific incidents should be signed by both teacher and supervisor indicating their agreement to the facts as stated. Disagreements could be arbitrated by a third party while events were still fresh in the minds of all. An employee should have access to all that is written about him so that he can learn from the evaluation of others, be it positive or negative. In addition, all those charged with the responsibility of evaluating should be given sufficient time and training to do such an important job. They in turn, should be evaluated on their performances as supervisors.

—An increase in supportive services to teachers, especially in the area of understanding and dealing with student behavior. Currently the school district has no consistent, on-going plan for teacher training in this or any other area. The Board has eliminated such supportive personnel as social workers and counselors, has reduced the number of nurses for the entire district to two, and has retained only three beleaguered psychologists who test children experiencing learning or behavioral difficulties in school, but obviously have no time to treat them. The reinstating of these positions should take higher priority than the addition of central administration personnel.

Personnel hearings are bound to severely strain many working relationships. Hopefully the Board and Dr. Strong will squarely face this fact and make every effort to open meaningful dialogue between themselves, teachers and the community so that children may be better served.

Praises Stories Of Handicapped Children

I would like to extend my sincere thanks for the interest that the Des Plaines Herald has shown for improving the education of handicapped children.

Prompt action was taken by Kathy Boyce regarding my letter to you of August 18 and she is to be commended.

The articles published were certainly a credit to the dedication of all concerned in serving the community and making the public aware of the plight of these children.

Keep up the good work!

Let's Examine Parking Tickets

Your story in the Wednesday Herald concerning the young lady with the parking problem was most interesting and provocative. It would seem to be that some of its implications should provide a springboard for some of the top quality interpretative reporting of which your staff is capable.

For example, the story mentions the present parking ticket penalty of $3 (if paid in 72 hours, after which it is $5). One wonders how this compares to the assessments in other area municipalities, one wonders also if parking violations are being considered by this village administration as a source of income, with this the reason for the current crackdown, rather than the necessity of keeping places open for parking shoppers.

The story is also a reminder of what seems to be a standing procedure in many downtown Arlington stores and offices of permitting, even encouraging employees to park in shopper meter areas simply by feeding the meter every hour or two. I have on many occasions personally observed young ladies in the Dunton court not casually stuffing four or five meters where cars are parked on what would seem to be an all-day basis.

And finally, the story mentions that semi-secret group — those who have permits to park without fee in shopper meter areas. It might be awfully interesting to find out who these "I gotta clout" permit-holders are. Certainly it would be disillusioning if they would turn out to be the very merchants who complain the loudest about the lack of parking strangulating the downtown area. The names, I would assume, are a part of the public record.

Reader Blasts Short Hours For Butchers

Mrs. Sperling's letter to the editor regarding late butcher's hours really made my blood boil. How could you possibly claim that someone hasn't researched an opinion and then have the nerve to call anyone who can't get their meat during office hours Mrs. Social Life? Do you realize that there are families who practically live on canned ham, hot dogs, frozen dinners and such meat because the head of the family works such hours that it makes it impossible to get to the store before the meat counter closes? This is well researched because I had the problem for years. My husband left for work at 7:00, arrived home at 7:00 and worked all day Saturday. When in that schedule could I run out and buy meat?

When a woman works she has only Saturday to shop, laundry, take children to doctors, go to the dentist, etc. — she can take a load off her demanding Saturday if the butchers who are in a service industry (believe it or not) would take "giving service" seriously and see to it that we could obtain meat after 6 p.m. I for one don't care if a butcher is on hand or not because I've seen them pack up the meat and put it in the refrigerator — that same meat comes out the next day for the customers.

Now for the economics of it. Why do

'Let's Broaden Butchers Hours'

I've read with interest Paddock's recent articles and letters to the Fence Post regarding extension of the butchers' and meat cutters' hours, and wish to express my comments and opinions. As I see it, it's not so much of a problem of extending the butchers' hours, as it is of just being able to purchase meat in any store after 6 p.m. I have a simple solution to the matter, simply put, to let consumers be able to buy meat that is still in the coolers after the now specified time of 6 p.m. If meat is there, let consumers be able to purchase it.

Any homemaker who does her main meat buying at any large supermarket knows all too well the great difficulty of getting any meat specially cut before 6 p.m., anyway. For instance, if steak is on a special that week, just try to get a special cut of one even before 6 p.m. The meat cutters usual remark is, "Oh, we're wrapping more, they'll be out in 10 minutes." Unfortunately, their 10 minutes is more like 25-30 minutes, and then you have to rummage and grab at the cellophane packages. Or ask for a pound of meat ground or fresh ground beef, they'll either charge you more for grinding or direct you to the many packages in the cooler already.

In other words, the meat cutters in today's supermarkets pre-package all meats for both their convenience and the customer's convenience. They rarely cut or grind to your needs or specifications. That's not to say all chain store meat departments operate this way, but the majority do. They do their job of packaging various cuts of meat and keep the cooler stocked, and when 6 p.m. rolls around they neatly section off and cover the packages of meat indicating consumers can no longer purchase it.

As a homemaker concerned with quality and freshness of our meals main staple, I've often wondered what they do with the meats they conveniently pre-packaged and haven't sold by 6 p.m. Is it left to be purchased by the next morning's shoppers, discounted, dumped out, or just what? Doesn't it make more sense to keep the meat "moving" thus assuring shoppers that the meat in the cooler is from that day, not yesterday's or the day before's?

I feel that if chain stores, especially since more and more are staying open later, have full meat counters before 6 p.m., and they usually are well stocked or enough to make a good selection from, let consumers be able to buy any meat that's packaged and there after 6 p.m.

If a shopper is really in need of a special cut or order, why not have a call-in system. The shopper can call the meat department anytime before 6 p.m., tell the meat cutter what she would like, and simply pick it up at her convenience. In doing this, there would be no reason to hire additional meat cutters after 6 p.m. and no need for a skeleton crew as was mentioned in some comments from other people.

As far as the smaller, independent food stores or meat cutters are concerned, I do feel they should be able to make their own decision to stay open later or close at 6 p.m. Usually the smaller, independent food stores have meat cutters who do cut to your desire, but again the call-in system would work well.

One letter was written to the Fence Post by a woman who couldn't understand how anyone couldn't make it to the store by 6 p.m. any one of six days to do meat shopping. Unfortunately, many people work odd hours, hold down full as well as part time jobs, don't get home until well past 6 p.m. each evening, or simply have no means to get to a store until later in the evening. Hasn't that woman noticed the era of the corner grocery store has long gone?

Fortunately, we are a two car family, but each time I shop, I have to bring at least one of my children along. It's a big enough job watching that they don't fall out of the shopping cart or put something in I don't wish to purchase, let alone maneuver a shopping cart through a busy meat section. My children have been bumped and pushed many times by other people, no matter how very careful I try to be to keep my cart to the side.

The later shopping hours are a blessing to many mothers, or anyone else who must work late, and it would be perfect if it could include meat buying, too.

One last note, your mention of a butcher in your articles should be clarified slightly. A butcher is one who slaughters livestock and a meat cutter, not a butcher, is what's found at meat counters; one who simply cuts and wraps what's sent to him by the butcher.

Perhaps my common sense approach and housewife logic will reach the right people and some changes for the "after 6 p.m. shopper" will come about.

Another View Of Armstrong Fracas

After reading your editorial in the Buffalo Grove Herald on Friday, Sept. 1, several thoughts came to my mind and it appears that it may be entirely too late to speak of possibilities of conflict of interest between Otis Development Company and President Gary Armstrong.

Mr. Armstrong seems to think that refusing to commit himself or take a position on any subject relieves him of the burdens of the office he swore to uphold. Your editorial put it succinctly that's not why he was elected and he should not have placed himself in a position which forces him to take this view.

It seems inconceivable that Otis Company would interview and hire a person to fill the position of marketing director in a few days. It appears very possible that Mr. Armstrong was under consideration while the negotiations for annexation were in progress. I wonder if Mr. Armstrong would have secured the position had Otis Company been turned down by the Village Board?

It is my understanding that Buffalo Grove has struggled for years, both in court and out of court, to prevent Long Grove from securing any kind of buffer strip, to prevent additional growth. However, even against advice of the village attorney, an agreement was signed to this effect (labeled illegal by the village attorney) and the way was smoothed for the Otis Company annexation. Were they then considering Mr. Armstrong for a position?

Mr. Armstrong has admitted that he was considering employment with Levitt and Sons. This company is petitioning the municipality for annexation. Can Mr. Armstrong be objective when he negotiates with a group who were considering him for employment?

The Naperville Ordinance has been under consideration by the Village for many months. Was Otis Company required to fulfill its provisions or was its passage deferred to facilitate them? Were the financial guidelines established by School District 96 met?

It should be pointed out, in concurrence with your editorial, the present Village Board, with one exception, was elected with, or appointed by Gary Armstrong and it would take a strong imagination to believe that they would not concur with his opinions.

Isn't it a shame that the only pleasure in life is to have a dog or a cat for a companion. Don't we have enough bills and worries with assessments, water bills, and sewers etc.

Someone to talk to and take walks with. Aren't the prices on food and clothes high enough. We are the middle class and can't afford a $40,000 home. Think of the expenses there.

Isn't there any more feeling for us humans. Where would the fresh salesman be if we didn't trade in their store. Well,

During his campaign for election, Mr. Armstrong cited his excellent position and years of experience with Rand McNally, as an administrator, as qualifications for election yet, he has given all this up. I agree with your editorial that serious mistake has been made by Mr. Armstrong but I think it's too late for the Village of Buffalo Grove.

Noise Study Lauded

We were delighted to read about the survey measuring aircraft noise levels surrounding O'Hare Airport, which was made by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency and Congressman Abner Mikva.

Those of us who are affected by this constant noise pollution will be most grateful if some relief comes as a result of this investigation.

With all the scientific knowledge available in this modern day, it is hard to believe that we cannot do something about the excessive noise from landings and takeoffs at the airport.

When Cong. Mikva, who has introduced several bills in Congress regarding this problem, said, "The people feel the noise is so loud, nobody can hear them complaining," we felt he was talking about the many of us here in Park Ridge who have been protesting for years with no one listening.

We sincerely hope that something will finally be done about the noise, and now that this survey is being conducted, we urge our fellow residents to join us in giving one extra loud yell — maybe this time they'll hear us!

The Toll Road No One Needs

What may be the biggest boondoggle in state highway history is nearing completion across the cornfields of northern Illinois.

The 69-mile extension of the East-West Tollway — stretching from Aurora to Rock Falls — is to be finished about the end of the year.

It would have been finished even earlier — about Oct. 1 — if the wet summer weather hadn't interfered.

But whether it's finished in a month, or by the end of the year, the larger question is whether the road is needed at all.

And whether it's needed or not needed, the injustice is in how the bill will be footed.

It will be paid for, perhaps in large part, by revenue from tolls on other toll roads in the state's present 187-mile toll system. That particularly means the Tri-State Tollway. An enormous revenue-producer and essentially a commuter tollway used by people traveling back and forth in the Chicago area.

The Illinois Tollway Authority knows that, and has gone ahead with the East-West extension despite the original premise that all roads in the state's toll system would be pay-as-you-go, with the eventual goal of making all of them free.

The authority was told the extension — which sweeps through rural country past DeKalb and Dixon on its way to Rock Falls — wouldn't pay its own way in a study by Wilbur Smith and Associates of New Haven, which said there would have to be some subsidy.

The authority went ahead anyway, breaking the spirit of a pledge by former Gov. William Stratton, who said in 1955 when the original $415 million toll road system was proposed that it would become free when all bonds were paid off.

That goal was very much in sight for the Tri-State, the bonds for which were on the way to being retired in 1976, years ahead of schedule. The Northwest, too, had bonds headed for early retirement, about the same time.

Now, it's anyone's guess when — if ever — the goal can be achieved. Bonds for the East-West extension will mature in 2010, and since money from our local toll roads will have to subsidize the payment, it may be at least that long before the tolls are lifted.

The outrage of this is that the Tri-State and Northwest — especially the Tri-State — are unlike other toll roads. They are for the most part commuter roads, bleeding the same users every day. It's unthinkable to extend that tariff one day more than necessary.

The situation is worse because of doubt that the East-West extension is even needed.

It's a toll road being built in a day when the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of new freeways.

It's a toll road that currently will end at Rock Falls, really in the middle of nowhere, and it won't be truly functional for another two to four years, when freeway extensions are planned to carry drivers on to Clinton, Iowa, and the Rock Island-Moline area of Illinois.

Worst, it's a toll road paralleling Interstate 80, a heavily-used freeway which already runs from Chicago to Rock Island-Moline.

Nothing can be done about the East-West extension now. It's virtually accomplished fact.

But there is a message for the future, and part of it is that the Tollway Authority seems to be a creature bent on perpetrating itself — a monolith looking for ways to keep its empire intact, rather than fading away as its various projects have been fulfilled.

There are ominous portents in that, because after the East-West extension, what?

It is time for the public, the General Assembly, and the governor to begin taking a close look at the Tollway Authority, making certain we have not created a monster bent on living forever.

Economy In The Mail

And who would have believed that a government agency for which annual deficits have become standard operating procedure should decide it could do without more money this year?

The warning had been out for some time that a new postage increase, from eight to nine cents for first-class mail, was coming up. But the Postal Service now says that as the result of internal economies and the elimination of 33,000 jobs (an achievement not necessarily all to the good in an economy with a chronic unemployment problem), it can make do for the time being on current income.

This may be, as Postmaster General Elmer T. Kalsen declares, an "historic achievement." But it is still only a very small step on a very long road. The Postal Service, underwritten this year by Treasury subsidy of $1.4 billion is a very long way from paying its own way as eventually required by the Act of Congress which created it out of the old Post Office Department in 1870.

Chances are strong that this is only a pause in steady escalation of postal rates. The nine-cent stamp may be back, and inescapable next year. But in an era of more and more money for less and less public service, it is certainly a refreshing pause.

With one possible hitch: How's your mail service been lately?

The Public's Issues

Politics, Education Still Mixed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The future of education in Illinois is a special interest to Bill Henkel, today's Public's Issues contributor. A native of Carlinville, Ill., now living in Chicago, Henkel is Consultant and Director of ED-RED, the Educational Research and Development Association, which speaks for educational matters before the Illinois General Assembly. He also is past coordinator of the legislative advisory committee of the Educational Service Region of Cook County, and recently received his PhD from Northwestern with a dissertation on state legislative efforts to implement a state board of education. That is his topic today.

by WILLIAM HENKEL

In this election year, the electorate of Illinois is constantly exposed to a great deal of political rhetoric proclaiming education as the Number 1 priority for the State of Illinois.

This proclamation is heard from candidates aspiring for both state and local office. A close examination of the Illinois General Assembly, unfortunately, reveals something to the contrary when considering education and implementation of the 1970 Illinois Constitution as a major priority. For that document, which was overwhelmingly approved by the voters of Illinois in December of 1970, specifically called for a State Board of

Bill Henkel

Education to replace the present Office of Public Instruction by July 1, 1971.

Unfortunately, Illinois today is no closer to implementation of a State Board of Education than when the present 77th session of the legislature convened in January, 1971.

The educational process in Illinois is presently structured under the Office of Public Instruction, an elective partisan office headed by Dr. Michael J. Bakalis. Because of its political orientation, the Office of Public Instruction has not consistently provided local school districts in Illinois with the kind of competent, professional and forward-looking assistance necessary in providing "quality education" for all boys and girls in Illinois.

The Illinois General Assembly has been experimenting since the early 1900s with numerous attempts to attain legislative implementation of a state board of education and abolition of the elective Office of Public Instruction. It was envisioned by many that a State Board of Education would be administered by an appointed chief educational officer.

However, every attempt for legislative implementation has resulted in failure. Supporters of a state board were beginning to question if the legislative process was the proper vehicle for their purpose, especially at a time — 1970 — when many citizens were demanding a complete revision of the antiquated Illinois Constitution.

Following upon the work of the 1970 Constitutional Convention's Education Committee and presentations by interested organizations, the 116 men and women who composed the Sixth Illinois Constitutional Convention agreed that Illinois should adopt a state board of education with an appointed chief officer. However many important issues necessary to the successful implementation of the board were left unresolved by the Convention, for actual determination by the current 77th Illinois General Assembly.

The 77th General Assembly was then charged with the awesome responsibility of implementing the entire Illinois 1970 Constitution in the short period of six months. Among the hundreds of issues requiring legislative action was creation of a state board of education to be headed by an appointive chief officer.

In creating such a board, the legislature had to determine: number of members, their qualifications, terms of office, and manner of selection or election. In addition, the scope of authority, powers and duties for the state board of education was left for legislative consideration and action.

A serious and concentrated effort was made by Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Hts.) in the early months of the session to create a state board of education. However, with the present Office of Public Instruction not to expire until January, 1975, legislators could not visualize any great sense of urgency for immediate adoption of Mrs. Chapman's bill.

Prediction of legislative behavior in Illinois is a risky and uncertain venture. Because of the frequency of change in membership and leadership, legislative deliberations traditionally have resisted critical analysis. Enthusiasm for a state board of education has long been on record. Unfortunately, Illinois is one of the last two states in the nation yet to establish such a board. This lag is a direct result of legislative indecision or inability to successfully implement a state board.

The legislature is totally aware of the kind of dilemma facing Illinois' first state board of education. Refusing to subordinate political preferences further compounds the chaotic circumstances surrounding establishment of that board.

Many legislators, unfortunately, are politicians first and lawmakers second. In order to annually function as legislators, re-election every two or four years is mandatory. However, the education of 2.5 million boys and girls in Illinois is far from a political issue. Refusal to implement a state board until political balance or leverage is determined simply constitutes a breach of the public interest. No board can act responsibly if appointed only a matter of days before the existing education office expires.

One must conclude that the Illinois General Assembly does not view education today as of first priority. The Assembly will implement a state board of education when the political climate appears to be opportune for those in control of the legislative process.

The next time your favorite politician proclaims "Education is Illinois' number one priority, ask what happened to the State Board of Education ????

The Fence Post

'Meat Men Have It Made'

"Meat Cutter: 'Pay Too Low'" (Herald Fence Post, Aug. 30, 1972, by William Luebke). This title is a laugh. I've worked in the grocery business for 15 years, from part time stock to store manager. I've worked in a lot of stores including various large chain stores, and some of my best friends are meat cutters.

But, let's be truthful, meat cutters have it made. They come in at 7 to 4, 8-5, or 9-6, depending on the size of the store. They don't bag, check, or take carry outs for the customer. They don't have to walk 100 miles a day like produce men or stock clerks. Everyone else has staggered hours, especially assistant managers, but not our meat cutters.

Meat cutters start out as an apprentice, usually serving three years. But, if the company needs meat men, they shorten it down to two years, just to hire this man.

Meat men don't worry if a customer comes in at 5 p.m. and has a good variety of meat to choose from, for the market closes at 6. But when a customer comes in at 5:30, and can't find a good steak, she asks him for one. Most of the time he will tell her that that's all there is, for he doesn't want to go in back and break down another side of beef or a hind quarter just to get what the customer wants. At exactly 6 p.m. he is out the door no matter what. I've seen meat men stand up to the time clock at five to, and wait to punch out at 6.

They have more ways of doctoring up meat than a builder has in covering up his mistakes. The meat union is a strong one and backs their people up all the way. This is good sometimes, but 9-6 is old fashioned. They don't want to change because they are so called banker hours in the grocery business.

Chains tried to work meat men to 9 p.m. for premium pay, but most men don't want to. The meat union says apprentices can't work alone, only journeymen, who are overpaid now and underworked. They are no different than other people who work in the stores. They're not butchers, butchers know how and have skinned the hides and gutted the beef. Only a handful of meat cutters now-a-days can do this.

A good grocery clerk has three speeds, normal, fast, and faster, and usually running trying to get his work done, but a butcher has only one slow speed (low?). The meat cutter who has been working for only two to three years in the business makes more than a stock clerk who has pushed five years.

No, I can't say that the chain stores have been running down meat cutters, meat cutters are making big money now and are working very little for it. There is no reason why, for a meat cutter, who works after 6 to get premium pay, which would up the price of meat. They should have a 9-9 contract with no premium pay, and start acting like people who care for people. . . . Wake up fellows, times are changing, change with them. . . . oh, yes, no name please, as I only have my automatic stamper to protect me and the butchers' with their cleavers.

Who Owns Meat?

In all the controversy over hours meat can be sold in local stores, I have yet to see the basic issue touched. To whom does the meat belong? As I understand the economics of the operation, the store owner(s) purchase the meat, which is later sold to their customers. The butchers are employees of the store owners. They are paid for the service they perform. What I fail to understand is why the butchers' union is allowed to dictate to the owners when this meat can be sold. Why are butchers given control over something that is not theirs?

Even the superficial issues raised by opponents are weak. No man need work longer hours than he wants. The shifts of other unionized supermarket employees are scheduled to accommodate other varied closing hours with no apparent problems. Any increased costs should be covered by increased sales. The rest of the country, where meat is sold at all store hours, have encountered no cost difficulties.

What really seems to be at stake is union clout.

Business Today

OCEAN CITY, Md. (UPI) — This is the "hottest growing town on the East Coast," boasts Mayor Harry W. Kelly. And he has figures to prove it.

Developers of a nine-mile narrow strip of man-made beach were issued permits for $54 million in new construction in the first half of 1972. That compares with $4.4 million for the first six months of 1971. With few exceptions, the construction projects involve condominium apartments in buildings rising as high as 20 stories.

"Condominiums are the answer to a second home for many people," said local real estate broker David Blakeman, "and they're very easy to resell."

Land value has doubled, tripled and quadrupled in Ocean City the last three years. Naturally that has made a lot of people happy. But not everyone.

"Good financing is the key to it all," Boinus said. "Twenty to 25 year financing makes it attractive to the buyer because he has to put down only $10-12 thousand and can sell for a reasonable profit if he gets in a bind."

Some residents complain about the noise of year-round construction and want officials to ban building in the summer resort season. Others feel the building boom is one sided—virtually all condominiums and few hotels and motels. MAYOR KELLY says he's "not concerned at this point. Condominiums attract financially well-off people."

The units, with one to four bedrooms, range between $25,000 and $65,000 on the ocean front and average $45,000.

"New four bedroom townhouses I sold for $28,000 in 1966 are now going for $55,000 on resale," Blakeman said.

"Instead of a three-month season we're going to a nine-to-10 month season. Year-round living on a large scale will be here within five years."

"We're gradually moving toward a year-round city, but the economic factors have to be worked out — like the labor force, schools — a community college is a must," said the mayor.

"We've kept up with the needs, even built a huge convention center and without a deficit. We haven't had to touch the tax rates."

The "gold rush" into this resort town, quickly becoming a small metropolis, creates no local fears about a "ghost town" ever developing.

"Ocean City has come a long way," says Blakeman. "What we're really selling here is not condominiums. It's the ocean."

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

It often sounds (or is made to sound) like one of those magic-money-maker schemes — a bit of financial sleight-of-hand that multiplies your dollars PRE-STOP! like rabbits being pulled from a hat. It's called "funding," a relatively new financial wrinkle.

Funding entails a combination purchase of mutual fund shares and life insurance. First you buy the shares. Then they're pledged as collateral against a loan, the borrowed money being used to pay the premiums on the insurance. The salesman will show you charts illustrating how this can somehow work a kind of minor magic with your money.

Funding can, in fact, give you more financial muscle, because it is basically the use of leverage. For the same reason, it can also dig you into a financial hole, because leverage works both ways.

As an example of how it works suppose you've found some 8 per cent bonds that look good. Buy $5,000 worth, and you have investment income of $400 a year. Now, leverage: you take the bonds to your bank, using them as collateral to borrow $4,000, at 6 per cent interest. Invest the additional $4,000 in bonds, and you have investment income of $720, less the $240 you pay the bank as interest — giving you net income of not $400, but $480. Leverage has raised the return on your $5,000 of capital from 8 per cent to 9.6.

LEVERAGE WORKS fine so long as your borrowed money is making more for you than it's costing you. When the reverse is true, you're headed into the hole.

The typical funding program requires you to invest a minimum of $750 a year in mutual fund shares. The shares are then pledged as collateral against a loan of $300, which is used to pay the premium on whatever amount of insurance $300 a year will buy for you, at your age. And on this $300 loan, you pay around 7 per cent interest.

It's generally a 10-year plan, with your debt building up at the rate of $300 a year, plus accumulated interest. At the end of 10 years — when you're required to pay it off — it would amount to roughly $4,435.

Whether all this works out to your advantage depends on how much (or if) your mutual fund shares appreciate over the years. The whole $750, by the way, won't be working for you, since most funding plans charge the usual "load" as commission on the shares, plus a custodial fee. It's possible to find no-load plans, but typically you'll find $675 of your $750 winds up invested in shares.

IF FORTUNE SMILES, your shares may appreciate at more than the 7 per cent you're paying on your premium loans. For example, if average appreciation is 12 per cent a year, you'd own shares worth about $13,287 at the end of 10 years. Pay off your debt, and you're ahead by a net of $8,832.

That's a few hundred better than if you'd paid the $300 insurance premium out-of-pocket, and invested the difference in a mutual fund yourself, without the benefit of "funding." Your do-it-yourself net, in a typical load fund, would be around $8,000.

THIS PORTABLE console stock-quotation machine gives New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock and private investors instant access to listing on the Bond Exchange.

Marketline Is New 'Gadget'

Instant Stock Quotations

Marketline, the new stock-quotation machine that gives private investors instant access to listings on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) and the American Stock and Bond Exchange (AMEX) offers broadened services to subscribers through a tie-in with NASDAQ — the Electronic Stock Market. (NASDAQ is an acronym for National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotations.)

Now gadget-minded investors who lease the portable consoles can push a few buttons and get an instant visual reading on any of more than 3,000 OTC stocks as well as the listed stocks of NYSE and AMEX. NASDAQ's stocks are updated each hour on the Marketline System.

Price quotations for NYSE and AMEX listings reflect those posted on the Exchanges 15 minutes before. The visual data, however, appears instantly on the display panel of the Marketline console immediately after the investor has queried the computer.

Marketline is a portable computer console. It can be used in the home, office, or anywhere that a telephone and an electrical outlet are available.

THE UNIT is activated by sound waves and linked via telephone to a centralized computer. The computer, in turn, is tied in with the New York Stock Exchange, the American Stock and Bond Exchange and now NASDAQ.

The portable console, which weighs less than 4 pounds, is designed to give such visual price information as open, high, low and last price for listed stocks, plus the bid and asked price for over-the-counter stocks.

The Marketline service is available for less than a dollar a day on an annual basis. The system was designed by Sonex, the company that made the telemetry instrument that relays back to earth biomedical information on the condition of the Apollo astronauts as they walk on the moon.

The consoles, which look something like telephones, also depend on the telephone for their vital computer link. To operate, the subscriber first dials a certain number on his phone which connects him with a computer. He then pushes a few more buttons for the specific price or other information he wants. Instantly, the data is flashed on the 3-square-inch display panel of the console.

Marketline, a division of Sonex, Inc., is located in Huntingdon Valley, Penn. Early last year the company began an expansion into commercial date communications products and systems.

Thieves Beware Of Bugged Bugs

Volkswagen announced that it has developed an electronic burglar alarm system for its passenger cars and station wagons and warned car thieves to be particularly wary of "bugged bugs."

According to Friedrich Hanau, vice president and general manager of Volkswagen North Central Distributor, Inc., the new alarm system provides break-in protection at four different entry points on a VW and, aside from preventing car theft, also will serve to deter thieves from stealing a driver's personal belongings.

Available with either a bell or siren warning system, the "Buglar" alarms, as Hanau dubbed them, are installed unobtrusively and provide protection for engine compartments, doors, glove compartments and hoods — the kind you'll find on a car, not in the movies. The system's mechanism, after being set by the mere turning of a key, is triggered whenever any one of these areas may be disturbed and also when an attempt might be made to remove batteries from under rear seats, where they're located on VWs.

Car thefts in recent years have been increasing. Despite a campaign by the National Automobile Theft Bureau to get motorists to lock their cars and pocket their keys, no appreciable improvement in the situation has been noted, said Hanau.

Buzz Off

Have you seen the new mosquito repelling gadget that keeps the pests at least three feet away? It works on low-intensity ultrasonics. It costs eight to ten dollars, operates on a small battery. Supposedly it's not harmful to the human system, but this hasn't been fully tested yet. Some of the larger systems can keep rats away from a two to three hundred square yard area. There have been some rumors that the government is testing more sophisticated ones for riot control, causing temporary blindness.

I doubt if Landwehr's Home Appliances, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, will service this kind of gadget, but we find the idea interesting. Our electronic gear assures accurate testing on color TV and radio only. Phone 255-0700 for assured services.

Diabetes Unit Will Meet Sept. 21

The Northwest suburban branch of the Diabetes Association of Greater Chicago will hold its first meeting of the new year at 8 p.m. Sept. 21 held at Chippewa Junior High School in Des Plaines. Diabetics and parents of juvenile diabetics are welcome.

According to a suburban branch spokesman, one person out of 125 has diabetes mellitus that has not been detected. One person out of every 20 has diabetes or will develop it during his lifetime. Diabetes is the fifth leading cause of death by disease, the second leading cause of blindness. Heart attacks are at least 2½ times more frequent in diabetics than nondiabetics of the same age.

Early detection of diabetes can mean early treatment and better control.

The Diabetes Association of Greater Chicago and its area branches are non-profit organizations set up to further better public understanding of the condition, foster early detection and serve families of those involved with diabetes.

The local branches furnish volunteer workers for the association's office, man-the association's booth at area health fairs and hold fund-raising events for research.

For more information about the Northwest Suburban Branch, contact Mrs. Henry Weardahl, 902 Quince Lane, Mount Prospect, 60058, or Mrs. Gerald Andresen, 402 E. Virginia, Bensenville, 60106.

This is where shoplifting stops being "fun."

If you've ever thought about doing a little shoplifting, think again.

Think how easy it is to get caught.

Think how it must feel to get caught.

Think how you'd answer the question that's on every job application, "Have you ever been arrested? If so, explain."

Think how—to the people you know, and the people you love, and yes, even to yourself—you can never be the same person again.

Think about it.

Fashion Parade Introduces Staff At Workshops

Faroff India provided the atmosphere for the Paddock Publications annual publicity workshops held last week as members of the Suburban Living staff combined fun and information in their two-day presentation, first at the Plum Grove Club and next day at Northwest Suburban YMCA.

The department's two wizards with remnants and sewing machines, Marianne Scott and Dorie McClellan, this year whipped up fashions from India print bedspreads and tablecloths with an India numdah rug thrown in for good measure.

With Executive Editor Ken Knox as commentator, deviating occasionally from his appointed script with a few humorous remarks of his own, the staff modeled the colorful costumes. This year they even paraded the runway to authentic sitar music. . . on Ravi Shankar records.

TAKING PART in the show besides Mrs. Scott, women's editor, and her assistant, Mrs. McClellan, were Pat Adam, family living editor; Dorothy Oliver, women's editor for Des Plaines; Genie Campbell, fashion and arts editor; Fran Heckart, food editor; Monica Wilch, Eleanor Rives and Billie Bachhuber, staff writers; and Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, author of the Collecting column in each Friday's Medley section.

Following the fun part of the morning workshops, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. McClellan and Dom Najolia, staff photographer, conducted the portions on writing club publicity and arranging good publicity photos.

Nearly 300 club presidents and publicity chairmen attended this year's two workshops. This is the ninth year they have been held to help clubs and organizations whose news appears in Suburban Living.

The engagement of Kathleen Duffy to Charles R. Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weber, 77 W. Walnut St., Des Plaines, is announced by her parents, the Raymond Duffys of 525 W. Dempster St., Des Plaines. The wedding will take place next summer.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Elk Grove High School and a senior at the University of Illinois. Her fiancé, also an Elk Grove High graduate, has a bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois and is a student at Notre Dame Law School in South Bend, Ind.

An Oct. 21 wedding is planned by Virginia Yaste of Hoffman Estates and William Brenner of Chicago. Their engagement and marriage date are announced by Ginny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yaste, 206 Lafayette Lane.

A graduate of Conant High School, the bride-to-be is a research assistant in the experimental kitchens of Central Soya Co., Inc., Chicago.

Her fiancé, son of the Warren Brenners, studied at Loyola University and will soon join the Arlington Heights Police Department.

The engagement of Rebecca J. Dittmore to Clifford W. Sowka, son of the Ralph Sowkas of 541 W. Hellen Road, Palatine, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Dittmore of Muncie, Ind.

The couple are Palatine High School graduates, Rebecca then completing the dental hygiene program at Harper College and Clifford earning a degree from Northern Illinois University. The bride-elect now works at the Plum Grove dental building.

Their wedding is planned for Oct. 28.

Connie J. Carlstrom's engagement to Norman A. Chuff Jr. of Webster Groves, Mo., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Carlstrom of 522 S. Reuter Drive, Arlington Heights.

The couple met at Central Missouri State University at Warrensburg. They will be married next March 2.

Connie is a graduate of Arlington High School and Central Missouri and works for the Hallcrafters Co., Rolling Meadows. Norman, son of the Norman Chuffs, is a junior at the university.

Dr. and Mrs. Albert C. Larcombe of East Dundee, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter Elsa Margaret to Koji Yaguchi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Masaharu Yaguchi of 906 E. Patten, Palatine.

The wedding will take place Dec. 23.

The couple are both '72 graduates of the University of Illinois, Urbana. Elsa works as a research ecologist at Argonne National Laboratory, and her fiancé is a physics teacher at Schaumburg High School.

House, Garden Walk

Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club will sponsor a house and garden walk from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The walk, to be held from 1 to 5 p.m., begins at the Municipal Building, corner of Biesterfield Road and Wellington Ave., Elk Grove. For adults only, tickets are $1.50.

They Met At Summer Jobs

Many romances begin when couples meet in high school. But Debra Susan Moss and David Allen Marszalek went through Arlington High during the same years and never met.

They became acquainted the summer of 1970 while working together.

Lawrence A. Moss, 1018 N. Beverly, and David's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marszalek of 1344 N. Vail.

The couple exchanged vows and rings Aug. 19 at a five o'clock ceremony in St. Peter Lutheran Church. Afterwards there was a reception for 180 guests at the Des Plaines Elks Club.

DEBRA HAD two attendants, Linda Heishman of Des Plaines as maid of honor and Diane Heimsoth, Arlington, as bridesmaid.

David chose Rich Saxton of Arlington as best man, while ushers were his college roommate, Chuck Bryant of Maywood, and the couple's brothers, Chris Marszalek and David Moss. The bride's brother came from Warren Air Force Base in Cheyenne, Wyo. for the wedding.

The two bridal attendants were dressed in blue and lavender checked and floral striped gingham tied with lavender sashes. They wore picture hats and carried baskets filled with mixed flowers.

DEBRA'S GOWN was of white organza with an Empire bodice overlaid with a lace motif of daisies. The gown had a high neckline, long sleeves and an A-line skirt ending in a chapel train. The bride made her own bonnet headpiece and fingertip veil to match her gown. She carried ried frenched carnations, stephanotis, daisies and a few blue cornflowers mixed into the bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. David Marszalek

After the reception the bridal pair left for a week's honeymoon in the Wisconsin Dells area before they settled in DeKalb. The groom is a junior at Northern Illinois University but spent his first year at Iowa State. The bride had two years at Northern and will work in the university center.

To Install Mrs. D. Martiny President Of Double Dydee

Double Dydee Mothers of Twins Club will install newly elected officers at their meeting, Thursday evening. Mrs. Don Martiny, Mount Prospect, will be installed as president, Mrs. Pat Tuttle, Elk Grove, vice president, Mrs. Donald Jeanis, Palatine, secretary, and Mrs. Myron Tollefson, Buffalo Grove, treasurer. Mrs. Joe Gruspier, Prospect Heights, will be installing officer for the 8 o'clock meeting.

Plans to attend the Tenth Annual Convention of the Illinois Organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs will be finalized at this meeting. Double Dydee is hoping to have ten members attend the 2 day convention being held in Joliet this year on October 20 and 21.

Mrs. Bob Volck, Hoffman Estates, treasurer, reports that $2,947.14 was donated to Clearbrook School for the Retarded of Rolling Meadows. She also reports that $200 was donated to Illinois Organization of Mothers of Twins Club for their project this year, Lydia Children's Home of Chicago.

Dale, reporter; Mrs. Denny Walters, Elk Grove, picnic; Mrs. Lawrence Casey, Hoffman Estates, membership; Mrs. John Emmel, Buffalo Grove, social; Mrs. Jon Theeke, Rolling Meadows, banquet; Mrs. William Remer, Arlington Heights, advisor; Mrs. Lynda Peterson, Rolling Meadows, and Mrs. Joe Gruspier, ways and means; Mrs. John Lindsey, Wood Dale, editor; Mrs. Harold Chamberlain, Palatine, state representative.

Membership in Double Dydee is open to all mothers of multiple births. Meetings are the second Thursday of each month at Lauterburg and Oehler meeting room, 2000 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Tony Petricca, 529-8156, membership chairman.

Barrington Girl To Head Rainbow

Miss Bonnie Jean Ingram of Barrington will be installed as worthy advisor of Wheeling Assembly 81, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, in an open ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Arlington Heights Masonic Temple.

The installation is open to the public.

Bonnie is a senior at Barrington Consolidated High School, active in dramatic and music activities.

A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Cy Miller of Arlington Heights, who are retiring after many years in Rainbow and other Masonic work, will be held after the installation. Mrs. Miller has been mother advisor of the assembly for seven years.

Girls interested in Rainbow are invited to call Mrs. Beverly Stoker, 394-2826 for further information.

Bride Robin Koehler Wears Her Mother's Wedding Gown

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Sieger

For her walk down the aisle Robin Susan Koehler chose to wear her mother's wedding dress of off-white Chantilly lace over satin.

Robin became the bride of Alan Sieger Aug. 5 in a double ring ceremony performed at Faith Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights. Both bride and groom are residents of Arlington Heights.

Robin is the daughter of the George R. Koehlers of 137 S. Dwyer and Alan is the son of the Paul Siegers of 525 S. Reuter. Maid of honor was Debbie Loeser of Arlington Heights.

Bridesmaids included Jill Koehler, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Candy Guilfoil, Chicago, the bride's sisters; Laura Sieger, the groom's sister, of Arlington; Jeannette Casey of Arlington Heights and Debbie Grever of Lake Zurich.

DIAN COOPER, 3, of Hoffman Estates, the groom's niece, was the flower girl and ring bearer was Danny Guilfoil, 2, the bride's nephew.

William Bryk of Wauconda, who introduced Robin and Alan three and a half years ago, was best man for the ceremony.

Alan's brothers, Richard and Paul Sieger Jr., were ushers. Also in the wedding party were Dan Guilfoil, the bride's brother-in-law; Leighton Kidder of Wheeling and Darryl Heilm of McHenry.

Robin and Alan are both graduates of Arlington High School. Alan, who also studied one year at Harper College, is employed by Illinois Bell Telephone in Palatine. Robin works for Bowen Hardware. They are living at 1239 N. Illinois, Arlington Heights.

Future Members Invited To Tea

Mount Prospect Woman's Club will hold a tea for prospective members from 1 to 3 p.m. next Tuesday at the Mount Prospect Community Center.

Invitations will be mailed to all whose names have been given to the membership chairman, Mrs. George Hietanen, 296-8556. Those wishing further information may call Mrs. Hietanen or the president, Mrs. Jan Hanson, 259-8691.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. R. L. Howard, the club will sponsor a tag day Friday for the Park Ridge School for Girls. Monday and Tuesday club members will again man the TB X-ray Unit at Main and Busse, Mount Prospect. Noon to 7 p.m. are the Monday hours; 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday hours. Mrs. Wayne Osburn, chairman, may be called at 255-7361 for information on the Unit.

Decorating Help

If an off-center window in a smallish room poses a decorating problem, a shade, hung reverse-roll to hide the roller within the window frame, will come to the rescue by creating an illusion of more space — particularly when chosen in a color that blends with the wall. Painting the window frame a brighter tone will lend subtle definition. (UPI)

Bucknell Graduates Wed.

The First Presbyterian Church of Lewisburg, Pa., was the setting for the Aug. 19 afternoon wedding of Judith Evelyn Storr and Bruce Barrie Henderson. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Storr, now live in Mount Prospect but are former residents of North Plainfield, N.J.

Judith and her fiancé, son of the David Hendersons of Valencia, Pa., are recent graduates of Bucknell University in Lewisburg.

The bride wore a sata peau gown with Empire bodice, bishop sleeves and full skirt with chapel train. Chantilly lace and Venice lace formed a yoke for the bodice and also accented the train. The bride's headpiece was a Juliet cap of sata peau and lace, holding a bouffant two-tiered veil in place. Her bouquet was of daisies, roses and baby's breath.

MRS. MARYJO DeVaul was matron of honor in a gown of pale yellow dotted swiss, and she carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies. Susan and Wendy Henderson, sisters of the groom, were bridesmaids along with Mrs. Susan Biddle and Marty Bullers of Lewisburg. The bridesmaids wore mint green dotted swiss and carried bouquets of daisies.

David Henderson was his brother's best man. Ushers were friends of the groom: Robert Pazmino, Fredrick Junker, Timothy Keller and Thomas Parker.

After a luncheon at the church, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in New England.

Palatine Newcomers Invited To A Coffee

Two programs for newcomers to the Palatine area are planned by Palatine Newcomers Club.

This Thursday evening, a "Get Acquainted Night" will be held in Howard Johnson's Restaurant, Palatine, and next Wednesday, Sept. 20, an autumn coffee will be held in the Plum Grove Estates home of Mrs. Ed Echols.

Membership Chairman Mrs. E. L. Mathisen, 358-3506, is taking reservations for the get acquainted night which begins at 8 and will offer newcomers an opportunity to meet other newcomers.

The coffee, to be held at 224 E. Brookdale, will be co-hosted by Mrs. C. Evan Sinclair. Purpose, activities and social functions of the club will be explained by a board member. Reservations for the coffee are due Monday with Mrs. Adrian Mohr, 359-0129, chairman.

A St. Simon Garden Communion, Brunch

The women of St. Simons Episcopal Church will hold a garden communion and brunch Thursday, Sept. 28. It will be held at the home of Mrs. Scott Davis, 1102 W. Clarendon Road, Arlington Heights. Communion will begin at 9:30 followed by brunch.

Those attending will be bringing homemade or handmade items to sell in a boutique to be set up at the brunch.

LGH SERVICE LEAGUE

The Service League of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will hold its annual meeting Tuesday, Sept. 19, starting at 8 p.m. in the 10th floor dining room of the hospital.

Pastor Lawrence Holst, who spent the past year with his family working in Africa, will be the speaker for the meeting. He is director of the hospital's Pastoral Care Department.

Pastor Holst helped to develop a program of public health education among pastors in small, rural towns in Tanzania, East Africa. He also trained seminary students in clinical pastoral care and helped develop a chaplaincy program at the 320-bed Kilimanjaro Christian Medical Centre in Moshi, Tanzania.

Pastor Holst's work was financed by a grant from Martin Staunt, a member of Lutheran General Hospital's Board of Trustees.

Installation of the 1972-73 Service League officers will follow the program. All members are invited.

ST. THOMAS WOMEN

An "Around the World" potluck dinner will start off a new year for the St. Thomas of Villanova Woman's Club, Palatine. All women of the parish are invited to the dinner which will be held Thursday evening in the Lower Hall after the 7:30 mass in the church. Guild members will furnish the food.

OPEN DOOR SOCIETY

Northwest Chapter of Open Door Society will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Glenview home of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Freise, 235 Greenwood.

Elizabeth Maney, social worker from Illinois Child and Family Service, will speak on overseas adoptions. Further information is available by calling 392-9729.

Palatine Newlyweds Now Live On College Campus

During high school Deborah Lynn Keinath had a part time job dispatching cabs for Palatine Cab Co. On the driver end of the line last Christmas was Paul F. Schroeder Jr., who was also working part time for the cab company while home for the holidays from Illinois State University at Normal.

A romance began and now Debbie, a June '72 graduate of Fremd, has returned with Paul to Normal as his wife. Paul graduated from Harper and will be a senior at Illinois State where he is studying education.

DEBBIE MAKES her home with her grandmother, Mrs. Marian Keinath, 301 W. Palatine Road, Palatine, as does her father, Robert W. Keinath. Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P.A. Brianzoni, 953 Bissell Drive, Palatine.

The couple's double ring marriage ceremony took place Aug. 19 in Christ the King Church, Schaumburg, and the 3 p.m. service was followed by a reception for 100 in Mrs. Keinath's Palatine home. Debbie and Paul honeymooned in Ohio where they included a visit with Paul's maternal grandmother in Cleveland. She was unable to attend the wedding.

FOR HER marriage Debbie chose a floor-length gown of organza with Italian cut work lace and embroidery trim. The gown was made with train, short sleeves and high round neckline. A tiara of pearls held her waist-length veil, and she carried white carnations with a white orchid center.

Kimberly Bare, Palatine, was Debbie's

only attendant. She wore an Empire gown floor-length Empire gown with navy bodice and white skirt with daisy trim, and she carried white daisies.

The groom's brother William L. Schroeder, Palatine, was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother-in-law, Gary Wertz, Ludington, Mich., and the groom's brother-in-law, William Saki, Chicago.

DELTA PILOTS WIVES

The September luncheon of the Delta Airlines Pilots Wives Club will be held next Tuesday at the Barn of Barrington. A program, "Republicans for Nixon," has been arranged by the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Dunai and Mrs. Mac Braun.

A social hour begins at 11:30 a.m., and the luncheon will follow at 12:30. Reservations may be made by calling the president, Mrs. Jerry Reed, Crystal Lake, 815-459-4969.

EPSILON SIGMA ALPHA

Eugenia Chapman, Democratic State Representative for the 3rd District, was lead-off speaker recently for the Gamma Gamma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha at the Lake Zurich home of Mrs. Frank West. The entire educational program for the chapter will be built around various forms of government from the federal to the local school boards.

The chapter's next meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Ken Maher, Palatine. This will be a combination work night and rush "get-acquainted" with everyone present working on lap robes for the Addolorata Villa in Wheeling, one of the group's philanthropic projects.

SPLITTING A BANANA SPLIT are Missy Aby, 2, and her sister, Molly, 4. The children are looking forward to Sunday's Second Annual Old Fashioned Ice Cream Social sponsored by St. Hubert's Council of Catholic Women. The Social will be held in the school meeting hall, Hoffman Estates, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Scoops of ice cream and sundaes with toppings will be the fare of the day. All in the community are invited for a family fun afternoon.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I'm so tired of the standard dinner party routine I could scream (cheeses, smoked oysters, little dabs of herring and so on during every cocktail round). Aren't there any new ideas on how to break the dreadful pre-dinner cycle? —Helen P.

Another Helen I know is highly innovative about this sort of thing. She had one party buzzing by serving a spiked lobster soup in a tureen as the first course — right in the living room. It's a heavenly dish. She mixes together one can of cream of mushroom soup, one can of chicken soup with rice, one can of evaporated milk and then adds 8 ounces of lobster (or crab) meat, either from a can or the frozen kind. She heats it well and at the last minute stirs in 1/4 cup of bourbon whiskey. It can be made ahead of time, but the liquor has to be added at the last minute. I tried it, changing to sherry, and my company seemed to like it just as well. Give it a whirl.

Dear Dorothy: Because we're late evening snackers, I keep those little boxes of raisins around. We have a new use for them. My husband likes sliced bananas with his morning cereal, but you know how it is with bananas — half the time they're overripe. So one day recently he poured in some of the raisins and came up cheering. He claims they beat the dried kind that come in cereal by miles.

—Josephine Killey
He's right. Out of the box, they're fresh, soft and tasty. Good idea!

Tip for the new cook: When making a salad with hard-boiled eggs, always put in everything, including the mayonnaise, before the eggs. Only after mixing thoroughly add the eggs. One more slight tossing and your eggs won't get too messed up.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

'Guys And Dolls' A Sure Winner

by PAT ADAM

Wanna bet on a sure thing? Then put your money on Des Plaines Theater Guild. They've got a winner in "Guys and Dolls."

Even if you're not the gambling type, you'll get your money's worth and more from the Guild's production of this highly entertaining musical about those unimitable Damon Runyon characters, the guys and dolls who populated the streets of Broadway in his day.

Though it's more than 20 years since "Guys and Dolls" was a Broadway hit, the Frank Loesser musical with book by Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows has stood the test of time well. It's as entertaining as ever — no message, just pure fun.

The Guild cast puts its heart and soul into this production and a well chosen cast it is, headed by veteran Hank Vandenberg as the hustling Nathan Detroit, Marie Petersen as his doll, Hot Box dancer Miss Adelaide, Greg Ziomek as the gambling Sky Masterson and Pat Gallagher as the Salvation Army lass who wins Sky's soul.

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE to single out any member or any performance as outstanding because the entire company and the whole show merit that rating. From the round-like opening number sung by Nicely-Nicely Johnson (Dan Kreisman), Benny Southstreet (Steve Fife) and Harry the Horse (Jim Beddia) to the finale performances are consistently great.

But I had my favorites and so did the opening night audience.

Marie Petersen was nothing short of terrific as she sang "Adelaide's Lament" about what can happen to a girl when she's still unmarried after being engaged for 14 years (in her case, to Nathan Detroit)... "a person can develop a cold... a cough... la grippe." Besides possessing a voice that can belt out the lyrics and still not grate on the ear, Marie's diction is flawless and the lyrics have to be heard to fully appreciate this number. She's also a very sexy Hot Box doll.

Though Hank Vandenberg lacks the powerful singing voice of Greg Ziomek, his acting ability more than makes up for that. He's a delightful Nathan, operator of the oldest established floating crap game in New York... and a master at avoiding marriage to Adelaide while still remaining engaged. This guy Vandenberg can play about anything but he's especially good in comedy roles.

ZIOMEK'S VOICE is his greatest asset. A rather youthful Sky Masterson, he nonetheless holds his own as the gambler for whom the sky's the limit, hence his name. Greg showed great maturity in his love scenes with Pat Gallagher... sometimes the most difficult kind for amateurs.

Pat strode and frowned a bit too much, in my opinion, in her first appearance as the very proper mission doll, Sarah, but she was sensational in the Cuban night club scene where after imbibing spiked la leche (milk), she really lets loose in "If I Were a Bell." And she was also great in her duet with Adelaide, "Marry the Man Today."

The role of Nicely-Nicely Johnson made a star of Stubby Kay and it may very well do the same for Dan Kreisman with northwest suburban audiences. His number with the chorus, the rousing "Sit Down, You're Rockin' the Boat," brought prolonged applause.

Equally as good is Steve Fife as Benny. His experience as an actor in educational and industrial films and in TV and radio commercials is apparent in his professional handling of this role.

Jim Beddia took over for Jim Esposito opening night as Harry the Horse and did a commendable job.

OFTEN THE CHORUSES are a weak part of community theater. Not in "Guys and Dolls!" The gamblers (Nathan's boys) and the Hot Box girls exhibit both strong dancing and singing that add much to the show. Particularly good are "Take Back Your Mink" with Adelaide in the lead and the "Luck Be A Lady" scene with Sky, Nathan and the crap game guys in the sewer.

Special mention should be made of Dick Patchin as Big Jule, Hal Genesen as Sarah's grandfather, Arvide Abernathy, and Tom Wagner as Lt. Brannigan. Guild veteran Ed Sauer also delighted his fans with his interpretation of Angie the Ox.

Sets and lighting are really impressive, especially the Hot Box before the full lights go up. John Grabowski and Marshall Kievet are responsible. (One minor correction on the off Broadway set: It's Sardi's not Sadies.)

John Shaw gets the credit for the excellent musical direction and Linda Dwyer for the choreography, no easy job on the relatively small Guild stage. And Steve Strong makes a most successful debut as a Guild director with this production.

This show is no long shot. You can place your bets all on "win" at 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m. or at the box office at 620 Lee St., Des Plaines, this Friday and Saturday and the weekends of Sept. 22 and 23 and Sept. 29 and 30.

Speaking Of...

by KAY MARSH

Are you sick and tired of crime and grime? Maximum taxes and minimum services? Crowded schools? Pollution? A miserable climate? Limited job opportunities?

Then it's definitely your move. And most of us do, eventually. But where?

You might try a little town in Alabama that offers you some of the lowest living costs to be found anywhere. Or maybe you'd like a Maine village that offers you both skiing and swimming — all the blessings of the mountains and the seashore. Or perhaps you're hoping that there's still at least one place in Florida that offers what Florida used to offer before everybody else discovered it. Or just possibly you'd prefer the wide open spaces of the West — especially in the Arizona town that claims the purest air in the country.

So how do you decide? Well, there are a couple of 1972 books that combine a wealth of information with just plain interesting reading. If you've ever thought about moving anywhere for any reason — to find a new job, open your own business, retire or whatever — you owe it to yourself to browse through both of these.

"SAFE PLACES" is a big, beautiful 992-page book that sells for a hefty $13.95. Its authors, David and Holly Franke, traveled some 20,000 miles to pick 47 "peaceful paradises where the living is easy... and safe."

"Safe Places" is billed as an "Escapologist's Baedeker." It concerns itself in considerable detail with such matters of personal security as crime statistics, police departments, community services, health facilities, et cetera for each of its "safe places." It also provides extensive information on the local employment picture, housing costs, tax rates, educational opportunities, community life and ambience, as well as some details about the surrounding areas.

Luncheon Saturday For Terrace Women

The annual fashion luncheon for Arlington Terrace Homeowners Improvement Association is Saturday at Arlington Park Towers at 12:30 p.m.

This year's show will feature ensembles from Marge's Apparel Shop in Arlington and furs from John Pavlis of Chicago.

Luncheon chairman is Mrs. Nick Miljan; social chairman is Mrs. Thomas Huene. Members of the association will do the modeling, along with some of their daughters.

Tickets are still available from Mrs. Peter Miskinis, 259-7463.

Included, too, are general information and sources for further information, plus a wealth of miscellanea ranging from a map of California earthquakes to calendars of special events and climate statistics for various regions. The safe places, by the way, are to be found in some 35 of these United States — from Bellevue, Wash., to Dunedin, Fla.

WHERE TO RETIRE on a small income is a popular book by Norman D. Ford, issued this year in its 17th revised and enlarged edition. Its 200 pages sell for a modest $2.50. Written strictly from the standpoint of thrifty requirement, it deals with such matters as possibilities for gardening and part-time employment. It limits itself geographically to New England plus what the author calls the "retirement belt" and "America's island paradises." Most of the towns recommended feature the moderate climate that offers so many advantages to individuals seeking retirement.

What about the Midwest? Because of its emphasis on mild climate, the Ford book includes few midwestern towns. "Safe Places" does: Wabash, Ind., for instance; Grinnell, Iowa; Gaylord, Mich.; Ogallala, Neb.; Tiffin, Ohio; and Green Bay, Wis. The authors seem especially enthusiastic about Winona, Minn., which, in the words of commentator Paul Harvey, has "no pollution, no riots, no organized crime and no traffic congestion, no mass unemployment, no vacant houses, no overcrowded schools and no polo team." He added, "They're thinking about a polo team." Though most recommended towns are small, "Safe Places" also includes a few big city suburban communities for the affluent, such as Belvedere, Calif., and Wellesley, Mass.

"WHERE TO RETIRE on a small income" concentrates entirely on smaller towns with populations ranging from 2,500 to a maximum of around 50,000. Its special feature is a list of 24 Treasure Towns, called "America's most livable, worry-free towns."

Both books list some of the same towns — such as the ones mentioned at the beginning of this column. The Alabama town is Fairhope, which offers excellent swimming and fishing, a climate to rival the French Riviera, and maximum cultural opportunities, all at minimum cost. The Florida town is Mount Dora, only half an hour from Orlando but "far enough away to avoid the problems caused by the new Florida boom," at least according to the Franks. Flagstaff, Ariz., has the purest air in the nation. And Camden, Maine, is the picturesque New England community Ford describes as "superbly situated where pineclad hills sweep down to the sea."

But check your library and browse a bit in both these books. You'll probably find some great new places to visit — and maybe one will be just right to live in, in your future.

Police Communications To Get A New Look

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Police communications within suburban Cook County will be restructured under a new program of the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission.

Preliminary details of a plan for radio frequency allocations and centralized communication centers were revealed at a commission meeting yesterday.

The plan is designed to alleviate problems of uneven distribution of existing police radio frequencies and to eliminate congestion that hampers police communications.

Details of which suburban communities will share radio frequency assignments will not be made public until the proposed plan is finalized. The completed plan is expected to be ready in November.

In the meantime, a tentative proposal will be presented to police chiefs of various suburbs at three separate meetings.

THE CHIEF'S comments and suggestions about the frequency assignments then will be used to revise the proposed plan to a final form to be presented to the criminal justice commission.

Bernice Ebstein, a research engineer in communications systems for the Illinois Institute of Technology Research Institute reported to the commission yesterday about the progress on the plan preparation.

ITRI has been working on the study for the commission since early 1971.

Ebstein explained that under the plan all 123 police departments in suburban Cook County will be assigned to one of 26 separate channels.

Twenty of the channels will be ultra high frequency (UHF). The Federal Communications Commission recently made them available for police use in the Chicago Metropolitan Area.

The other six will be very high frequency (VHF) channels currently in use by police departments.

EBSTEIN SAID the plan has been based on information collected from questionnaires about the current status of police communications in various communities.

He showed the commission a map of towns that currently share police frequencies.

In the Northwest suburbs currently, Des Plaines has its own frequency, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg are on another frequency and Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove are on another frequency.

Currently there are 13 frequencies in use by police departments in the county.

Ebstein said yesterday that of that number, six frequencies are saturated during busy hours. On one channel there is a 10-minute waiting period to get on the air for the next message, he said.

To compound the problem, those six congested channels serve 85 per cent of the population in the suburban Cook County, he said.

ONE OF THE goals of the plan will be to assure that with the new frequency assignments all departments will have an equal waiting period before they can get on the air to broadcast, he said.

The plan is designed to have communities with common boundaries on the same channel. The desires of the various police departments will also be taken into account, Ebstein said.

The plan will keep intact existing, shared dispatch systems between communities such as one being built for Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Mount Prospect, Ebstein said.

Frequencies that are in use outside Cook County will be dropped from use locally under the new system.

The plan will strive to change as few frequency assignments as possible, he said.

The plan will be designed to have pairs of frequencies available so that all police departments potentially could use portable radio systems, he said.

THE PORTABLE SYSTEM is currently used in Chicago and Oak Park and is planned in the Arlington Heights-Elk Grove-Mount Prospect dispatch system.

Assuming that each police department in the county decides to use portable radios in the new system and that transmitters are shared by the towns that share a frequency, the purchase price for the plan reaches $2,267,000.

In addition, to implement portable radios for all departments, it would cost $96,000 a year for leased phone lines between transmitters and aerials and $224,000 a year for maintenance, he estimated.

The figures do not include a projection of the costs of central dispatching centers, but a figure for that cost will be included in the final report, Ebstein said.

THE NEW FREQUENCY assignments will mean a police department will have between 4½ and 11 seconds of waiting time in order to transmit a message when the plan is implemented, he said.

By 1985 projected growth will stretch the waiting period from 6 to 16 seconds, he said, considerably shorter than those existing in many communities today.

There will also be provisions for area-wide control of communications in case of special incidents or disasters, he said.

The plan calls for three area-wide channels — one frequency for police in northern suburbs, one for police in western suburbs and one for police in southern suburbs.

One department in each of the three areas will be capable of dispatching all departments in that area over the special frequency, Ebstein explained.

Moreover, he said the Cook County Sheriff's Police will also have the capability of dispatching police throughout the county under the new system.

Once the plan is finalized, however, it is anticipated that several years will be needed for implementation of the study's recommendations. The bulk of funds needed for portable radio equipment would be sought from federal programs, a commission spokesman said.

Adolescent Growth Seminar Set Tonight

A seminar in adolescent development will be offered at Elk Grove High School again this fall for parents who want to understand the "Youth Revolution."

The first of 12 sessions will be at 7:30 tonight. Anyone wishing to participate may call Thomas L. Hansen, director of pupil personnel services at Elk Grove High School, or enroll at the first class session. There is no cost to the participants.

The seminar, which will be taught by Hansen and Richmond T. Bell, school psychologist, is designed to explore adolescent behavior from a physical, social, and psychological standpoint. Last year some 50 parents took the course and struggled with such questions as "What do you say if your teenager says, 'drugs are groovy, or school's a drag.'?"

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

There is a very good rule of bidding which is that you don't double a forcing bid unless you are sure of two things. The first is that you can defeat that contract; the second, that the information given by your double will help your partner, not your opponents.

West, a player in our rubber bridge game, really thought that his opponents were in trouble and it never occurred to him that South was going to make his two-heart contract.

Thus, when everyone passed his double he opened the king of diamonds and sat back to watch South try to wiggle off the hook.

South did quite a job of wriggling. He took the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds; led a heart to his ace; took a short look at the ceiling; came to the conclusion that West held either 5-5-3-0 or 5-4-4-0 distribution and proceeded to give West the full treatment.

He led the jack of diamonds. West took his queen and led a spade. South cashed dummy's top spades and diamonds to get rid of two clubs. Then he ruffed dummy's last spade and led his last club.

West had to trump his partner's trick and lead away from his queen of hearts to let South make two overtricks.

What would have happened if West hadn't doubled? North would have bid something. If North and South reached a no-trump game they would make it but they would probably wind up playing some sort of part score.

MASTER CHARGE
WELCOME

away. When you lift the engine-weighted front end off the ground, you know you're dealing with speed and quickness.

Jim Cook

THE SIGN READS "Caution, telephone polls may be hazardous to your health," and can be found of all places on the hood scoop of a race car.

Steve Zinn and Mike Bauer, both in their 20's and residents of Wheeling, didn't have to be surgeon generals to issue the deadly warning.

They conducted their tests at the quarter-mile strip at Great Lakes Dragway in Union Grove, Wis., and unfortunately, the results proved positive.

The duo co-authored a beautifully handcrafted Goodyear Chevrolet Nova, a blue 433-cubic inch flash that was making a habit of mercilessly blowing its competition off the two-lane track.

Until, that is, that fateful 4th of July meeting that promised an assault of the track record of 10.82 seconds that they had personally established in their 12-Junior class.

The record was never threatened, but Bauer's life was.

He was behind the wheel of the modified screecher when the unscheduled and premature fireworks exploded.

Zinn, confined to the pit area where all the necessary preparations were made on the car, recalled the split-second tragedy as if it had elapsed the better part of an hour.

"After watching Mike get a good jump off the line," Steve said, "I kiddingly turned to my wife (Denise) and said, 'this should be a good one if he doesn't roll the damn thing.'"

Bauer kept the wheels on the pavement for the most part, but near the top end and at a speed of over 110 miles per hour, the nearly 10,000 fans that flock to the arena every weekend and holiday, witnessed one of the most spectacular crashes in the Grove's history.

"I felt something vibrating," Mike described. "I immediately got off of it (decelerated), but the car fishtailed and there wasn't much I could do — not at that speed, anyway."

In the wink of an eye, the gleaming machine was a twisted wreck, having showered its parts in a path of litter before making an abrupt halt on the shredded grass.

Bauer somehow escaped the pretzel-like collision without serious injury. After climbing out through the window, he could only gaze back at a sight that defied imagination.

Having lost contact with the asphalt track, Mike's aborted run ruptured the steel guard rail that may have interrupted his momentum, but it was the impact with the now-leveled telephone pole that finally brought the runaway vehicle to a stop.

The personal loss (insurance companies won't touch a race car) was still incomprehensible during the long ride back to the Goodyear Tire Store in Niles where Steve is the service manager.

The money and countless hours of labor all vanished in the same time it takes to say "Caution, telephone poles may be hazardous to your health," five times.

"Had it been a regular car on the highway, there would have been no way that anyone would have survived," Mike said. Only the required safety equipment — seat belt, roll cage, harness, helmet and fire extinguisher — provided Bauer with a new breath of life.

The mishap no longer pierces either's conscience. In fact, they've already invested in a Camaro that should afford another crack at the track and national marks.

The two will still swear that drag racing is as safe as playing chess. "There's no contact unless someone picks up the table and smacks you in the head," Mike laughed.

You don't get rich running in the amateur classes that pay in the vicinity of $150 dividends for whipping everybody in your division, but the sport gives anybody a chance to bring his car in and race against the clock.

Both Mike and Steve earned their slicks in 1969 when they'd drive the Nova (then only a 336) to the strip for grudge racing or trophy dashes.

Having carried home the hardware more times than not, the twosome started making improvements — new engine, manifolds, tires, raising the compression ratio and, at the same time, lowering the car's overall weight.

In other words, they were hooked on a sport that (pardon the expression) is breathtaking to watch.

They took the car off the street in 1970 and graduated from B-Stocker to Junior competition. Their accessories now included a trailer, tow car (454-c.i. El Camino), extra tires, spare transmissions and reserve carburetors.

Weekly changes were inevitable. "If you're afraid to modify your car, you'll be watching them take pictures of the winners instead of posing," Steve said.

"And if you're asleep on the line, you'll be in the same predicament," he added. "A two-inch advantage at the start means two car lengths at the finish line."

The knack of driving a drag racer is truly an exact art. Both side-by-side cars watch a light "tree" count down until it hits the green — the signal that harmonizes the instincts of shifting, steering, clutching, accelerating and hopefully winning.

Jumping the gun will earn you a red light — the "big red eye" as it is affectionately called in racing circles — and automatic disqualification.

The sport, associated closely with its own vocabulary of racing terms and city hands, hasn't discouraged the women from taking up residence in the pits.

Prior to the start of each weekend's card, there's a special race for the girls — the Powder Puff — where they are required to run about 100 feet, get into their cars parked at the starting line, fasten their seat belts, start the engine and send the noticeable smell of burning rubber into the air.

Denise was beaten only once in five tries, but has ended her modest racing career in what she likes to consider "retirement."

Legal drag racing at a proper facility is good, clean fun whose rewards are measured in elapsed time rather than in monetary value.

And as Steve and Mike will attest, it's harmless, provided telephone polls keep their distance.

Promising Sophs On Knight Scene

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

A Prospect team with just one letterman but some promising sophomore talent ready to move up to varsity ranks has set its sights on moving up from so-so status in the Mid-Suburban League last year.

The Knights, again coached by Joe Warner, opened their season by finishing seventh among 18 teams in the Hinsdale South Invitational. They also were slated to go to Willowbrook for a dual Tuesday and will be one of several area teams in the Maine West Center Meet Saturday. Prospect opens its league season Tuesday against Forest View and Hersey.

It was pretty much the same story for Prospect on all levels of competition a year ago — about the middle of the pack. There were no real varsity standouts in the MSL picture (highest conference meet finish was 20th) so even though the '72 squad is almost all-new, there's hope for a higher perch in the standings.

The idea is to continue the trend of last year when, as Warner says, "the lower levels started coming around at the end of the season."

Mike Tyre is the only letter winner, having finished 27th in the conference meet. Don Burger is a promising senior who paced the Knights at Hinsdale South Saturday. Three sophomores round out the top five — Mike Skelton, Rich Reithal and Tom Nemeec. They were 16th, 19th and 26th, respectively, in the soph MSL meet of 1971.

The highest finisher in this division for the Knights, though, was Rich Padoni with 12th. Keith Spacapan was the fourth-best freshman in the league and other young prospects are Brian Pomrenke and Ken Dayton.

Like other MSL squads, Prospect will engage in league triangulars this month and duals in October. Besides the early Hinsdale and Maine West events, two later invitational are on the schedule — and Waukegan and Libertyville.

2 Key Returnees Boost Elk Grove

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

Quantity rather than quality is the big problem of Elk Grove head cross country coach Jerry Woolard this fall.

The Grenadiers have two excellent, experienced varsity runners back who have proven very capable. But seven men, not two, make up a cross country team and it is important that their times are at least in the same general vicinity in order to have a winning squad.

So Woolard still hopes to somewhere, somehow find more bodies who can move over long distances — or else step up the times of those few he has — before the opening of the season. There isn't much time, though, since the first meet this Thursday at Addison Trail is fast approaching.

The pair which is returning from last year's respectable squad is well-known

Tickets On Sale For Lions-Huskies

Although the season opener Friday night between Hersey and St. Viator high schools will be played on the Hersey field, it is considered a St. Viator home game.

Hersey passes are not valid at this particular game. Tickets are now on sale at the schools and are $1.00 for students and $1.25 for adults.

For Safer Hunting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — All new hunters in California are required to take a safety course before they are allowed to kill game. The courses, which emphasize hunting safety, conservation and sportsmanship, have been taken by 578,083 persons applying for their first hunting license since 1965.

In that period, the incidence of hunting accidents has dropped from 3.1 per 10,000 license buyers to 0.93.

in local harrier circles and should be able to keep up with just about anybody. They are Brian Powell and Damian Archbold, who have also been among the area's best in spring track competition.

Powell and Archbold were the second and third-best harriers in the Mid-Suburban League last year from the standpoint of both league dual meets and the conference meet. Those were their finishes in the MSL meet in Lombard and they also had the best average finishes in duals with the exception of Schaumburg's Arnold Jackson. In 11 meets Powell was first seven times and second four times. Archbold, confined by injury to seven duals, was first four times and second on three occasions. Thus, one or the other won every dual in which Elk Grove competed.

The question for the Grenadiers is: How far behind will the other runners be? At the moment two other seniors are next in line, Jim Hickey and Scott Dorsey, and isn't show some promise. But Woolard isn't sure who his other varsity entries will be.

Elk Grove's sophomore team had a solid 7-4 record in MSL duals last year, but as Woolard laments, "A few boys who could have helped us but they just didn't come out this year for some reason."

The varsity will be aiming to improve a 6-5 league dual meet record and fourth-place finish in the conference meet.

Dorothy Ortman Inducted Into ASA's Hall Of Fame

Mrs. Dorothy Kluppig Ortman, 748 Stephen Drive, Palatine, was inducted into the Amateur Softball Association's Hall of Fame recently. Mr. Ferris Reid, Metropolitan Commissioner, made the presentation at Aurora.

A plaque inscribed with "in recognition of an outstanding career in softball, the highest honor attainable in the Illinois Softball Association" was given to Mrs. Ortman.

During her playing days, Mrs. Ortman was known as Dorothy "Boots" Kluppig, the most colorful player of the 30's and 40's in Chicago. Dorothy was a product of Proviso East High School, Mac Murray College in Jacksonville, and the University of Illinois.

From 1931-1945 she hurled 650 games and only 10 per cent of these were in the loss column in local, national, and international competition. On one two-week tour of the United States and Canada she won 13 out of the 14 games played. Her earned run average was less than 2.0. She was credited with one no hit-no-run

Hersey Shows Promise But Lacks Experience

by LARRY EVERHART

The younger athlete is the more unpredictable. That's what should make this a very interesting cross country season at Hersey.

The Huskies lack race experience, but promising talent and numbers are most certainly present. That's why several cross country coaches in the Mid-Suburban League have labeled Hersey as a darkhorse for 1972.

Until last year, cross country was a sore spot in the Hersey athletic program as the Huskies were usually near the bottom of the league. But that changed in '71 when the varsity posted a fine 7-4 dual record, tying Arlington for fourth behind only three 10-1 teams — Palatine, Fremd and Forest View.

Top runner Frank Walsworth, who was 10th in the conference meet, was lost to graduation. But the other top boys from a year ago are back, with five returning lettermen spelling promise even though there are only two seniors. Future seasons, therefore, look even brighter.

"We could be as high or not as high as our fourth place last year," says new head coach Larry Travis, who debuted on the varsity level in heading Hersey track last spring.

"I think the kids can be as high as they really want. You never know with kids as young as we have but we should be respectable. They run pretty close together but we really aren't that deep. Our times drop back for the sixth and seventh men."

Lettermen who are back are seniors Dan Leider and John Jones, junior Tom Burridge and sophomores Ron Stephani and Dave Jones. Another promising soph who moved away but since moved back is Jay McCarthy. "The sophomores could be our best runners," says Travis.

"These are probably our top guys but that could change. We had a fairly good turnout and I've been picking up a few more kids here and there. We have 25 in all right now and that could go higher."

Another boy who could help the varsity is Chris Cooney, out for the first time but having placed in the 440-yard run in the conference track meet last year.

There are only two home meets on the Hersey schedule, which begins this Saturday in the big Maine West Center Meet.

Where The Hitters Are

Either hitting is better in the National League or pitching is superior in the American — or a combination of both. Official final batting averages for the 1971 major-league season show 14 National League hitters over .300 (led by Joe Torre of the Cards with .363) and only six in the A.L. (paced by the Twins' Tony Oliva with .337).

Wise, Nilsson Falcon Leaders

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

Graduation and lack of experience, which go hand-in-hand on the prep sports scene, are the biggest problems bugging Forest View cross country coach Bill Mohrmann.

Although he does have two lettermen back who have already proven their considerable worth, Mohrmann saw the rest of an outstanding 1971 group pick up their diplomas in June.

So except for those top two spots, the rest of the team is totally without varsity race experience as the Falcons begin a busy schedule with four non-conference meets this week. Mundelein and Lake Park will be the opponents in away duels Thursday and Saturday, respectively, before Forest View opens its Mid-Suburban League schedule next week. They already have a pair of home triangulars under their belts.

The veteran runners are Jim Wise and Rich Nilsson, and they're good ones. Wise was sixth in the conference meet and 12th in the state meet as a sophomore last year and Nilsson finished ninth in the MSL. They helped the Falcons to easily their best cross country season ever — a tie for first place with a 10-1 record in the regular season, a near-miss in the conference meet and seventh place in the state final.

Trouble is, the other stalwarts on that unit — Scott McGovney, Ted Francis and Bill Bates — have moved on to college ranks. McGovney last year set the record for both varsity and the Falcons' home course (on the school grounds) with 14:04 over a 2.75-mile course.

But those standouts are gone and the problem of the moment is who will back up Wise and Nilsson. Candidates are senior Mike Wieser, juniors Ralph Voyta and Jack Thomas and sophomores Tony Hess, Andy Jones and Steve Goerschler. Other newcomers are John Jansen, Mike Coletta and Paul Bjork.

Any or all could turn out to be the help the Falcons need (they were in about the middle of the MSL pack on the soph and frosh levels last year), but they are novices and only time will tell.

Hard-Working Lions Hope For CC Success

Cross Country Editor

St Viator distance runners have been working hard since the start of the school year to try to at least equal last year's cross country record of 10 wins, just three losses and third place in the Suburban Catholic Conference.

The Lions of head coach Ken Peck already have begun a new schedule with a triangular meet last Monday. A Thursday conference opener at home against defending champion Notre Dame also appears on the schedule, followed by two invitational — at Notre Dame Saturday morning and at Riverside-Brookfield Tuesday.

Peck said his boys worked out "off and on" during the summer and "were not in peak condition at the beginning, so this is something we're still concerned with. But we should get stronger later in the season."

The ace runner thus far has been Bill Ellsworth, one of three returning senior lettermen. Peck says of Ellsworth, "He has improved sensationally over last year because he worked very hard over the summer. There's no doubt he's our best so far."

Peck adds, "After Ellsworth we have a good, even bunch for the second group. I like having one ace runner leading to pace the team and give the others someone to try and keep up with."

The other senior veterans are Ray Sophie and Tom Orrell. Juniors include Mike Chmela, Larry Chmela (not to be confused with Chmela), Frank Liotti and Bob Byas. Peck said this group would have been stronger had the Lions not lost some transfers since last season.

Outstanding sophomores who will sometimes be running on the varsity level are Mark Nelles, Bob Kohn, Mark Brusso, Jim Garcia, Ron Drifke and Kevin Mooney. A freshman who works very hard, according to his coach, is Tim Hendrichs.

St. Viator's home course is on school grounds. Twelve of 16 scheduled meets are away.

Saxon Runners Optimistic

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

Schaumburg's cross country team this autumn appears ready to reap the harvest of last year's building program.

It wasn't a bad season in 1971 for a school in its second year of varsity competition as the Saxons of coach Dennis Garber finished eighth overall in the 12-team Mid-Suburban League. Now, it wouldn't be at all surprising if Schaumburg jumps to the top four or so.

The main reason is plenty of veteran runners who know what varsity race competition is all about. Only one boy among the top seven of last year graduated.

When you mention returnees, you naturally start with Arnold Jackson, who must be the most experienced varsity junior in league history — maybe in any sport. Jackson already has put in two seasons on the top level of competition and in 1971 was consistently the best runner in league dual meets although only a soph. He racked up nine first places and two seconds in 11 meets before finishing eighth in the conference meet.

Jackson followed an incredible conditioning program during the past summer, running a total of 1800 miles in three months, which must be another area record. He averaged an astounding 30 miles of running per day most of the time!

Other lettermen include seniors Mike Carey and John Schevikhoven and junior Doug Warlick. Two boys new to varsity cross country but who ran well in track are sophomore Doug Carver and junior Ron Healer. Another who could help is junior Mike Istok.

Garber said that three sophomores — Bob Solik, Bruce Mahlig and Mark Hoerich — "all looked tough in the first week of practice and could give us a hand on the varsity."

Besides the varsity prospects, Garber pointed that the Saxons had a strong freshmen group of about 20 boys turn out and that this year's sophs were third in the conference as freshmen. So the outlook is good not only for this year, but farther into the future.

Jackson is not the only one who did a lot of summer conditioning — just the busiest. Garber said, "For the first time a lot of the kids did some running all through the summer."

The results have already begun to show. Schaumburg finished a strong fourth in the 18-team Hinsdale South Inventional to open the season Saturday. The Saxons hosted Maine North Tuesday and will take part in the Warren Invitational this Saturday before opening the league season.

Just Dogs

by Dave Terrill

Five finalists

Five heroic dogs, who among them saved a total of 12 persons from death or severe injury, have been named as finalists in the competition for the Ken-L Ration gold medal, to be awarded to the dog chosen by the judges as America's Dog Hero of the Year for 1972.

The five include Thumper, a German Shepherd from Piedmont, S.D., owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Keenihan. Thumper was being boarded at kennels owned by Mrs. Russell Skog of Rapid City and helped save Mrs. Skog's life by swimming to safety with the woman hanging on to his collar during the flood last June 9.

Mimi, a miniature Poodle, saved all eight members of the Nicholas Emerito family of Danbury, Conn., last January. She roused Mr. Emerito at 5:30 a.m., alerting him to the house being on fire, then raced to the second floor and awakened five children while the man was getting his wife and small son to safety.

Dee-Dog, a Collie owned by Don Perkins of Canyon, Texas, was instrumental in saving the life of his master when the man was knocked unconscious in a fall on a near-zero night last January. The dog broke out of his run and by constant snuggling up to the man's face and body kept him from freezing to death as he came to and then drifted off into unconsciousness from his severe injuries. After crawling almost 400 yards, the man was able to awaken his wife by throwing a stick at a window which aroused her, along with the dogs frantic barking.

A Collie named Michelle, owned by Lester Woods of Everton, Mo., raced to the rescue of her master when he was attacked by an enraged cow. Woods was attempting to help a newborn calf on his farm when the new mother turned on him. Michelle ran to the scene and drove the cow off long enough for Woods to crawl to safety.

The last dog in the finals is Tara, a Rottweiler from Quincy, Ill. An obedience trained dog, she helped save the life of Mrs. Frances Stranckmeyer when the woman fell in her bathroom in the early hours of the morning. Suffering a broken wrist, and bleeding profusely, she would have almost certainly died had not the dog set up such a din just outside the closed door to the bedroom of her daughter, Sandra Ann, and refused to be quiet. After giving her mother first aid, the girl, who is a registered nurse, summoned an ambulance. Mrs. Stranckmeyer was hospitalized for 32 days before recovering.

And so there you have it — the five dogs, and which will be judged number one for this year? Make your own predictions.

New blood disease test

Research begun four years ago by the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine at Urbana-Champaign and the U. S. Army has resulted in a test for a tropical blood disease fatal to dogs.

The hemorrhagic disease has killed more than 300 dogs used by the U.S. Army in southeast Asia and has infected dogs in the United States.

CBS's 'Maude' Delightful New Comedy

by RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An uproarious, a c i d-tongued woman named Maude roared into the nation's living rooms last night as the central figure of a new CBS-TV comedy series, and her image as a wife and mother is a laugh-filled switch for video.

The half-hour entry is titled "Maude." In the title role is the delightful Beatrice Arthur. Viewers of CBS-TV's top-rated "All in the Family" may recall her from last season when, she appeared in several episodes as a cousin of the wife of bigot Archie Bunker.

In the debut, the way Maude put away a phony door-to-door magazine salesman was beautiful and devastating. The way she reacted to terms like "Bug off" and "turn-turn" for stomach is priceless. And yet, when she learned her daughter was seeing a psychiatrist she was hurt to the quick because she felt it reflected on her abilities as a mother. In the end, Maude saw the psychiatrist herself.

Miss Arthur made the show a personal triumph. She got plenty of help from the writing and directing, as well as from Bill Macy as her droll, patient fourth spouse and Adrienne Barbeau as her daughter.

ABC-TV's "Tuesday Movie of the Week" premiere was a solid thriller: "The Longest Night," based on a true story, and dealing with a wealthy coed kidnapped and buried alive in a coffin with a limited life-support system during a ransom demand. James Farentino was good as one of the kidnapers. So were David Janssen and Phyllis Thaxter as the parents and Sallie Shockley as the girl.

Another made-for-video movie, "The Family Rico," about a crime syndicate boss torn by his concern for a young brother who runs out on a job and his own power in the organization, made for intriguing viewing on CBS. It was in the vein of "The Godfather," and kicked off the season of a series called "The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies," switched from Fridays. Ben Gazzara was the crime chief in the character study that focused on him, and he was exceptionally good.

The playlike film also featured Farentino, Sai Mineo, Jo Van Fleet, John Marley, Dane Clark and, in a notable performance as an oldtime, small town syndicate boss, Lief Erickson.

Synthetic fabrics are washable but not indestructible. Be gentle, with an electric dryer.

Today's miracle fabrics can take a lot. But remember, they're still what the name says. Fabrics. That's when the gentleness of an electric dryer pays off. It's very, very gentle because it dries with a very gentle kind of heat. Radiant heat. That means it dries things the same nice way the sun does. Many models even have an electronic sensor inside the dryer door to make sure things never over-dry. That's really important when it comes to permanent press. An electric dryer is as gentle as a dryer can be on today's miracle fabrics. Matter of fact, it's gentle on non-mirac fabrics, too.

'Local Laws Can Halt Flood Plain Home Building'

Current state and local laws and ordinances could be used to enforce a moratorium on flood plain construction, but generally they have not been exercised fully, Tom Hamilton, Elk Grove Village Plan Commission member, said Tuesday.

"Many municipalities, like Elk Grove Village, already have ordinances to regulate construction on flood plains, but not all the ordinances are working," said Hamilton, who also is with the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Last Saturday Hamilton, along with area legislators and other governmental officials, met to discuss flooding problems in the area and proposed a moratorium on future flood plain construction in Cook County. The officials said a moratorium would give federal, state and local governments time to develop plans to prevent future floods like the one Aug. 25.

"The problem is not drawing up more regulations but to start enforcing the ones we have," Hamilton said. He added that some new laws were needed but, until new regulations were formulated, the current laws could be better used.

THE STATE Flood Plain Act of 1970 prohibits building on flood plains without permission from the Illinois Division of Waterways, he said. The law says flood plains must be designated as such by the Division of Waterways.

However, Hamilton said he didn't know for sure that anything in the state has been designated a flood plain yet and this was necessary before the act could be enforced.

"The flood plains in the state are poorly defined, and the U. S. Geological Survey maps show only floods of records and don't delineate the flood plains very well," he said. Hamilton added that the U. S. Soil Conservation Service is drawing up-to-date flood plain maps which could be used by the Division of Waterways to define flood plains.

HAMILTON said Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, who called last week's meeting, is planning to call another meeting next week to plan how to carry out the moratorium. He said representatives from the state and local governments, Cook County Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) and North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District will be invited.

"What we need to do now is to work out the details of the flood plain construction moratorium and get the flood plains defined by the state," he said.

The state, MSD and local municipalities have rules on the use of flood plains but these vehicles are not working, he said. The North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District has been given the authority to evaluate the total environmental effect of new developments before they are approved. But Hamilton said the soil and water conservation district as well as MSD regulations on storm drainage are not being heeded.

"No solution to our flood plain problem will come overnight, and any project will take a lot of money to complete," he said. "But if we don't do something now, the flood plain will keep rising with new construction, and more homes and businesses will have flooding problems in the future."

Local Teen To Reign At Area Dahlia Show

An Elk Grove Village teen-ager, Barbara Barnett, 18, will reign as queen this weekend of the Central States Dahlia Show at Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

Miss Barnett, an employee of Woodfield Mall, lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barnett, at 641 S. Burgundy Ct., Elk Grove Village.

The annual show is open to the public. Admission is free. The show will be open noon-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday on the mall at the shopping center.

A spokesman said more than 3,000 varieties of dahlias will be displayed by more than 150 exhibitors. The show is sponsored by the Central States Dahlia Society, headquartered in Chicago.

CINDY SMITH of Des Plaines was the only woman among the 108 Elk Grove Village firefighter applicants at the fire department examinations Monday night at Elk Grove High School. The examinations tested intelligence, common sense, personality and physical agility.

She And 100 Guys Take Village Exam

Cindy Wants To Be A Fire — Er — Man

by CAROL RHYNE

Cindy Smith, 24, Des Plaines, likes to do things most girls don't so it really wasn't so unusual for her to show up at Elk Grove High School Monday to take the Elk Grove Village Fire Department examination.

"When I first walked into the room where about 100 guys were already sitting, some men smiled and others wondered if I was in the right place," the attractive blonde, blue-eyed Miss Smith said. "I had been afraid that some of the men would be resentful of me. But, in general, they were supportive."

After the first series of written tests, some of the applicants were eliminated before the start of the physical agility test. "One man sitting near me asked me if I made the grade. When I told him 'yes', he said 'that's good,'" she said.

The physical agility part of the test was the most interesting, she said. "We did pushups, situps and had to climb a ladder to the ceiling of the high school gymnasium with a 60-pound pack on our backs."

"The hardest test for me was trying to reach a height of 8 feet 9 inches," the 5-foot, 7-inch Miss Smith said. "I really was trying and some of the men were rooting me on, but I just couldn't jump and reach that high."

SHE SAID SHE didn't know until Monday night that the minimum height requirement for firemen was 5-feet 8-inches, but she noticed a few of the men weren't that tall either. She said she didn't know whether all the Elk Grove Village firefighters were that tall or how strict the department was on height.

Miss Smith said she decided to take the test because she wasn't sure whether she would like to be a firefighter and wanted to find out.

"When I'm honest with myself, I don't think I could hack it because of the physical demands," she said. However she added that she might like to try.

"One person asked me if I was doing it (taking the test) just for kicks. I really didn't want to give that impression. It was fun, but I didn't want it to be a farce," she said. "I hope the fire department didn't think I was doing it just to be funny."

Miss Smith said she was not a women's libber and "not an extremist out demonstrating," although she was for equal pay and equal opportunities for women.

"Monday night was a good example of the way I feel. If a woman is really qualified, she will get a good job and equal pay," she said. Miss Smith said the firemen giving the tests gave her no breaks or favors and "they didn't discriminate at all."

SHE SAID THE only big problem she saw if she became a fireman would be the sleeping arrangements at the fire station, but something could be worked out.

Miss Smith was graduated from Illinois State University in Bloomington and taught blind and partially sighted children two years in Niles. She currently is employed as a bartender and said she left teaching because she wanted to try some different things for a while.

Red-Haired 'Typical Suburban Husband' Sought In Murders

by KAREN BLECHA

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

Police believe the suspect, who they said looked like "a typical suburban husband," is the man who reportedly hired

Mrs. Flanagan as a babysitter Saturday. Police believe he picked up the two victims at the CTA bus terminal at Milwaukee and Inlay avenues in Chicago, where Mrs. Flanagan had agreed to meet him.

POLICE SAID Mrs. Flanagan at about 1 p.m. Saturday received a call from a man answering an add to babysit that she had placed on the bulletin board at a Chicago Jewel food store. The man, police said, gave Mrs. Flanagan a nonexistent address.

Chicago police said yesterday they will release an artist's description of the suspect at noon today.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

Dennis said the description was not supplied by the CTA bus driver who said he saw Mrs. Flanagan picked up by a man with a 1965 blue Pontiac or Oldsmobile.

"We think the suspect has a conservative type haircut, schoolboy type, and is a neat dresser. He was wearing a brown and white sports jacket, dark trousers, shirt and tie and white shoes," Dennis said.

Dennis said police also are looking for a 1965 "clean" Oldsmobile, which may be connected to the suspect.

"We've got a maniac on our hands, a sex fiend," Dennis said. "I would venture to say he is still in the area, sitting back and listening in."

ACCORDING TO the Cook County Coroner's office, Mrs. Flanagan died from brain damage after being hit on the head with a blunt object. She was also choked, the coroner's office said. Authorities said she was not sexually molested. The baby died of suffocation after being sexually assaulted, according to authorities.

Dennis said Niles police became involved in the case because the CTA terminal is only one block south of Niles borders. He said police assume that "the offender drove north on Milwaukee Avenue, through Niles." "We're proceeding along the lines of known sex offenders," he said.

The bus driver Sunday identified a past sex offender in Chicago police files as the man who picked up the pair. However, he failed to identify the same man in a police lineup.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

The carrier Enterprise, world's largest warship, sailed for Vietnam despite a fleet of a half dozen small boats blocking the Golden Gate in a war protest.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

The Illinois Education Association announced filing of a suit on behalf of teachers and college instructors in Illinois, and alleging that retirement funds for three groups of teachers were about $3 billion in arrears because of inadequate funding.

The World

Bazooka rockets fired from Syria crashed into an Israeli-occupied village on the Golan Heights and Israeli jets reportedly violated Lebanese airspace, heightening tensions in the Middle East.

A military spokesman said the Irish Republican Army is not going to run British troops out of Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital. "It is not military policy to move units under threat," the spokesman said.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with Kremlin leaders in Moscow under strict secrecy, but in Washington the White House freely announced his travel plans which may include another secret meeting with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

The War

Two units of elite South Vietnamese marines linked up inside the Communist-held Quang Tri citadel and launched a furious, last-minute drive to push the North Vietnamese out of the thick-walled structure before today's deadline set by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The Market

The stock market suffered its sixth consecutive loss as prices plunged sharply and broadly on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading continued relatively light. The Dow Jones Average fell 8.96 to 946.04. Declines outnumbered advances, 1,078 to 351, among the 1,767 issues crossing the tape. Turnover totaled 13,560,000 shares, up from 10,710,000. Prices moved lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

It's 'Blue Ribbon Week' At Library

"Blue Ribbon Film Week" will be held Sept. 18-21 at 7:45 p.m. at the Elk Grove Village Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.

Thirteen blue ribbon winners from the 1972 American Film Festival will be shown. The library will have a display of books relating to the cinema and the subject matter of the film. There will be a discussion period following each of the films.

Scheduled to be shown are:

—Monday: "Home" presents contrasting scenes of pollution and beauty in America that serves to translate an 1859 speech by Chief Seattle of the Duwamish Indian tribe.

"Cycles" deals with current ecological awareness and pays tribute to the glass industry for turning waste into valuable material.

"They've Killed President Lincoln" portrays the present-day relevance of great historical events and persons.

—Tuesday: "Variation on a Cellophone Wrapper," a co-winner in the film-as-art category, is a single sequence image which is continuously transformed and ultimately disintegrated against an electronic sound soundtrack.

"The Feast" shows the first stages of an alliance formation between two primitive Yanomamo Indian villages in southern Venezuela and northern Brazil.

"The Ultimate Trip" examines the growing movement to early Christianity by young people. It focuses on a communal group of former drug addicts who claim they have found the "ultimate trip" in religion.

"Standing Waves and the Principle of Superposition" introduces, defines and illustrates the principles and examines the behavior of wave patterns which produce standing waves.

—Wednesday: "The Scandinavian Experience" is a photographic promotion for Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden, with an experimental commentary.

—"What Do You Do When You See a Blind Person?" is a short film depicting an encounter between a seeing person and a blind person to show the proper way to deal with the blind.

"Wolves, and the Wolf Man" is a nature film about the wolf and its place in nature.

—Thursday: "The Unseen World" describes studies of cells, ocean animals, the planets, marine ecology, the nature of light and other phenomena not normally seen by the lay person.

"Koestler on Creativity," based on Arthur Koestler's book, "The Act of Creation," indicates that the creative process for both the artist and the scientist is based on similar patterns.

"Synchro," also a co-winner of the film-as-art category, uses moving color to enable the viewer to "see" music through patterns shaped from the soundtrack.

From The Library

If you find yourself caught up in the current craze over the occult and psychic, the Elk Grove Village Public Library has some new books for you.

"Murder by Witchcraft" by Donald McCormick is subtitled "A Study of the Lower Quinton and Hagley Wood Murders." These two murders, which happened in the early 1940s in England, bore many traces of witchcraft, and investigations have turned up evidence of covens in England. There is even a chapter on the use of witchcraft in psychological warfare in World War II.

A lively, anecdotal history of witchcraft is Gillian Tindall's "A Handbook on Witches." It's easy reading and entertaining.

"Witchcraft," edited by Barbara Rosen, is a more scholarly book, which examines witchcraft in Jacobean and Elizabethan England. The text is largely reprinted pamphlets, reports, accounts of trials and other documents, with introductions and interpretations.

The most publicized witch of the century, Sybil Leek, has created an informal melange of anecdotes, personal observations on astrology, and predictions in "My Life in Astrology."

On the subject of psychic phenomena is "From Mesmer to Christian Science" by Frank Podmore. It deals with mental healing, an aspect of auto-suggestion that was illegal until the nineteenth century.

This book was written in 1903, when hypnotism was considered quackery. The reprint in the library serves as a history of the whole subject, while attempting to polish up the image of Franz Mesmer.

He Crisscrossed U.S. With McGovern

by TONI GINETTI

To most Americans, a presidential campaign is that unique phenomenon occurring every four years when paid political announcements dominate the air waves, and bumper stickers and precinct captains appear everywhere telling you to vote for their man.

That mental picture will probably never occur again to Richard Johnson, the Rolling Meadows man who last week traveled with the campaign entourage of Democratic presidential hopeful George McGovern and will be the subject of an upcoming television program.

Johnson, who seems to have become somewhat of a champion of middle class America, was selected for the second time this year by the National Public Affairs Center for Television (NPACT) to participate in the preparation of television programs dealing with the "average American."

The first program, aired in February, dealt with some of the economic woes currently plaguing middle class America.

"A FEW OF THE things that we stated in that show apparently came true," Johnson laughed, "because about 10 days ago the producer of the show called my wife and asked if I would like to take part in another one."

The latest "Johnson feature," which will be seen Sept. 20 on WTTW-TV (Channel 11), will follow Johnson for a behind-the-scenes look at a presidential campaign and candidate as viewed through the eyes of "the average man."

"They told me the purpose of the show was to report on what I saw and heard, and to state my viewpoints," Johnson said. "You might say it was to be more or less a campaign as seen through the eyes of the small guy."

"It's just amazing what the average man doesn't know about what goes on behind the scenes," Johnson said. "I mean after the speeches, rushing back to the plane and so on."

"There's so much hubbub, but results come from it. I've come to call it 'disorganized organization," he laughed. "Everybody seems to be running around but they get things done."

In the five days that Johnson spent with the campaign, he crisscrossed the country, visiting ten cities, from Los Angeles to Superior, Wis. He said aides told him the trip covered almost 8,500 miles.

"It was quite strenuous," Johnson admitted. "Usually I didn't get to bed before midnight."

Two personal interviews with McGovern were included in Johnson's schedule.

"ONE INTERVIEW was informal and we discussed football, among other things," Johnson said. "In the other interview, the shorter one, we discussed what I guess you would call 'Nitty gritty' politics. That interview will be, I believe, the focal point of the television show."

Johnson said he found McGovern to be a "dedicated" man who likes to talk to people.

"He left the thought in my mind that he is just as good, in my opinion, as any available Democrat, with the exception of perhaps (Sen. Edward M.) Kennedy," Johnson said. He said, too, that, as political polls seem to indicate, McGovern "has a long way to go" to defeat President Nixon.

One incident during the trip stands out in his mind. "In Albuquerque, I had a room overlooking the hotel swimming pool. Being a Saturday, McGovern had been given the day off by his staff.

"I looked out my window and I saw McGovern sitting at the pool side in his swimming trunks, relaxing just as you or I would," Johnson said. "But the thing that really impressed me was that all around the pool area, sitting under the umbrella tables, were the secret service agents."

WHILE HE describes the trip in glowing terms as "a fantastic experience," Johnson says he hopes his television escapades don't become a regular event.

"Some of the reporters asked me if I was going to be taking a trip with President Nixon next for 'equal time,' but that's not what this was about," he said. "It was just arranged for me to have the opportunity to travel as an average guy on a presidential campaign."

Alexandra's Bracelet PW Coming Home

Alexandra Kostos, of Elk Grove Village, has never met Norris Charles, but she was excited when she learned he may be coming home soon.

Navy Lt. (J.G.) Norris Charles is one of more than 500 Americans known captured and held prisoner by the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong in Southeast Asia.

A week ago Hanoi announced it would release Charles along with Navy Lt. Markham Gartley and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, to a private American anti-war group to return the men to the United States. A date for the release has not yet been set.

Until Charles is back safely in the country, Alexandra says she'll continue to wear the silver POW bracelet on her right wrist inscribed with Charles' name and the date Dec. 30, 1971, the day he was reported missing. Alexandra, 271 Fern Dr., is one of thousands of persons wearing the bracelets in remembrance of the American prisoners and those missing in action, but she thinks her bracelet is the only one with Charles' name on it.

"When I first heard the news he (Charles) was going to come back, I was thrilled," the 14-year-old freshman at Elk Grove High said.

SHE SAID SHE was first told the good news by a friend who heard the announcement on television. Alexandra said she has been watching the newspapers every day in hopes of hearing when Charles will be released.

"When Charles is back, I am going to send the bracelet to him," she said. "I think I can get his address from VIVA (Voices in Vital America, a non-profit student organization which distributes the bracelets.)"

"I decided to get the bracelet because of my feelings about the war in Vietnam," she said. "I think it should be ended as soon as possible, but with the release of the prisoners."

Alexandra said she and her friends wear the POW bracelets so the men held prisoner won't be forgotten.

"After Charles is back, I plan to get another bracelet to show that there is hope that the men will get to come home," she said.

ALEXANDRA KOSTOS, of Elk Grove Village, displays the POW bracelet engraved with the name of Lt. J.G. Norris Charles and the day he was reported missing, Dec. 30, 1971. She says she'll wear the bracelet until he comes home

Rehabilitation Center Receives Book Set

The Clearbrook Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center in Elk Grove Village recently received 30 volumes of reference books from merchants in Woodfield Shopping Center.

The Woodfield Merchants Association, in cooperation with Great Books of the Western World Co., presented a 20-volume set of the Annals of American History and a 10-volume set of Gateway to the Great Books to the workshop.

The workshop serves mentally and physically disabled youth and adults.

One Year Later: No Trace Of Canada Flight, 4 Aboard

On Sept. 11, 1971, a plane with four persons aboard took off from Pal-Waukee Airport near Wheeling, bound for Canada.

The plane's destination was a small Canadian village. The father of one of those on the plane had drowned while on a fishing trip near there, and his body had never been recovered. The four were flying to Canada to search the lake where the man had drowned, hoping they could recover the body.

But the plane never made it. Instead it disappeared somewhere in Canada with all its occupants.

And today, a year later, authorities still are unable to say definitely what happened to the plane and the four aboard.

THE MISSING twin-engine Cessna had been chartered by Carol Saunders, 26, of Arlington Heights and piloted by her fiancé Robert J. Poole, 44, of Mount Prospect. Also on the plane were two scuba divers: Jerry Schoenfeld, 31, of Chicago, and Dr. Lawrence Hays, 31, of Mount Prospect. The two had been hired by Miss Saunders to search for her father's body.

According to a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) official, the plane was known to have made it safely across Michigan. The pilot's last radar contact occurred when he requested a weather briefing to Alpine, Mich., the official said.

Following the plane's disappearance, the Civil Air Patrol, Air Force and Coast Guard began an air search over northern Michigan and Lake Huron. But the search turned up nothing, and it was called off a week later.

OTHER EFFORTS to turn up the wreckage also were unsuccessful. The father-in-law of one of the victims offered a $1,000 reward to anyone who located the plane or its occupants. Hazel Morgan, for whom Miss Saunders worked, tried to start a search fund for the four. She even contacted a psychic, who told her the plane may have crashed on a small island near Val D'Or in Canada.

THEN, IN EARLY October, Canadian searchers discovered what may have been debris from the downed plane on the shore of an island in Lake Huron. Found were a portion of a diver's suit, two life jackets and an aircraft panel.

A battered scuba tank was one of the last pieces of wreckage found, according to the wife of one of the victims, Mrs. Jerry Schoenfeld. She said the tank, "which looked like one of ours," was found last December.

Since then nothing more has been found, according to Cpl. George Lloyd of the Ontario Provincial Police. He said yesterday, however, that periodic checks still are made in the area where the debris was found.

According to Mrs. Schoenfeld, however, the opinion of the Ontario police is that the plane "is in too deep water" for any more of the wreckage to be washed up. "They think the plane is in too big an area to be found, a 10-mile-square radius," Mrs. Schoenfeld said. She said she has received calls from "an awful lot of volunteers" to help in the search, but "it's just in too big an area to do it."

Heavy Rains Delay Progress On Village Walk, Street Jobs

by LYNN ASINOF

Work on Wheeling's street maintenance and sidewalk replacement programs has been slowed considerably by heavy rains during the past few weeks.

Larry Oppenheimer, director of public works, said the street patching and seal coating was scheduled to begin Thursday. "But every time they turn around it's raining," Oppenheimer said.

The sidewalk replacement program has fared little better with the wet weather. Oppenheimer estimated that work on removing and replacing the 23,000 square feet of Wheeling sidewalks is 20 to 25 per cent completed.

Drew Construction Co. is now working on the 13,000 square feet of sidewalks being replaced in the Dunhurst area. Oppenheimer said that with good weather 1,400 square feet of sidewalk can be replaced each day, averaging 10 days for the entire project in Dunhurst.

"IT IS HARDER and takes longer to remove it than it is to pour it," he explained. "They can pour on two or three days a week if they have five days of removal."

Once the construction crews finish work in Dunhurst, they will move to Meadowbrook West to replace 10,000 square feet of sidewalk.

To replace the sidewalks it is necessary to remove approximately one foot of ground or asphalt driveway on either side of the walk. Oppenheimer said he has received many calls from people who have had part of their asphalt driveways removed, asking when their property would be repaired.

Oppenheimer said there are two reasons for the delay in repairing the driveways. First, he said, the concrete used for the sidewalks must cure before it can support the weight of an asphalt roller.

He said that while it is safe to drive a car over the new concrete after seven days, it takes at least 14 days for the concrete to become strong enough for the roller.

SECOND, HE explained, it is costly for a contractor to bring in small amounts of asphalt to repair the driveways one at a time. He said a contractor prefers to wait until he can bring in a full truckload of asphalt to repair the driveways at the same time.

"A contractor can't afford to move in and out like that," Oppenheimer said.

He said that there is no problem about getting the street and sidewalk programs completed before the end of the working season. "In a normal year we can work all the way to the latter part of November for this work," he said. "So we have a good 2 to 2½ months."

Oppenheimer said the Rock Road Construction Co. will try again this week to start on the street maintenance project. "All they need is one week of good weather and they'd be in and out," he said.

Both programs are being financed with state motor fuel tax funds, which are returned to municipalities on the basis of population. The sidewalk program will cost $31,730 and the street program will cost $11,923.65.

Approve Liquor Licenses For Clubs

The Wheeling Village Board amended its liquor ordinance Monday night, creating a new class of licenses to be issued to clubs.

A draft of the ordinance was drawn up after the Phillip Carpenter Amvets Post No. 66 requested that the village grant a liquor license for its proposed new headquarters.

In the past Wheeling did not issue licenses designed specifically for clubs or other private organizations. Licenses fell into two categories, both for commercial use.

The Class A license allows for the sale of liquor until 4 a.m. at establishments that have a seating capacity of at least 250 and serve food until closing time. The Union Hotel currently holds the only Class A license in the village.

Wheeling also issues Class B licenses which allow the sale of liquor until 2 a.m. Eighteen establishments in the village hold Class B licenses.

THE CLASS C license just approved by the board will allow clubs to serve liquor to members until 2 a.m. Like all liquor licenses, the Class C license will have to be renewed yearly.

The amended ordinance was based on a study of the liquor ordinances of other nearby villages. The ordinance provides for two Class C licenses to prevent a monopoly in the club category. The licenses will cost $500 a year, considerably less than the $1,850 fee for the Class A license and the $850 fee for the Class B license.

Like all other liquor licenses, the Class C license is not transferable. It will be issued to two persons, presumably officers of the organization. Persons applying for the license will have to go through a lengthy review procedure, which includes fingerprinting and an FBI report, before being granted the license by Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board opened bids for the realignment of Wheeling Road. Three companies bid on the project, each offering cost estimates on two alternative methods of laying the road

The bids are in the process of being inspected by the state and the village department of public works. The contract will presumably be awarded to the low bidder at next week's board meeting.

The Eric Bolander Construction Co. of Libertyville offered a bid of $501,533.70 for alternative A and $493,536.95 for alternative B. The Frenzel Construction Co. of Glenview estimated $532,074.90 for alternative A and $522,353.40 for alternative B. The Rock Road Construction Co. of Des Plaines bid $481,324.10 for the first alternative and $483,562.85 for the second.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon proclaimed this week Village Registration Week and urged that all qualified unregistered voters come to the village hall to register.

Trustee Michael Valenza asked that village officials look into construction taking place just outside of the village limits near Lake-Cook Road. Valenza said the building is taking place in the flood plain and would adversely affect Wheeling. He suggested that the village find out who is building and possibly seek an injunction to stop work until more information about the project is available.

The board also approved an agreement between the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District and the village. According to the agreement, the Wheeling Fire Department will provide the district with services in exchange for $100,000 in cash and $40,000 in interest paid on three pieces of fire equipment.

The board approved the final plats for Townner's subdivision and the subdivision for the North Suburban Library District's new headquarters. The preliminary plat of Herzog's subdivision in the industrial sector was also passed.

An executive session on land acquisition was called to discuss property needed for the realignment of Wheeling Road.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $3.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

'Youth For Truth' Rally Is Sept. 23

A "Youth for Truth" rally will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 23 at the Village Baptist Church in Buffalo Grove.

The rally is designed for teens and adults. There will be a special speaker, skits, refreshments and rap session. Special speaker for the evening is Pastor J. O. Purcell.

Arlington Hts., Dundee Rd. Traffic Signal Coming Soon

Buffalo Grove commuters will be glad to know that a temporary traffic signal will soon be installed at Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

The village board awarded a contract for the signal at last week's board meeting to Hecker and Company, Inc., electrical engineers. The cost of the $5,900 light will be covered by the village general fund.

Village Mgr. Dan Larson said he hoped the light would be installed within the next 10 days.

Construction on Arlington Heights Road is scheduled to be completed within the next few days. The paving is finished and workers are now concluding shoulder improvements.

THE STATE is set to install a permanent traffic signal at the intersection after the proposed construction on Dundee Road is completed. That work will probably take two years.

The trustees also considered a proposal to temporarily improve the portion of Arlington Heights Road that will be realigned when Dundee Road is widened.

The project would include about 900 feet of roadway north of Dundee Road that wasn't repaved during the current project. Repaving there wasn't done because it would have been torn up during the intersection realignment.

The state highway department has estimated the cost of filling the potholes in the portion of the road and resurfacing it would amount to around $6,000.

THE BOARD felt the village could afford only one of the two projects at this time. However, Trustee Jim Shirley said he would try to find another $6,000 in the budget for the road improvements.

"The problem is waiting for the state to get started," said Village Pres. Gary Armstrong. "We're a whole year away from that."

Gary Alstot, an engineer, said, "You really should do it for the safety of the motoring public. That's one of the few routes out of that area."

Alstot said he thought one lane of the road could be kept open during at least part of the proposed construction. He estimated the project would take about a week.

Mobile Care Program In 'Good Shape'

Dr. David Boyd, chief of the Illinois Division of Emergency Medical Services, has pronounced Northwest Community Hospital's mobile emergency care program in "very good" shape.

Dr. Boyd said following an inspection of the hospital in Arlington Heights last week, that he expects the program will be initiated as planned on Sept. 23.

"There are some loopholes we're working to fill," he said, "but things look pretty good."

The loopholes, Dr. Boyd indicated, involve mainly obtaining written commitments from the villages which plan to participate in the program that they will indeed participate.

"WE NEED A tighter relationship with the elected village officials," he said. "They've all committed themselves," but the hospital should have that assurance in writing "to protect the public," Dr. Boyd said.

Expected to participate in the program are Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Hoffman Estates, Inverness, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg.

The program involves providing emergency treatment to the injured and the ill before their arrival at the hospital.

The treatment would be administered by specially trained firemen and ambulance attendants, under the supervision of a physician.

Ongoing studies of the program would be made after it is set up, Dr. Boyd said.

instead of going to Buffalo Grove. 4. Same boundaries as Alternative Two, except with Ivy Hill area attending Hersey as in Alternative Three.

Under none of the alternatives would any students from the village of Wheeling attend Buffalo Grove High School.

The school district administration has also proposed two alternatives for boundary changes for Hersey High School to relieve over-crowding. In one proposal, students south of Kensington Road in Mount Prospect who are now attending Hersey would be transferred to Prospect High School.

In the other proposal, students from Elementary Dist. 21 south of Palatine Road in Prospect Heights would be moved from Hersey to Wheeling. Students in that area were transferred from Wheeling to Hersey just two years ago.

ALSO MONDAY night, district Supt. Edward Gilbert presented the board with three alternatives for plans that would allow students to choose their schools.

The proposals were drawn up at the request of board member Arthur Aronson, who has long advocated open enrollment in the district.

Board members indicated they may discuss the open enrollment plans at the public hearing also.

A children's fall fashion show will be presented next Tuesday by the Sisterhood of Congregation Beth Judea. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Kingswood Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove.

Fashions will be provided by Mars Juvenile Shop in the Buffalo Grove Mall. For further information about the public show, phone 537-0822.

'Typical Husband' Sought In Murders

by KAREN BLECHA

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

Police believe the suspect, who they said looked like "a typical suburban husband," is the man who reportedly hired Mrs. Flanagan as a babysitter Saturday. Police believe he picked up the two victims at the CTA bus terminal at Milwaukee and Inlay avenues in Chicago, where Mrs. Flanagan had agreed to meet him.

POLICE SAID Mrs. Flanagan at about 1 p.m. Saturday received a call from a man answering an add to babysit that she had placed on the bulletin board at a Chicago Jewel food store. The man, police said, gave Mrs. Flanagan a nonexistent address.

Chicago police said yesterday they will release an artist's description of the suspect at noon today.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

Dennis said the description was not supplied by the CTA bus driver who said he saw Mrs. Flanagan picked up by a man with a 1965 blue Pontiac or Oldsmobile.

"We think the suspect has a conservative type haircut, schoolboy type, and is a neat dresser. He was wearing a brown and white sports jacket, dark trousers, shirt and tie and white shoes," Dennis said.

Dennis said police also are looking for a 1965 "clean" Oldsmobile, which may be connected to the suspect.

"We've got a maniac on our hands, a sex fiend," Dennis said. "I would venture to say he is still in the area, sitting back and listening in."

ACCORDING TO the Cook County Coroner's office, Mrs. Flanagan died from brain damage after being hit on the head with a blunt object. She was also choked, the coroner's office said. Authorities said she was not sexually molested.

The baby died of suffocation after being sexually assaulted, according to authorities.

Dennis said Niles police became involved in the case because the CTA terminal is only one block south of Niles borders. He said police assume that "the offender drove north on Milwaukee Avenue, through Niles." "We're proceeding along the lines of known sex offenders," he said.

The bus driver Sunday identified a past sex offender in Chicago police files as the man who picked up the pair. However, he failed to identify the same man in a police lineup.

Alexandra's Bracelet PW Coming Home

Alexandra Kostos, of Elk Grove Village, has never met Norris Charles, but she was excited when she learned he may be coming home soon.

Navy Lt. (J.G. Norris Charles is one of more than 500 Americans known captured and held prisoner by the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong in Southeast Asia.

A week ago Hanoi announced it would release Charles along with Navy Lt. Markham Gartley and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, to a private American anti-war group to return the men to the United States. A date for the release has not yet been set.

Until Charles is back safely in the country, Alexandra says she'll continue to wear the silver POW bracelet on her right wrist inscribed with Charles' name, and the date Dec. 30, 1971, the day he was reported missing. Alexandra, 271 Fern Dr., is one of thousands of persons wearing the bracelets in remembrance of the American prisoners and those missing in action, but she thinks her bracelet is the only one with Charles' name on it.

"When I first heard the news he (Charles) was going to come back, I was thrilled," the 14-year-old freshman at Elk Grove High said.

SHE SAID SHE was first told the good news by a friend who heard the announcement on television. Alexandra said she has been watching the newspapers every day in hopes of hearing when Charles will be released.

Homeowner To Vote On Armstrong Issue

Members of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) will vote Friday night on the question of recommending that Village Pres. Gary Armstrong retain or resign his public office.

Armstrong has been invited to the 8:30 p.m. meeting at Willow Grove School to explain his position and answer questions from the members. Members of the SHA said Armstrong's acceptance of a job with Otis Development Co. has caused some citizens to believe there is a direct conflict of interest with his responsibilities as village president.

After discussion on the situation, SHA members will vote to publicly express their recommendation. The meeting is open to the public, but only SHA members will be allowed to vote. A valid 1972 SHA membership card must be shown.

New memberships will be accepted by the SHA members prior to the voting Friday. For more information phone 541-1740.

WFC Accepts New Contract

The general membership of the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC) overwhelmingly accepted the newly settled 1972-73 contract at a meeting last week evening.

The teachers voted 157 to 2 in favor of the package, which offers them a 6 per cent pay increase and several fringe benefits.

The 159 teachers who voted represent only half of all the teachers in the district. "That was the biggest disappointment of the meeting — not having everyone show up," said Margo Richter, president of the WFC. Miss Richter said the audience was in attendance was a good cross section from all the schools in the district.

Ratification by the Dist. 21 school board is the only thing necessary to make the 1972-73 contract official. The board will vote on the matter at its regularly scheduled meeting next Thursday.

reported missing, Dec. 30, 1971. She says she'll wear the bracelet until he comes home

Freshman Night Set At Adlai Stevenson

Adlai Stevenson High School freshmen and their parents will have an information program and fun night festivities at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Parents will gather in the auditorium for a short general meeting with the freshman teaching team. Most of the evening, however, will be devoted to small group sessions with individual teachers where parents will be given ample opportunity to ask questions.

Meanwhile, freshman students will meet in the gymnasium to watch cheerleaders and pom-pom corps demonstrations, learn the school song and school yells. In addition, representatives of the many clubs and other organizations will describe their activities and urge freshmen to join. A dance, sponsored by the student council, will climax activities in the auxiliary gymnasium.

Both programs will be over by 9 p.m. Parents will be invited to enjoy a cup of coffee in the cafeteria.

Squabble Over President's New Job

Armstrong Stays Firm: 'No Conflict Of Interest'

by JILL BETTNER

The Buffalo Grove Village Board meeting Monday night again became a forum for the continuing debate between Village Pres. Gary Armstrong and those who feel he should resign.

Armstrong recently accepted a position with James Otis Development Co., a Northbrook firm that plans to build a 128-acre development in the northwest section of the village. A group of residents has expressed the feeling that the dual roles create the potential for a future conflict-of-interest situation.

Discussion on the matter began when village Trustee Ed Osmon asked Armstrong to allow him to clarify what he called "the intent" of a motion made at last week's board meeting.

That motion called for a poll of the trustees on whether they supported Armstrong in his decision to remain as president while working for Otis.

In the vote, five of the six trustees said they supported Armstrong. Randall Rathjen was the only trustee who voted no.

"THE QUESTION really behind it was, do we feel there is a conflict of interest in President Armstrong's new position?" Osmon said. "Speaking for myself—I would think possibly some would have sympathy on the board with my remarks—no we do not feel there is a conflict of interest at this time. No, we do not feel it would become a conflict of interest." He added he thought residents could possibly take it this way.

Osmon said Armstrong had offered to review the situation in the future and if he felt he had hampered the board's effectiveness in any way, he would consider resigning then.

Armstrong emphasized that Osmon was strictly stating his own feelings.

Bill Francis, a member of the Concerned Citizens for Buffalo Grove and one of the organizers of a current petitioning effort, said, "I'd like to know if you feel it's a conflict of interest for Mr. Armstrong to participate in discussions in matters affecting developers who are, from a business standpoint, in direct competition with his company in development in the Buffalo Grove area."

Francis referred to the Chesterfield development, which is scheduled to include some types of housing that will be in competition with those proposed by Otis.

"I can't accept the fact that he is so far above everyone that he can objectively face this Chesterfield development without any consideration for the fact that it is a competitive development to the people with whom he's employed," Francis said.

Francis cited several instances of the failings of elected officials in other villages, saying, "Certainly the people had faith in the integrity of the elected officials you read about in the papers on a regular basis who are involved in all sorts of things. We've dramatically increased the temptation here and I don't think there's any need of it and we shouldn't be asked to tolerate it."

Answering Francis point by point, Armstrong said, "You talk about other politicians. I think in virtually all those instances none of them came out and publicly announced at the instant that it happened what in fact they were doing as far as assuming other positions; as far as their relationship with the business community; as far as what their private dealings were. On the other hand, I did, immediately.

The village government of Buffalo Grove is no different from the federal government, and we have checks and balances. We have a plan commission and a zoning board of appeals. These are people who are appointed by this board on the recommendation of their own members and gain expertise in their particular fields. This board generally relies on their recommendations."

Armstrong emphasized that public hearings are conducted on every proposal before the village, and citizens always are given a chance to voice their opinions.

OUTLINING THE procedure a developer follows when he proposes a development, Armstrong said, "I think there are a tremendous number of people involved. This is not my decision, it's not Mr. Shirley's decision, it is not the board's decision. It is a collective decision of this community."

Armstrong again said he felt the expertise he would gain in his position with Otis would better qualify him to analyze a development.

Armstrong drew applause from the audience saying, "I feel that the performance of this board and my performance over the two years as trustee and year and a half as village president has been good. I frankly can hold my head high and I can say I think I personally have worked hard and done as good a job as I can. And I think I can say the same for this board. I see no reason for my not being able to continue as village president and fulfill the commitment that I made to the citizens of this community, and I frankly intend to do that."

The board then took up business on the agenda. The debate resumed sometime later.

BGA Publicly Announces Armstrong Should Resign

The Buffalo Grove Alliance (BGA) has announced publicly its position that Village Pres. Gary Armstrong should resign his public office by April.

The BGA, commenting on Armstrong's position with Otis Development Co., said: "In light of the progress we have made, the BGA feels this is a particularly unfortunate situation and poses serious risks of conflict of interest within the village. We therefore feel that Armstrong should announce his decision to resign prior to the April village election, thereby forcing an election for village president. Presumably, Armstrong would be a candidate in this election."

Even though Armstrong might run in such an election, BGA officers said they would be under no obligation to endorse him again, as they did last year, unless he were the most qualified of the candidates seeking the office, despite the conflict.

The BGA statement says, "We have noted the editorial stands taken in two publications asking Armstrong to resign immediately. While this action would remove the immediate risk of conflict of interest, it would also give rise to several situations which would not be in the best interests of the village."

"UNDOUBTEDLY, THE board would appoint one of its present members to be president pro tem. This, in turn, would create another trustee vacancy with the end result being a minimum of three and a maximum of four positions filled by appointment. Furthermore, the potential lack of leadership over the next several months could be devastating during a critical period of development in the village."

The BGA added, "The central issue is not the personal integrity or the record to date of Mr. Armstrong. The split loyalties posed by this situation, however, dictate that it is only a matter of time before he will be confronted with a choice of one at the expense of another. We believe that Armstrong should protect the reputation of Buffalo Grove, its employees, the Board of Trustees, and all other official bodies from subjective pressures and criticism caused by an artificial and wholly unnecessary issue. The only real resolution of a question as important as this can and must come from the people of Buffalo Grove, who are the final judge and jury in the election process."

THE BGA MEMBERS also called for action by the citizens "Until the problem is resolved, we urge the citizens of Buffalo Grove to take a particularly active and constructive interest in all actions of the board. This should be an opportunity to strengthen the independent, institutionalized processes for reviewing and evaluating all proposals relating to development and growth of the village. We also urge the residents to become a fully informed electorate for the vital election next April. The BGA, of course, will take an active role in this process."

The BGA executive committee did credit Armstrong with several improvements in the village, including the appointment of a village manager, initiation of a master plan for the village, and an aggressive public relations and information exchange program with the residents. "In short, the village has moved into a progressive, problem-solving mode of operation," the statement says.

Miller Named Principal At Buffalo Grove

by WANDALYN RICE

The assistant principal for instruction at Wheeling High School has been named principal of Buffalo Grove High School by the High School Dist. 214 board of education.

The board appointed Clarence (Chick) Miller to the post at its meeting Monday. He will take over duties supervising the new school, now under construction, on Dec. 1.

Miller, of 1550 N. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, has been in Dist. 214 for 12 years and has served in his present position since 1967. He holds a doctorate in educational administration from the University of Northern Colorado and has four children.

Miller, notified of his appointment by phone Monday night, said yesterday, "I'm highly honored. It's a real honor to be promoted from within a district because it means the people you work with have the confidence that you can do the job."

IN RELATED ACTION, the Dist. 214 board set next Tuesday, Sept. 19, as the date for a public hearing on proposals for attendance boundaries for Buffalo Grove High School.

The hearing will be held at 3 p.m. in the district administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The board received four proposals for the boundaries of the school, which is scheduled to open in Sept. 1973, last month.

The four alternatives are:
1. All students now in Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove and those living north of Palatine Road and attending Rand Junior High in Arlington Heights would attend Buffalo Grove High.

2. The same as Alternative One with the addition of students from the Dun-Lo Highlands and Buffalo Highlands in unincorporated Wheeling Township and of Cambridge subdivision in Buffalo Grove.

3. The same boundaries as Alternative One, except students in the Ivy Hill Elementary School area in Arlington Heights would continue to attend Hersey

Adult Forum To Eye The Aged In Society

The adult Forum at North Northfield United Methodist Church Sunday will discuss involvement of the aged in society. The forum meets for an hour at 9:15 a.m. in the church, Sanders and Dundee roads, Northbrook.

The Rev. Gilbert Smith, president of the United Methodist Homes and Services, will be the keynote speaker. The remainder of the hour will be open for questions.

The forum, an informal adult education program, meets weekly in the fellowship hall of the church, and is open to the public.

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $3.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

Palatine Road Should Be Made One-Way: Chief

Palatine Police Chief Robert R. Centner has proposed restricting Palatine Road to eastbound traffic between downtown Palatine and Northwest Highway.

In conjunction, Colfax Street would be made one-way for westbound traffic between Northwest Highway and Smith Street.

Centner made the suggestion as a means of easing traffic backups along Palatine Road, particularly during morning and evening rush hours and on Saturdays.

By making Palatine Road and Colfax Street one-way, he said, "You'll triple the number of cars you can get through there."

THE POLICE CHIEF presented his proposal to the public safety committee of the Palatine Village Board. Committee chairman Fred H. Zajonc stressed that considerable study would be made before any major change in the traffic pattern in Palatine would be instituted.

The matter will be discussed by the Palatine Board of Local Improvements, which is staffed by Village trustees.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun indicated that if the trustees decide to pursue the question further a professional evaluation will be sought.

Any change in the traffic pattern on Palatine Road and Colfax Street would have to be approved by the Illinois Department of Highways, because both Palatine and Colfax are state roads.

It also was indicated that any change would be a temporary move until plans are developed for revamping Palatine Road. The state highway division is awaiting word from the village on how Palatine Road should be redesigned near the downtown section of town, probably one or two blocks south of its present path.

CENTNER SAID that current traffic problems, starting with Harper College traffic at 4 p.m. and continuing through the rush hour until 7 p.m., necessitate interim action.

He suggested that stop lights at the intersections of Northwest Highway and Palatine Road, and Northwest Highway and Hicks Place, which would feed traffic onto Colfax, be adjusted to allow lengthy left-turn signals.

The Palatine Road discussion was prompted by a letter from the Rev. James W. Errant Jr., pastor of St. Paul United Church of Christ, 144 E. Palatine Rd.

Rev. Errant asked that a three-way traffic signal be installed at the corner of Palatine Road and Oak Street because of heavy vehicular and pedestrian traffic near the church. The intersection is about halfway between traffic signals where Palatine Road crosses Northwest Highway and Plum Grove Road.

THE PUBLIC safety committee was generally opposed to installing a light at Oak Street, but agreed with Rev. Errant to consider prohibiting parking on the east side of Oak Street from Palatine Road at least to the south end of the church parking lot and possibly beyond the north entrance to the lot.

The pastor also suggested that left turns from Palatine Road onto Oak be banned, but the possibility of making Palatine Road one-way eastbound would ease that congestion.

Rev. Errant had written to the village board for traffic control last year, but the board turned down his proposal for a stop light at Palatine and Oak.

Seek 'Typical Husband' In Murder Case

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

POLICE SURVEY the remains of two cars which collided last night on Ela Road, just north of Palatine Road in Palatine Township. Two persons were injured and first aid treatment by Pflm. Lance Bedini may have saved the life of one of the accident victims. Bedini prevented extreme loss of blood of a man whose jugular vein had been severed. (Photo by Greg Warner.)

Man Seriously Injured In Car Crash

A 30-year-old Chicago man was seriously injured and a hitchhiker he had picked up was also injured last night when the car in which they were riding went through a stop sign and struck another car just west of Inverness.

Seriously injured was William J. Walsh, 4336 N. Sheridan Rd., Chicago. He underwent surgery last night at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Both of his jugular (neck) veins were reported ruptured in the accident, and officials said only the quick work of Palatine Pflm. Lance Bedini saved his life. Bedini, a member of the force for 1½ years, prevented additional blood loss by closing the arteries with his fingers en route to the hospital.

A passenger in Walsh's car, who police said apparently was a hitchhiker, was identified by police as Twyla Bighunder, 26, reportedly of Lake Zurich.

She sustained a punctured lung and facial injuries.

The driver of the other vehicle, Peter R. Groth, 55, of 688 Milton Ln., Inverness, was reported shook up but did not require medical attention.

Witnesses told Cook County sheriff's police that the Walsh vehicle was eastbound on Bradwell at a high rate of speed when it went through the stop sign at Ela and struck the Groth car, which was northbound, about a half-mile north of Palatine Road.

Walsh's car came to a stop in a vacant field, about 75 feet east of the Ela-Bradwell intersection.

Cook County sheriff's police Pflm. David Ahlquist said he did not know why the Walsh car was unable to stop on the rain-slicked road.

He said neither car apparently had headlights on, even though the area was slightly foggy. The accident occurred about 6:30 p.m.

$13 Million School Budget Seen; Would Mean 1-Cent Tax Cut

Approval of a $13,336,456 budget, which would lower the tax rate one cent, is expected tonight by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

A public hearing on the 1972-73 budget is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tonight at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine. Approval of the budget will follow the public hearing.

The budget calls for an anticipated total tax rate of $2.516 per $100 assessed valuation. This compares to a levy of $2.526 per $100 assessed valuation last year.

For a homeowner with a house assessed at $10,000 this means his school tax bill will be $251.60, a dollar less than the previous year unless his assessment increases.

Deficit spending in the amount of $45,083 is anticipated. The major deficits are predicted in the education fund, $577,001.71; building fund, $130,326.03; life safety fund, $65,308.71; and special education fund, $67,375.11. The maximum tax rate will be levied for all these funds.

The deficits could be altered if early tax collection is higher than the predicted 20 per cent, if the assessed valuation of the district is higher than the estimated $235 million or if enrollment growth is below the expected 350 to 400 students, according to school officials.

THE EDUCATION fund, which finances the entire educational academic program, is increasing $1,264,249 to $10,348,066. State aid will contribute $4,631,640 to this fund.

Instructional costs represent 77.5 per cent of the total education fund. All but 7.2 per cent of the instructional costs consist of salaries. This compares to 81.3 per cent of the total education fund last year.

Despite the decrease in the percentage of the education budget, actual expenditures for instruction have increased $638,335.57 and three have been no cutbacks in service.

William Colburn, assistant superintendent of instruction, explained instruction represents a smaller percentage of the education fund this year because funds for school custodians have been transferred from the building fund into the education fund increasing the total education fund but at the same time decreasing the percentage of certain accounts.

The building fund, which covers the costs of maintaining, improving or repairing school buildings and property, renting buildings and property for school purposes and insurance in school buildings, has been set at $393,087, a decrease of $159,214.12 from the 1971-72 building fund. The decrease is due to the transfer of school custodians from the building fund to the education fund.

THE MAINTENANCE account of the building fund is almost doubling. This is because the board has decided to hire additional men and equipment to take care of the school grounds in the district.

The life safety code fund is expected to have a deficit of $65,309 at the end of the fiscal year because of the Winston Park School upgrading project. Life safety work on Winston Park School is scheduled for this spring and is expected to cost more than $500,000. Money will be borrowed from the working cash budget of the district to help finance the Winston Park project and paid back out of next year's life safety code fund.

WILLIAM FREMD

Palatine 73

44 Years Service to Education

WILLIAM FREMD, the man and the school, will adorn the windshields of Palatine cars next year. A 44-year veteran of school board service, Fremd, who retired earlier this year, was presented with a replica of the 1973 Palatine motor vehicle sticker by Mayor Jack Moodie

The red, white and blue sticker, was designed by Jeff Stasik, 1066 Hunting Dr., a June graduate of Fremd who plans to attend the University of Illinois as a commercial art major.

CCPA 'Looking To Next Year's Pact'

Although hopes for negotiating a salary increase are "not completely dead," Palatine's chapter of the Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA) may begin aiming for next year's contract agreement to get more money.

Chapter Pres. Michael J. McDonald said the local group may discuss the situation late next week. An area meeting of office holders in the association will attend a Board of Managers meeting Sept. 20.

Palatine's police-village situation may be discussed at the area meeting, McDonald said.

Earlier this summer, the village and the CCPA quit negotiations and the village board approved a 4 per cent salary increase for all village employees, including the police.

Members of the CCPA had been pushing for 5 per cent increase, down from their initial goal of 5½ per cent.

THE VILLAGE had increased its offer from its 3½ per cent figure at the beginning of negotiations.

Since the 4 per cent increase was passed by the village, the police association has made five attempts to get the village to reopen negotiations. McDonald called the weeks following the action a "cooling off period" to let emotions ease between the group and the village.

Police are currently receiving a $10,502 minimum starting wage and a top of $13,179 with the 4 per cent increase.

Park Dist. Offers Family Swim Pass

The Salt Creek Rural Park District is offering to residents, and a limited number of non-residents an opportunity to buy a fall-winter-spring family swim pass, good from Oct. 1 to May 17.

The pass will permit holders to swim Sunday, Monday, and Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 9 in the Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Thursday afternoons from 3:30 to 5 at the Howard Johnson Inn, Rt. 53 and Northwest Highway.

Cost is $10 for residents and $18 for non-residents. Registration will be accepted by phone by calling 259-6890.

Citizens' Panel On Flooding? Lots Of Talk, Little Action

A Palatine village trustee has suggested that a citizens' committee be set up to study the flooding problem in the village and what to do about it.

Clayton W. Brown proposed that eight residents be on such a committee, which would serve as an advisory body to the village board.

Brown said the idea arose at the trustees' Listening Post session last Saturday at village hall. Discussion was focused on flooding.

Homeowners associations in parts of Palatine which often flood have flood and sewer committees, Brown said. "Pointing out specific problems in their areas that we may not be aware of could help us reach solutions for them," he said.

A citizens committee also could be helpful in establishing rapport with homeowners associations, Brown said.

No action on the proposed committee was taken by the village board. Brown is to discuss it further with the village manager.

New Principal Will Meet With Parents

Charles Swangren, new principal of St. Thomas of Villanova School in Palatine, will meet parents of students at the first meeting of the school's home-school association next week.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school, 1141 E. Anderson Dr.

Swangren will introduce faculty members. He is formerly junior high school director of St. Francis Xavier School, Wilmette.

Alexandra's Bracelet PW Coming Home

Alexandra Kostos, of Elk Grove Village, has never met Norris Charles, but she was excited when she learned he may be coming home soon.

Navy Lt. (J.G.) Norris Charles is one of more than 500 Americans known captured and held prisoner by the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong in Southeast Asia.

A week ago Hanoi announced it would release Charles along with Navy Lt. Markham Gartley and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, to a private American anti-war group to return the men to the United States. A date for the release has not yet been set.

Until Charles is back safely in the country, Alexandra says she'll continue to wear the silver POW bracelet on her right wrist inscribed with Charles' name and the date Dec. 30, 1971, the day he was reported missing. Alexandra, 271 Fern Dr., is one of thousands of persons wearing the bracelets in remembrance of the American prisoners and those missing in action, but she thinks her bracelet is the only one with Charles' name on it.

"When I first heard the news he (Charles) was going to come back, I was thrilled," the 14-year-old freshman at Elk Grove High said.

SHE SAID SHE was first told the good news by a friend who heard the announcement on television. Alexandra said she has been watching the newspapers every day in hopes of hearing when Charles will be released.

"When Charles is back, I am going to send the bracelet to him," she said. "I think I can get his address from VIVA (Voices in Vital America, a non-profit student organization which distributes the bracelets)."

"I decided to get the bracelet because of my feelings about the war in Vietnam," she said. "I think it should be ended as soon as possible, but with the release of the prisoners."

Alexandra said she and her friends wear the POW bracelets so the men held prisoner won't be forgotten.

Waste Disposal LWV Meeting Topic

What is being done locally with solid waste will be discussed tonight in a general meeting of the Palatine League of Women Voters (LWV).

The program, focusing on Palatine and Rolling Meadows, is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Palatine Village Hall.

Representatives of the two governments will be present to discuss what is being done with solid waste.

The meeting, open to the public, is part of an overall League of Women Voters study of solid waste. Palatine members of the league will attend a workshop on the topic Thursday morning in Wilmette.

2 More Items Set In Contract Dispute

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education and representatives for the district's teachers firm up two more items for the 1972-73 teacher's contract at a negotiations meeting last night.

The two sides agreed to contract guarantees on teacher transfer policies and on the formation of committees by the Dist. 211 Education Association, representing the teachers and administration.

The two items will be included in the final contract, once it is agreed to by both sides. At a meeting last Saturday, the board and association had agreed on guarantees on teacher evaluation procedures, which will also be included in the contract.

At press time, the board negotiating team was in a closed session, discussing a proposal from the teachers on operation of the district's curriculum study committee. The board had made a proposal on that committee last Saturday, and the teachers presented a counter offer last night.

THE TWO SIDES have been negotiating for about six months on the 1972-73 contract. Negotiations had been stalled because of the board's refusal to negotiate "working conditions" such as evaluation and teacher transfer. However, the board recently modified its position and agreed to discuss the working conditions with the teachers.

The district's 448 teachers returned to work last month without a contract and are being paid based on last year's salary schedule. The two sides in the talks have not yet begun to negotiate salaries.

Association leaders have said they would like to take a report on the status of negotiations to their membership later this week. Last Saturday they asked the board to draw up a formal salary offer for this meeting, but at press time, the item had not yet come up.

Last night's meeting opened with some disagreement when members of the board's negotiating team objected to a flyer that was distributed last Friday and Saturday by members of the association.

THE FLYER, with the heading, "Who's Wrong? You Be The Judge" was distributed by teachers at local shopping centers on Friday and Saturday. The flyer states that the board has "stalled" in the negotiations and is responsible for the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement before the start of school.

Board members objected to the flyer, saying it was unfair and did not accurately represent the situation in negotiations.

Association spokesman, Carl Flaks explained that the flyers had been printed by the association "crisis committee" for distribution.

Following the board's objection, negotiations quickly resumed.

Village, Township Voter Signup 'Heavy'

Voter registration for the Nov. 7 general election is "rather heavy" at Palatine Village Hall.

Deputy clerk June Boston reported yesterday at least 300 residents have signed up to vote in the past month.

"This time, I guess, people are putting their vote where their mouths are," she said. "They've come to the realization that not voting is a yes vote for the party they oppose."

Most of the recent registrants are the newly enfranchised 18-to 21-year-old set,

Winston Park Sewer Lines Getting Boost

Work is expected to be completed next month on a project designed to increase the capacity of sanitary sewer lines in the Winston Park subdivision in Palatine.

The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago (MSD) is installing a third pump in the Winston Park lift station. The pump is expected to increase the capacity of the existing pumps by 50 per cent.

In addition to serving the 2,000 Winston Park homes, the third pump will be used by the Baybrook Park complex under development just south of Winston Park.

The pump will be designed to carry not only sewage, but also storm water which gets into the sanitary sewer system because of recessed driveways and illegally hooked up sump pumps.

Eventually, MSD plans to replace the Winston Park lift station with an interceptor sewer line at Rohlwing Road. Engineering work on the project has been budgeted by MSD.

plus numerous new residents who now are eligible to vote. The residency period for registration recently was lowered from six months to 30 days.

Persons who have lived in Palatine for 30 days and who will be at least 18 years of age by Nov. 7 can register at village hall, 54 S. Brockway St., between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. today, Thursday, Friday and Monday, and from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Monday will be the final day of voter registration at village hall for the Nov. 7 election.

VOTER REGISTRATION also is reported heavy at the Palatine Township Hall, according to Town Clerk Ruth Ellen Blowney.

"Over the past two weeks it's really been getting rolling," she said in the wake of the first late evening registration hours Monday night.

"I didn't even count them all Monday night," she said, but the people keep coming.

The township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, will be open Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. through Oct. 2 to accommodate expected heavy registration.

"We almost can't get anything else done," Mrs. Blowney said, but added "It's true all the time before an election."

The newly eligible block of youths between 18 and 21 apparently haven't made a great direct impact on voter registration at the township. But in another area — absentee voter applications — their numbers are very definitely noticed at the township hall.

At the beginning of last week, Mrs. Blowney received 50 absentee applications. Now they're already gone. She's ordered another 50 after the onslaught of college-bound youths wiped out the first supply.

Parents still can pick up applications and mail them to the students who were unable to get the absentee blanks this week, Mrs. Blowney said. This year is the first that applications are available without a written letter requesting one.

And after election day has come and gone?

"We're going to sit back and think about all the work we did," Mrs. Blowney sighed.

Family Of 14 Can Worship Its New Home In Real Style

sometimes having a family of 14 creates problems.

Take, for example, the matter of finding a place to live. Unless you are a Kennedy and can afford a mansion in Hyannis, or the President of the United States who can occupy the White House, there might be some headaches.

Eight years ago, when George Mager's king size family was faced with the need for a larger home, they found an easy answer: they bought an old convent.

"Actually, it was a rectory," Mrs. Mager said. "It was being used by St. Colette's Church until the new one was completed.

"My husband was active in church affairs, and when Father Halpin (Rev. James Francis Halpin) said the rectory would be available, my husband put in a bid and we were lucky enough to get it," Mrs. Mager said.

AT THAT TIME the Mager family numbered 12, including 9 children and Mager's mother. Since the family has lived at their converted residence at 3003 Grouse Ln., their numbers have grown to 14. The Mager children range in age from 21 to three.

From the outside, the Mager home doesn't look too different from any other home in Rolling Meadows. The one story, gold and blue painted frame structure is located on a corner lot, and like most other homes on the block, it has a two-car attached garage, trimmed shrubbery and front yard.

Inside, however, is where the similarity ends.

"Our basement was used as a chapel and had an altar," Mrs. Mager said. "There's also lettering on the floor."

"We also have a closet that was a confessional box," she laughed.

The family did make some changes in the building, partitioning rooms and converting it from a three bedroom to a six-bedroom home.

FRIENDS REACTED interestingly to the home, she recalled.

"Our friends were kind of amazed at first by the different rooms and fixtures," she said. "But when they walked in, they found it wasn't that different from a normal home."

Mrs. Mager said the house means more to the family than just a place large enough to accommodate them.

"It's a home that we really cherish," she said, "and I don't think I'd ever want to leave it."

Would Mean 1-Cent Tax Cut

$13 Million School Budget Approval Expected Tonight

Approval of a $13,336,456 budget, which would lower the tax rate one cent, is expected tonight by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

A public hearing on the 1972-73 budget is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tonight at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine. Approval of the budget will follow the public hearing.

The budget calls for an anticipated total tax rate of $2.516 per $100 assessed valuation. This compares to a levy of $2.526 per $100 assessed valuation last year.

For a homeowner with a house assessed at $10,000 this means his school tax bill will be $251.60, a dollar less than the previous year unless his assessment increases.

Deficit spending in the amount of $45,083 is anticipated. The major deficits are predicted in the education fund, $577,001.71; building fund, $130,328.03; life safety fund, $65,308.71; and special education fund, $67,375.11. The maximum tax rate will be levied for all these funds.

The deficits could be altered if early tax collection is higher than the predicted 20 per cent, if the assessed valuation of the district is higher than the estimated $285 million or if enrollment growth is below the expected 350 to 400 students, according to school officials.

THE EDUCATION fund, which finances the entire educational academic program, is increasing $1,264,249 to $10,348,086. State aid will contribute $4,631,640 to this fund.

Instructional costs represent 77.5 per cent of the total education fund. All but 7.2 per cent of the instructional costs consist of salaries. This compares to 81.3 per cent of the total education fund last year.

Despite the decrease in the percentage of the education budget, actual expenditures for instruction have increased $636,335.57 and three have been no cutbacks in service.

William Colburn, assistant superintendent of instruction, explained instruction represents a smaller percentage of the education fund this year because funds for school custodians have been transferred from the building fund into the education fund increasing the total education fund but at the same time decreasing the percentage of certain accounts.

The building fund, which covers the costs of maintaining, improving or repairing school buildings and property, renting buildings and property for school purposes and insurance in school buildings, has been set at $993,067, a decrease of $159,214.12 from the 1971-72 building fund. The decrease is due to the transfer of school custodians from the building fund to the education fund.

THE MAINTENANCE account of the building fund is almost doubling. This is because the board has decided to hire additional men and equipment to take care of the school grounds in the district.

The life safety code fund is expected to have a deficit of $65,309 at the end of the fiscal year because of the Winston Park School upgrading project. Life safety work on Winston Park School is scheduled for this spring and is expected to cost more than $500,000. Money will be borrowed from the working cash budget of the district to help finance the Winston Park project and paid back out of next year's life safety code fund.

Murder Suspect: 'Typical'

by KAREN BLECHA

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

Police believe the suspect, who they said looked like "a typical suburban husband," is the man who reportedly hired Mrs. Flanagan as a babysitter Saturday. Police believe he picked up the two victims at the CTA bus terminal at Milwaukee and Imlay avenues in Chicago, where Mrs. Flanagan had agreed to meet him.

POLICE SAID Mrs. Flanagan at about 1 p.m. Saturday received a call from a man answering an add to babysit that she had placed on the bulletin board at a Chicago Jewel food store. The man, police said, gave Mrs. Flanagan a nonexistent address.

Chicago police said yesterday they will release an artist's description of the suspect at noon today.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

Pass Revenue Sharing Bill

The U.S. Senate yesterday passed the long-awaited revenue sharing bill which will pump millions of federal dollars into the accounts of state, county and local government units in Illinois and throughout the nation.

The bill reportedly provides some $250 million to the State of Illinois part of which will in turn be distributed to other governmental bodies, including 10 municipalities in the Northwest suburbs.

The senate version of revenue sharing gives the state somewhat less than a previously passed House bill.

According to the revenue sharing bill passed by the House June 22, Arlington Heights had ranked tenth in the state in the amount of funds to be received (not including Chicago). The figure was over $1 million.

Palatine was to receive some $416 million and Rolling Meadows over $317 million.

According to the bills, the federal tax money would be returned to municipalities with no guidelines on how the money would be spent.

It has been suggested the funds might be used to lower taxes or provide increased services by municipal agencies without hiking taxes.

Council Acts On 'Aspen' Plan Oct. 2

The Rolling Meadows City Council last night heard again a proposal to annex 45 acres of land east of Harper College for a proposed apartment-shopping center complex.

Eugene Beery of Palatine, one of the principals in the development project, was told by Mayor Roland Meyer that the council will rule on his annexation and rezoning proposal at its Oct. 2 meeting.

Meyer told Beery he must submit several covenants as part of his petition to insure maintenance of open space area and the prohibition of cocktail lounges on the development site.

The Beery property already had been taken through a special city zoning commission, the plan commission and a public hearing before the city council, but final action could not be taken because city officials found irregularities in the original petition seeking annexation of the land to Rolling Meadows.

BEERY AND HIS partners want to build a 984-unit apartment development called Aspen apartments on 20 acres of the land and a small shopping complex on another five acres.

The apartments being planned would be in seven buildings including two 13-story and 5 three-story buildings.

Part of the property will be taken by the Metropolitan Sanitary District for flood control along Salt Creek.

The development proposal has been opposed by Palatine homeowners in the Hunting Ridge subdivision who have questioned what effect the development would have on local school districts, traffic and water supplies. Several of the residents attended the meeting to voice renewed opposition to the project.

Receives Degree

Stephen C. Casey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Casey, 915 Hedgewood, Palatine, has graduated from Bradley University in Peoria.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1978 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1978 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $33.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

The Illinois Education Association announced filing of a suit on behalf of teachers and college instructors in Illinois, and alleging that retirement funds for three groups of teachers were about $3 billion in arrears because of inadequate funding.

The World

Bazooka rockets fired from Syria crashed into an Israeli-occupied village on the Golan Heights and Israeli jets reportedly violated Lebanese airspace, heightening tensions in the Middle East.

A military spokesman said the Irish Republican Army is not going to run British troops out of Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital. "It is not military policy to move units under threat," the spokesman said.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with Kremlin leaders in Moscow under strict secrecy, but in Washington the White House freely announced his travel plans which may include another secret meeting with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

'Typical Suburb Husband' Sought In Murder Case

by KAREN BLECHA

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

Police believe the suspect, who they said looked like "a typical suburban husband," is the man who reportedly hired Mrs. Flanagan as a babysitter Saturday. Police believe he picked up the two victims at the CTA bus terminal at Milwaukee and Inlay avenues in Chicago, where Mrs. Flanagan had agreed to meet him.

POLICE SAID Mrs. Flanagan at about 1 p.m. Saturday received a call from a man answering an add to babysit that she had placed on the bulletin board at a Chicago Jewel food store. The man, police said, gave Mrs. Flanagan a nonexistent address.

Chicago police said yesterday they will release an artist's description of the suspect at noon today.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

Dennis said the description was not supplied by the CTA bus driver who said he saw Mrs. Flanagan picked up by a man with a 1965 blue Pontiac or Oldsmobile.

"We think the suspect has a conservative type haircut, schoolboy type, and is a neat dresser. He was wearing a brown and white sports jacket, dark trousers, shirt and tie and white shoes," Dennis said.

Dennis said police also are looking for a 1965 "clean" Oldsmobile, which may be connected to the suspect.

"We've got a maniac on our hands, a sex fiend," Dennis said. "I would venture to say he is still in the area, sitting back and listening in."

ACCORDING TO the Cook County Coroner's office, Mrs. Flanagan died from brain damage after being hit on the head with a blunt object. She was also choked, the coroner's office said. Authorities said she was not sexually molested.

The baby died of suffocation after being sexually assaulted, according to authorities.

Residents Protest Rob Roy Annex

About 120 residents came to the Mount Prospect Village Board meeting last night to hear trustees rule on the proposed annexation of what is now the Rob Roy driving range in Prospect Heights.

At Herald press time the board had made no decision on the matter. Kenroy Inc., owner of the 30 acres north of Euclid Avenue and adjacent to the village, wants the land annexed and rezoned to build a condominium development on 19 acres of the site. Kenroy has agreed to sell the remaining 19 acres to the river Trails Park District.

Although board approval had not yet been granted a preannexation resolution was drawn up by Village Atty. John Zimmermann. The resolution states "the village will pass such ordinance as well as enable construction of the development as contemplated by plan and agreement."

The Mount Prospect Plan Commission did not make a recommendation on the rezoning.

Kenroy's plan includes 544 one, two and three-bedroom units which will be sold to residents. The owners also agreed to build a retention basin on the park district land.

The Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) has already objected to the development. PHIA officials feel the development may increase the traffic problem on Alton Road and add to the flooding problem in the area.

According to Jack Gilligan, PHIA president, the association also believes Kenroy is violating the village density ordinance. Without including the park district land in the plans, Kenroy would have more units per acre than the village currently allows.

Administration Building Looted

Equipment worth $800 was apparently stolen last weekend from the Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 administration building, 701 W. Gregory St.

Mount Prospect Police said that tools taken from Fairview School, next to the administration building, were used to break in the rear basement door of the administration building. The tools were left behind, police said. Police said entry was gained into Fairview by kicking in a window.

Police said the theft occurred sometime between 1:30 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Supt. Richard Percy said missing items include two "brand new" electric fans, two cassette recorders, a large stereo, an electric pencil sharpener, and a clock-radio.

"We're still identifying the missing items," Percy said. "What's interesting is that there was money in several desks but it was not taken. A new movie camera and projector also were not taken."

Year Later: No Trace Of Plane And 4

On Sept. 11, 1971, a plane with four persons aboard took off from Pal-Waukee Airport near Wheeling, bound for Canada.

The plane's destination was a small Canadian village. The father of one of those on the plane had drowned while on a fishing trip near there, and his body had never been recovered. The four were flying to Canada to search the lake where the man had drowned, hoping they could recover the body.

But the plane never made it. Instead it disappeared somewhere in Canada with all its occupants.

And today, a year later, authorities still are unable to say definitely what happened to the plane and the four aboard.

THE MISSING twin-engine Cessna had been chartered by Carol Saunders, 28, of Arlington Heights and piloted by her fiancé Robert J. Poole, 44, of Mount Prospect. Also on the plane were two scuba divers: Jerry Schoenfeld, 31, of Chicago, and Dr. Lawrence Hays, 31, of Mount Prospect. The two had been hired by Miss Saunders to search for her father's body.

According to a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) official, the plane was known to have made it safely across Michigan. The pilot's last radar contact occurred when he requested a weather briefing to Alpine, Mich., the official said.

Following the plane's disappearance, the Civil Air Patrol, Air Force and Coast Guard began an air search over northern Michigan and Lake Huron. But the search turned up nothing, and it was called off a week later.

OTHER EFFORTS to turn up the wreckage also were unsuccessful. The father-in-law of one of the victims offered a $1,000 reward to anyone who located the plane or its occupants. Hazel Morgan, for whom Miss Saunders worked, tried to start a search fund for the four. She even contacted a psychic, who told her the plane may have crashed on a small island near Val D'Or in Canada.

THEN, IN EARLY October, Canadian searchers discovered what may have been debris from the downed plane on the shore of an island in Lake Huron. Found were a portion of a diver's suit, two life jackets and an aircraft panel.

A battered scuba tank was one of the last pieces of wreckage found, according to the wife of one of the victims, Mrs. Jerry Schoenfeld. She said the tank, "which looked like one of ours," was found last December.

Since then nothing more has been found, according to Cpl. George Lloyd of the Ontario Provincial Police. He said yesterday, however, that periodic checks still are made in the area where the debris was found.

According to Mrs. Schoenfeld, however, the opinion of the Ontario police is that the plane "is in too deep water" for any more of the wreckage to be washed up. "They think the plane is in too big an area to be found, a 10-mile-square radius," Mrs. Schoenfeld said. She said she has received calls from "an awful lot of volunteers" to help in the search, but "it's just in too big an area to do it."

Golf Course Fence Protested

About 30 Mount Prospect residents protested tentative plans to fence in three areas along the Mount Prospect Golf Course, 600 See-Gwon. They outlined their objections at Monday's Mount Prospect Park District meeting.

The three areas, including the eighth green, the ninth green and fairway and the 11th and 13th greens along Lonquist Boulevard have been the subject of continual attacks of vandalism, according to Robert Jackson, board president. All of the areas have open access to the street so that vandals can come and go as they please, Jackson said.

"The cost of material and the cost of labor is becoming too excessive," Jackson said. "It's reaching the point where we spend more money fixing the vandalism than fixing the golf course." According to Jackson, the park district has spent about $3,600 in labor and $500 in replacement costs for repairs of vandalism in the last year.

THE RESIDENTS are protesting the installation of the fence because they fear it will mar the "country club atmosphere" flashers on all their vehicles so residents made suggestion to the park board as alternatives to the fencing. One resident suggested the board install park district flashers on all their vehicles so residents could distinguish vandal's vehicles and call the police. "If the cars had flashers, I would know it was somebody from the park," one of the residents said. According to Jackson, however, many of the park district's vehicles are too small to accommodate the installation of such flashers.

Another resident suggested a voluntary junior patrol to help police the off course. However, Jackson said he was wary of such a group. "What happens when somebody gets hurt? he said. "We need your help, but we can't expect you to be our policemen," he said.

Ken Goodman, golf superintendent, reported that he has estimates of approximately $4,300 to fence in the three problem areas. However, Jackson said the board is not planning any immediate action on the fencing since the cost was not included in the board's original budget this year. "We will keep you informed of any action, however," Jackson said.

IN OTHER ACTION by the board Monday, Paul Caldwell, asst. park director, reported increased use of Lions Park Recreation Center. "We see some positive things happening with the center," Caldwell said. "Already the gym is being used more, with a lot more groups moving in. We think we're solving the problems of kids hanging around. I think it's been a natural process," he said. "Getting tough on some of the kids has helped."

"The teen center is being used to an extent as a drop-in," Caldwell said. "But we have permanent professional help now and we're being much tighter on what's happening there as well as moving in more organized programs like floor hockey," he said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was tight despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $33.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

The Illinois Education Association announced filing of a suit on behalf of teachers and college instructors in Illinois, and alleging that retirement funds for three groups of teachers were about $3 billion in arrears because of inadequate funding.

The World

Bazooka rockets fired from Syria crashed into an Israeli-occupied village on the Golan Heights and Israeli jets reportedly violated Lebanese airspace, heightening tensions in the Middle East.

A military spokesman said the Irish Republican Army is not going to run British troops out of Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital. "It is not military policy to move units under threat," the spokesman said.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with Kremlin leaders in Moscow under strict secrecy, but in Washington the White House freely announced his travel plans which may include another secret meeting with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

The stock market suffered its sixth consecutive loss as prices plunged sharply and broadly on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading continued relatively light. The Dow Jones Average fell 8.96 to 946.04. Declines outnumbered advances, 1,078 to 351, among the 1,767 issues crossing the tape. Turnover totaled 13,560,000 shares, up from 10,710,000. Prices moved lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

What It's Like To Crisscross The U.S. With McGovern

by TONI GINETTI

To most Americans, a presidential campaign is that unique phenomenon occurring every four years when paid political announcements dominate the air waves, and bumper stickers and precinct captains appear everywhere telling you to vote for their man.

That mental picture will probably never occur again to Richard Johnson, the Rolling Meadows man who last week traveled with the campaign entourage of Democratic presidential hopeful George McGovern and will be the subject of an upcoming television program.

Johnson, who seems to have become somewhat of a champion of middle class America, was selected for the second time this year by the National Public Affairs Center for Television (NFACT) to participate in the preparation of television programs dealing with the "average American."

The first program, aired in February, dealt with some of the economic woes currently plaguing middle class America.

"A FEW OF THE things that we stated in that show apparently came true," Johnson laughed, "because about 10 days ago the producer of the show called my wife and asked if I would like to take part in another one."

The latest "Johnson feature," which will be seen Sept. 20 on WTTW-TV (Channel 11), will follow Johnson for a behind-the-scenes look at a presidential campaign and candidate as viewed through the eyes of "the average man."

"They told me the purpose of the show was to report on what I saw and heard, and to state my viewpoints," Johnson said. "You might say it was to be more or less a campaign as seen through the eyes of the small guy."

"It's just amazing what the average man doesn't know about what goes on behind the scenes," Johnson said. "I mean after the speeches, rushing back to the plane and so on."

"There's so much hubbub, but results come from it. I've come to call it 'dis-organized organization,'" he laughed. "Everybody seems to be running around but they get things done."

In the five days that Johnson spent with the campaign, he crisscrossed the country, visiting ten cities, from Los Angeles to Superior, Wis. He said aides told him the trip covered almost 8,500 miles.

"It was quite strenuous," Johnson admitted. "Usually I didn't get to bed before midnight."

Two personal interviews with McGovern were included in Johnson's schedule.

"ONE INTERVIEW was informal and we discussed football, among other things," Johnson said. "In the other interview, the shorter one, we discussed what I guess you would call 'Nitty gritty' politics. That interview will be, I believe, the focal point of the television show."

Johnson said he found McGovern to be a "dedicated" man who likes to talk to people.

"He left the thought in my mind that he is just as good, in my opinion, as any available Democrat, with the exception of perhaps (Sen. Edward M.) Kennedy," Johnson said. He said, too, that, as political polls seem to indicate, McGovern "has a long way to go" to defeat President Nixon.

One incident during the trip stands out in his mind. "In Albuquerque, I had a room overlooking the hotel swimming pool. Being a Saturday, McGovern had been given the day off by his staff.

"I looked out my window and I saw McGovern sitting at the pool side in his swimming trunks, relaxing just as you or I would," Johnson said. "But the thing that really impressed me was that all around the pool area, sitting under the umbrella tables, were the secret service agents."

WHILE HE describes the trip in glowing terms as "a fantastic experience," Johnson says he hopes his television escapades don't become a regular event.

"Some of the reporters asked me if I was going to be taking a trip with President Nixon next for 'equal time,' but that's not what this was about," he said. "It was just arranged for me to have the opportunity to travel as an average guy on a presidential campaign."

From The Library

by LAURIE ROSSI

If you're looking for popular books, the place to go is the seven-day shelves across from the checkout desk at the Mount Prospect library. They're called seven-day books because they're so much in demand we must limit the length of time anyone can have them out.

One of the books you'll find here is "The Year-Round School," written by the school superintendent and assistant superintendent in Romeville, Ill. The Valley View schools there have been operating on a 45-day on, 15-day off plan since June, 1970, which has increased the utilization of school buildings by one-third. In this book the authors have tried to analyze the impact of the continuous school year on children, teachers, and the community, presenting the case for and against.

After they explain the problems inherent in calendar change, they present guidelines for a smooth transition. The idea of the continuous school year cannot be ignored. It has been discussed locally and is certainly at least a possibility for the future.

SPEAKING OF children, if you have them you may want to read "Power to the Parents! A Common Sense Psychology of Child Raising for the 70s." It was written by a couple experienced in family counseling who are themselves the parents of nine. They discuss what our children need and don't need from us, and their major premise is that parents should be in control.

In this same vein, many readers remember "Baby and Child Care" published by Dr. Benjamin Spock in 1946. Certainly this book influenced parents all over the world. The man who helped raise today's generation of young people has taken an active role in protesting the Indochina war, which resulted in a trial by the U.S. government in 1968. The life of this man is traced — from his early upbringing in a moralistic well-to-do home, to his role as Public Authority Number One on babies, to his place in society today — in the book "Doctor Spock: Biography of a Conservative Radical."

THE LIBRARY would like to thank the five girls who have been aiding the children's room as junior volunteers this summer. (These are different from the women, under the leadership of Mrs. Jack Perz and Mrs. Thor Rune, who are helping with the summer reading program). Their names are Celeste Presperin, Anne Graham, Debbie Koreck, Denise Tambarello, and Lynn Ronchetto.

The library is open 9-8 weekdays and 9-5 Saturdays. It's air conditioned, so come on in!

Randhurst Will Get $1,000 Annual Water Bill Credit

The Randhurst Shopping Center will receive a $1,000 a year credit from Mount Prospect on its water bills.

The action came at last week's village board meeting after Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley recommended the move. Eppley said the discount was because Randhurst saves the village "approximately $1,000" by reading, billing and collecting individual tenant meters.

Randhurst had been seeking a $2,000 discount, Eppley said, "but we could only justify $1,000." He added, "I think this will be an equitable solution."

There are about 90 individual meters at Randhurst, but the shopping center is billed by the village from one master meter. Under a 1961 agreement, Randhurst can charge tenants an extra 10 per cent for water, even while the center pays the same rate, 75 cents per 1,000 gallons, that homeowners pay.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert told the audience at the meeting the board action "was not preferential treatment for Randhurst." He added he did not personally like the surcharge Randhurst is allowed to charge but he would go along "as long as the village isn't losing (money)."

According to Randhurst officials, the shopping center uses between 34 and 36 million gallons in a typical year.

Such A Deal Village Has For You...

Prospect Hts. Negotiators 'Optimistic'

Both teacher and school board negotiating teams in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 are "optimistic" they can reach a 1972-73 contract settlement when bargaining talks resume tomorrow, representatives of both sides said last week.

The two teams will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the district's administrative offices, Palatine and Schoenbeck Roads. The meeting is open to the public.

"I think we can probably come to terms," said Bob Atterbury, head of the bargaining team for the Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA). "I think we can reach a compromise. We're willing to compromise, and we hope the board is also."

"I'm always optimistic," said Henry Vallely, negotiator for the school board. Atterbury said the "outstanding" issue to be resolved is the amount of money in teachers' merit pay fund. Teachers have asked for a 2.5 per cent hike plus $25,000. The board's latest offer would give teachers the hike and $15,000 in the merit fund.

Teachers last week voted to continue bargaining with the board for two more sessions. "If we don't have a settlement after two sessions, we'll go back to the teachers and ask them what to do," said Elene Waite, PHEA president.

The two sides started negotiations in March. The two teams already agreed to giving teachers 20 sick days plus two personal leave days a year.

Correction

An article in last week's Herald incorrectly stated that residents from Na-Wa-Ta Avenue in Mount Prospect contended that Golf Road was built high enough to result in a 14-foot drop from the road to the surrounding property. Actually residents contend the road was built at such a high grade there was a 14-inch drop to the surrounding area.

Forest View Roof Repair To Begin

Work will start this week on repair of the Forest View High School gym roof damaged earlier this summer by tornado-like winds, but the gym may not be usable until Christmas.

The High School Dist. 214 board of education Monday night approved contracts for the roof repair and reconstruction.

The main repair of the roof will cost $52,412, $44,550 of which will be paid by the district's insurance company. In addition, the district will pay another $22,736 to rebuild the roof to stop a perennial problem with leaks.

Robert Weber, District assistant superintendent, told the board it will take 20 to 30 full days and added, "The contractors are doubtful work can be completed before Christmas."

THE GYM IS unusable because of extensive water damage to the floor. Larry Jenness, Forest View Principal, said gym classes are being conducted outside on good days and in the theater or the dance, wrestling and weight rooms on rainy days.

In addition, Jenness said, the gymnastics balcony in the gym is usable.

The fall basketball intermural program is now going on at nearby Holmes Junior High School, administered by Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, Jenness said.

Varsity basketball practice is scheduled to start Nov. 6, right after the school's last football game, he said, and if the gym is not finished by that time, arrangements will have to be made for the program.

Jenness said he assumes he will be able to find space for the basketball team to practice in other high or elementary schools, and added: "The first game is set for the weekend before Thanksgiving and the worst that can happen then is we'll have to arrange to play games at the high schools that have away games on our nights."

IN OTHER ACTION, the Dist. 214 board: —Approved the police counselor program for the district's seven schools. Under the program, village police department assigns officers to the schools with the school district paying 40 per cent of the cost.

—Approved bus transportation for students from Forest View High School who act as teacher aides in Dist. 59 elementary schools. Last year about 100 high school students participated in the program.

Park District Offers Fall Programs

Residents of the Prospect Heights Park District can now sign up for new fall programs, including yoga, tumbling and trampolining and a man's basketball league.

Residents can register for all fall programs by mail or at the park district office, 9 N.B. Elmhurst Road. Some fall programs begin September 20.

Yoga will be offered on Wednesdays from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the park district office. Fee is $12 for the eight-week session. Instructor is Florence Heifner.

Tumbling and trampolining, which will start Oct. 14, will be held on Saturdays from 10:30 a.m. for boys and 10:30 to noon for girls. To be eligible, a student must be in the third through fifth grades. Fee is $4 for the six-week session which will be held at MacArthur Junior High in Arlington Heights.

MEN MUST register as a team for the basketball league. Games, which will begin on Nov. 14, will be played on Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Fee for the eight-week program is $50 per team.

Knitting and crocheting will again be offered this fall. Knitting classes will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. Fee is $10 for the eight classes. Instructor is Lottie Grant.

Crocheting classes will follow the knitting sessions from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. Fee is also $10. Both classes begin Sept. 23.

Floor hockey for third through eighth graders will begin Oct. 14 and continue for six weeks. One-hour sessions will be held between 9 a.m. and noon on Saturdays in the gym at MacArthur Junior High. Fee is $4. Instructor is Jim Verba. Instruction for guitar will begin on Oct. 19 and be held from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursdays for 10 weeks. The classes will be held in MacArthur in room 19. Fee is $10 plus books. Randy Schwaber is instructor.

DECOUPAGE AND holiday boutique will also be available. Decoupage, which will be held on Tuesdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., will begin Oct. 3 at Hersey. Instructor is Mariann Vernon. Fee is $12 for the eight-week class.

Holiday boutique, which will begin on Oct. 26, will be offered at Hersey from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays. Fee is $4 for six weeks. Instructor is Lou Kautzinger.

Miller Named Principal At Buffalo Grove High

by WANDALYN RICE

The assistant principal for instruction at Wheeling High School has been named principal of Buffalo Grove High School by the High School Dist. 214 board of education.

The board appointed Clarence (Chick) Miller to the post at its meeting Monday. He will take over duties supervising the new school, now under construction, on Dec. 1.

Miller, of 1550 N. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, has been in Dist. 214 for 12 years and has served in his present position since 1967. He holds a doctorate in educational administration from the University of Northern Colorado and has four children.

Miller, notified of his appointment by phone Monday night, said yesterday, "I'm highly honored. It's a real honor to be promoted from within a district because it means the people you work with have the confidence that you can do the job."

IN RELATED ACTION, the Dist. 214 board set next Tuesday, Sept. 19, as the date for a public hearing on proposals for attendance boundaries for Buffalo Grove High School.

The hearing will be held at 8 p.m. in the district administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The board received four proposals for the boundaries of the school, which is scheduled to open in Sept. 1973, last month.

The four alternatives are:

1. All students now in Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove and those living north of Palatine Road and attending Rand Junior High in Arlington Heights would attend Buffalo Grove High.

2. The same as Alternative One with the addition of students from the Dun-La Highlands and Buffalo Highlands in unincorporated Wheeling Township and of Cambridge subdivision in Buffalo Grove.

3. The same boundaries as Alternative One, except students in the Ivy Hill Elementary School area in Arlington Heights would continue to attend Hersey

Work Begins On New Village Water Well

Work has begun on a well that will provide additional water for Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights residents serviced by Citizens' Utilities Co. of Illinois.

The well, to be located in the Quincy Park subdivision in Prospect Heights, will provide an additional 1.5 million gallons per day. The more than $300,000 project is slated to be completed by December, according to a spokesman for Citizens Utilities.

The well is 1,323 feet deep and designed for the deepest large line shaft pump installation in the United States. The well will serve residents in the area bounded by Palatine, River, Elmhurst and Foundry roads.

Motorcycle Stolen From Back Yard

A Triumph motorcycle valued at $980 was apparently stolen late Friday or Saturday from the backyard of a Mount Prospect home.

Mount Prospect Police said William Regan reported his motorcycle missing from the backyard at 1005 Cottonwood Dr. He said the vehicle had been covered with an orange tarpaulin and was not locked, police said.

Police said the theft occurred between 10 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Sunday.

$250 In Tools, $125 In Cash Stolen

Tools worth approximately $250 and $125 in cash were apparently stolen Sunday or early Monday from the Shell service station at River Road and Euclid Avenue in Mount Prospect.

Mount Prospect Police said the theft must have occurred between 2 p.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday. Police said there were no signs of forcible entry.

PTA Notes

Central School Parent Teachers Association, whose theme this year is "Take Time," hopes everyone will take time to attend the first PTA meeting of this school year 1972-73 on Tuesday, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Central School multipurpose room. A panel of "American Women" invite all to learn about your neighbors in the community-at-large, your children, yourself, and your city.

The panel will also talk about their personal experiences with racial discrimination. It promises to be an interesting evening, relevant to today. The social hour to follow will be a good time to meet and greet old friends and acquaint yourself with the new ones.

The refreshments will be served by the room-representatives of the sixth grades. An introduction of the staff at Central School along with the Central School PTA executive and regular board will also be on the agenda.

Jay School PTO Is Holding Tea Series

The PTO at John Jay School in Mount Prospect is holding a series of teas this week to allow students' parents to meet PTO officers and James K. Fay, school principal. Teas for Parents of students in the first through the third grades were held Monday and yesterday. A tea for parents of fourth and fifth graders will be held at 1 p.m. today at the school.

Other upcoming Jay PTO events include an open house Sept. 20, a garage sale Oct. 7 and a pancake brunch Nov. 5.

Admiral Favors Housing For Navy At Nike Base

Naval housing should be built at the Arlington Heights Nike Base on Central Road because good housing is needed in order to develop an all volunteer military force, according to Rear Admiral W. M. Enger.

"The shortage of adequate housing for servicemen has an adverse impact on national efforts to develop an all volunteer force," said Enger.

Enger wrote the letter in response to an Arlington Heights Park District letter protesting the possible construction of housing at the site, which the district hopes to turn into a regional park.

The park district also received a letter from a special assistant in the Navy, on behalf of President Nixon, acknowledging the district's letter protesting possible Naval housing at the Nike Site. Civic organizations which have written to federal officials protesting the housing have not received replies.

A MILITARY CONSTRUCTION authorization bill was recently passed by Congress and 350 housing units are included in the bill for the Chicago area. According to the Navy, 165 units are earmarked for Arlington Heights.

"The last time naval housing was being proposed for the Nike site (1968), the military said it was because of the Vietnam war," said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation. "They always come up with some excuse."

The Navy currently owns 51 acres of the 137-acre Nike Base. Housing proposed in 1968 was never built because funds were diverted to a more urgent navy project, and the 51 acres remain undeveloped.

If the housing is built at the Arlington Heights base, 80 to 90 per cent of the men living there would work at the Glenview Naval Air Station, about 15 miles east of Arlington Heights. Other men would work at Navy recruiting centers located throughout Chicago and the suburbs, according to Robert Grulke, deputy public works officer at Glenview.

Park district officials suggest the Libertyville Nike Base as a possible alternative site for Naval housing. According to Grulke, however, if housing was built at the Libertyville site, men would work at the Great Lakes Training Center near North Chicago.

Besides the Arlington Heights and Libertyville Nike Sites, portions of the 350 housing units are proposed for the Glenview Naval Air Station and Fort Sheridan, according to Enger's letter.

FINAL DETERMINATION of building sites probably will be made after the appropriations bill for the project is approved by Congress, which is expected after the national elections, according to Naval officials.

The regional park proposed for the Arlington Heights Nike Site received the endorsement of Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.) in January. However, Percy was absent during the vote on the military construction authorization bill, which passed the senate by a 67-1 vote August 4.

The park, if approved, would include a lake, golf course along with picnicking and hiking facilities.

Information Booklet, Calendar Approved

The village board has approved expenditures of $3,847 and $1,379 for the printing of a 1973 village calendar and village information booklet.

The money will be drawn from the community relations account of the 1972-73 village budget which has been allocated a total of $14,000.

Asst. Village Mgr. Darryl Kenning said the calendar would be designed to include information on village government and services.

Have Trees Fooled Mother Nature?

by CINDY TEW
Mother Nature has been fooled. The calendar says it's still summer, but many trees in Arlington Heights have started to turn fall colors.

The wet weather, clay soil and abundance of insects have made for a tough summer for Arlington Heights 27,000 trees, according to Erwin Page, village forester.

"Trees are showing a scorched condition because the excessive amount of rain has cut off some of the oxygen supply to trees," said Page. "Also, the soil around here, which is almost all clay, can't store enough water to last for more than three or four days."

Trees are also turning fall colors early because of an abundance of aphids, an insect that sucks moisture out of leaves.

"The aphids are giving elm trees conditions similar to Dutch Elm disease," Page said.

Of the 171 trees chopped down by the village this summer, 150 were victims of Dutch Elm disease. Each year about 2 per cent of the elm population fall to the disease. Currently there are about 5,500 elms in the village.

"I EXPECT to lose two per cent of the elm population each year for the next several years, until a cure for Dutch Elm disease is found," said Page, who is confident a cure will eventually be found.

Removing a tree costs about $150, which is paid for by the village if the tree is within 33 feet of the center of the street. The removal cost of trees was increased $12 per tree when burning of trees was outlawed this year.

"The firm we contract with now brings dead trees to a landfill near Northbrook for disposal. This will cost the village about $2,500 extra a year," said Page.

Elm trees on private property which contract Dutch Elm disease are condemned by the village, but removed at the property owner's expense — which runs from $200 to $300, according to Page. About 80 elms with the disease have been removed from private property.

Elm trees are concentrated between Dryden and Wilke on the east and west and Central and Oakton on the south and north, Page said. This year a large number of trees were cut down on Evergreen, Dunton and Vail Streets.

"THE BEST safeguard against Dutch Elm disease is a healthy tree. Along the three roads where many elms died, construction had hurt the roots of the trees and made them more susceptible to the disease," Page said.

Replacing dead trees also is done at village expense — about $35 per tree. Page said hard maples, ash, and linden trees often are used to replace elms.

"What we need are trees that don't interfere with traffic, and stop before they hit power wires — we're looking into purchasing some Hawthorne trees which should fill the bill," Page said.

Page, who says he tries to cut down as few trees as possible, has removed 21 trees this year which were damaged by wind or lightning.

"If homeowners want a tree cut down, I make sure there's a legitimate reason for it," he said.

Pass Revenue Sharing Bill

The U.S. Senate yesterday passed the long-awaited revenue sharing bill which will pump millions of federal dollars into the accounts of state, county and local government units in Illinois and throughout the nation.

The bill reportedly provides some $250 million to the State of Illinois part of which will be distributed to other governmental bodies, including 10 municipalities in the Northwest suburbs.

The senate version of revenue sharing gives the state somewhat less than a previously passed House bill.

According to the revenue sharing bill passed by the House June 22, Arlington Heights had ranked tenth in the state in the amount of funds to be received (not including Chicago). The figure was over $1 million.

Palatine was to receive some $416 million and Rolling Meadows over $317 million.

According to the bills, the federal tax money would be returned to municipalities with no guidelines on how the money would be spent.

It has been suggested the funds might be used to lower taxes or provide increased services by municipal agencies without hiking taxes.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $3.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

The Illinois Education Association announced filing of a suit on behalf of teachers and college instructors in Illinois, and alleging that retirement funds for three groups of teachers were about $3 billion in arrears because of inadequate funding.

The World

Bazooka rockets fired from Syria crashed into an Israeli-occupied village on the Golan Heights and Israeli jets reportedly violated Lebanese airspace, heightening tensions in the Middle East.

A military spokesman said the Irish Republican Army is not going to run British troops out of Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital. "It is not military policy to move units under threat," the spokesman said.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with Kremlin leaders in Moscow under strict secrecy, but in Washington the White House freely announced his travel plans which may include another secret meeting with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

Bid To Recoup Flood Costs

The Village of Arlington Heights will petition the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) to recoup an estimated $15,000 to $18,000 in expenses tied to the Aug. 25 storm.

The village board designated Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson to represent Arlington Heights in negotiations with the SBA.

Hanson said yesterday that he expected all storm-related expenses, except manpower costs for pumping out basements, would be reimbursed.

He said most of the extra expense was linked to the collection and disposal of refuse hauled out of flooded basements.

Hanson said he has not yet received the complete bill for the extra hauling but he said $15,000 probably would be a conservative estimate.

LAST WEEK, Frank Charlton, village health director, said the Laseke Disposal Co. had picked up nearly 680 tons of storm-damaged furniture, clothing and other personal possessions.

James E. Monroe, director of building and grounds for Arlington Heights School Dist. 25, said he has applied for a grant of $10,000 to $15,000 from the education division of the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

An HEW inspection team is expected to inspect damaged school sites late this week or early next week, Monroe said.

'New Year's Resolutions' In Garden

by CINDY TEW

Next year is going to be different. Gardeners at Arlington Heights Park District's Prairie Park have made a long list of planters' resolutions for next spring:

"I will weed my garden once a week."

"I will follow directions printed on the seed packages."

"I will start my compost pile as soon as the ground thaws."

"I will not sneak nonorganic fertilizer into my plot by moonlight."

The garden plot program, now in its second season, includes 237 families.

"THERE ARE A LOT of people who don't know the finer points of gardening out there," said Angelo Capulli, superintendent of parks. "It's not unusual to find carrots planted too close together or radishes too deep."

Capulli got the idea for the garden when he looked at the vacant land two years ago and envisioned a farm.

"I'm getting tired of asphalt and concrete at every park. Ball diamonds aren't the only part of recreation," he said. "Farming is the heritage of Arlington Heights — and maybe we should have a reminder of that in years to come."

Since there is no money to start a farm right now, Capulli decided to start the garden project. He had heard of another such project in Champaign, and remembered the victory gardens from World War II.

"Garden plots are a new trend. More people are living in apartments and even those with homes sometimes have postage-stamp sized backyards. Also the price of vegetables is constantly going up," he said. Capulli also thinks the new ecology kick has a lot to do with the popularity of organic gardening.

According to statistics, the trend is catching on in Arlington Heights. Last year the plots were 10 feet wider than the 20-foot by 30-foot plots this year, and some were left over. This year, there was a waiting list for the 237 plots.

THE ENTIRE garden plot project was a smoother operation this year, according to Recreation Supervisor Alicia Smith. The main complaint last year was a lack of water, this year the park district added two drums of water to the park.

"More people took organic gardening seriously this year — I only saw a few people hauling chemical fertilizers out to their plot," said Miss Smith. "At least no one could complain about the lack of rain this year."

And with the rain came the mosquitos — which everyone complained about.

"We sprayed the plots a couple of times with a fogger, but it didn't do much good — that's too big of an area and here were just too many mosquitos this year," said Capulli.

According to Capulli, about $400 is spent annually in maintenance of the park, including staking off the plots at the beginning of the year and plowing them under at the end.

This year's gardens will be plowed under after the annual flower and garden show Saturday.

"We'll plow the plots under as soon as it dries up enough to get some machinery in there," Capulli said.

Award Contracts For Tennis Facility

Contracts which exceed $600,000 for the construction of an indoor tennis facility adjacent to Forest View High School were awarded last night by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Awarding of the contracts followed complex legal technicalities, including the repealing of one ordinance, adoption of two other ordinances and three resolutions.

One ordinance set basic membership and hourly rates for the facility to show that enough revenue will be generated by the facility to pay off the revenue bonds, which will pay for the original construction of it.

MEMBERSHIP fees for residents will be $30 for adults, $15 for juniors and $60 for families. Non-resident membership fees will be $60 for men, $30 for women and juniors and there will be no family rate.

Hourly rates will be $9 for prime time and $7 for non-prime time during the Oct. 1 to May 31 season. During the off season, rates will be $4 for everyone. Time will be sold on a lottery basis.

Bids were approved for George Knight Construction Co., the general contractor for $433,172; E. G. Eftswold Co., plumbing and sewers for $40,600; Kopps Sheet Metal, Inc., heating and ventilating for $68,400; and Nesko Electric Co., electric work for $64,800.

Revenue bonds for the facility, in the amount of $735,000, are expected to be delivered and sold Monday by the park district. Originally, $700,000 worth of bonds were to be sold, but construction bids were over $50,000 above estimates.

Another snarl in plans for the facility, obtaining land on which to build it, was straightened out Monday night when School Dist. 214 agreed to trade some property with the park district.

Amateur Gardeners Invited To Exhibit At Show Here

Amateur gardeners in Arlington Heights are invited to exhibit their best flowers and vegetables of the season Saturday at the First Annual Flower and Garden Show at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez.

The show, co-sponsored by the park district and the Arlington Heights Garden Club, will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Exhibitors should register between 8 and 10 a.m. Saturday.

Ribbons will be awarded for first and second place in flower, fruit and vegetable categories. There will be an adult as well as a junior class, for those under 18 years old. There is no entry fee.

At Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott, Saturday, the fall couples get-together will be held starting at 7 p.m. The drop in center will feature basketball, volleyball, billiards, floor hockey and table games. All couples in the area are invited.

Also at Frontier Park will be weekly men's nights, which feature basketball. New swingback backboards have been installed at Frontier and Camelot Parks for the occasion. Men's nights are Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Camelot, 1006 E. Suffield, and Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Frontier.

For women, the first Feminine trip of the fall season will be held Sept. 20. The trip, to Chinatown, will cost $6, including lunch and transportation.

Another special event for women will begin Friday at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner. The event, called Women Today, will be a coffee hour and discussion of current topics, which will start at 9 a.m.

Bridge for adults will begin Sept. 19 at Heritage Park, 506 W. Victoria, and will be held every other Tuesday.

Third Condominium Plan For Area To Be Presented

The third major condominium and townhouse development to come before the Arlington Heights plan commission this fall will be presented today at 8 p.m.

The Meister-Neiberg company, which built Ivy Hill subdivision, is seeking approval of a 450 unit residential complex on 49 acres of land west of Windsor Drive approximately a quarter mile north of Palatine Road.

McDonald Creek cuts across the southeast corner of the property which is now undeveloped and in unincorporated Cook County.

Project plans specify the construction of two retention basins, totaling almost five acres, near the creek.

Four and five story apartment buildings are grouped around the retention ponds and contain a total of 276 apartment condominiums.

CURRENT PLANS specify 56 one-bedroom units, 112 two-bedroom units, 36 two-bedroom plus den units and 72 three-bedroom units.

A total of 132 townhouses are shown on the site plan, including 32 two-bedroom, 80 three-bedroom and 20 four-bedroom units.

Two parking spaces for each dwelling unit are specified. Each townhouse would have a two-car garage and each of the four and five story apartment buildings would contain underground parking for 58 cars.

Plans call for the extension of Valley Lane east, through the development, to Windsor Drive. Cherry Lane, however, is not extended. Instead it ends in a cul de sac in the new single-family portion of the proposed development.

The principal entrance to the project would be off of Windsor Drive onto Valley Lane extended.

Other features of the development include foot and bicycle paths along McDonald Creek and to the nearby Ivy Hill School, a swimming pool and tennis courts.

THE NEW MEISTER-NEIBERG project is the third large townhouse and condominium proposal to come to the plan commission this fall.

On Aug. 30, Fidelity Builders presented its plans for a development in the Surrey Ridge West subdivision and on Aug. 16, I. Simon, Inc. unveiled plans for a project near the northeast corner of Palatine Road and Rte. 53.

Both those proposals are still pending before the plan commission.

A prohibition against positioning any building closer than 30 feet to a constructed flood channel.

Flood Plain Housing Issue

A proposed 450-unit housing development which will come before the Arlington Heights plan commission tonight appears to be close enough to McDonald Creek to fall under the village's flood plain ordinance.

Meister-Neiberg Co. is proposing the largely multi-family development for 49 acres of now unincorporated land west of Windsor Drive and north of Palatine Road.

Two existing subdivisions and at least one other undeveloped project also appear to fall under the restrictions of the 1967 village flood plain ordinance.

Portions of the Ivy Hill and Brookside subdivisions in north Arlington Heights near McDonald Creek were subject to flood plain controls, according to village planning engineer John Best.

The undeveloped Three Lakes project, once planned for the northern most tip of Arlington Heights near Buffalo Creek, would also be subject to flood controls, Best said.

The 1967 flood plain ordinance incorporated maps prepared by the U.S. Geological Survey in 1963-64 which designated various flood plains in the northwest suburban area. Part of the maps were updated in 1971.

THE ORDINANCE states as its purpose "to lessen or eliminate the hazards to persons and damage to property resulting from the accumulation or runoff of storm or flood waters."

It lists nine conditions in map-designated flood plains.

One condition is that there be on-site retention facilities big enough to contain storm water runoff caused by development of the property.

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) put a similar stipulation into effect on Jan. 1 of this year.

Other conditions include:

- Construction of buildings so the top of the foundation is at least 3½ feet above the record flood level for that parcel.

- Buildings must be "floodproofed, water-tight and designed to prevent sewer backup and ground water seepage" according to standards approved by the building commissioner.

- The prohibition of ground or surface water drain connections to a sanitary sewer.

- A minimum of 10-foot wide swales for rear or side lot drainage.

Man Hospitalized After Car Crash

A Des Plaines man was taken by fire department ambulance to Northwest Community Hospital after a two car collision at 1:51 p.m. Monday at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

Samuel I. Stork, 41, 8941 W. Church St., Des Plaines, was admitted for observation at the hospital. He complained of pain, but there were no visible injuries, police said.

Police said Stork was northwest bound on Rand Road when he stopped for a changing light. A car following Stork, driven by Debra L. O'Donnell, 17, Carpentersville, could not stop because of wet pavement, police said. They said Miss O'Donnell's car struck Stork's car in the rear.

Miss O'Donnell was cited for driving too fast.

City Should Prevent End Of Bus Company: Aldermen

Des Plaines should act to prevent United Motor Coach Co. from going out of business and ending its bus service, 9 of 16 city council members said yesterday.

In a survey conducted by the Herald, the nine aldermen said the bus service cannot be allowed to collapse, despite anticipated financial losses the city is expected to suffer if forced to take over the bus company.

Only two of the 13 aldermen available for comment said they are opposed to purchase of United Motor Coach by the city.

"The city is going to do something to keep the bus company going," Ald. Arthur Erbach (5th) said. "A number of cities the size of Des Plaines have taken over bus companies to provide community service."

Officials of the Ernst and Ernst consulting firm, which predicted at Monday's committee of the whole meeting that a public bus system here cannot operate at a profit. Anticipated losses next year could total $45,000, accountants Frank Crickman and Stephen Holstad said.

"IT'S DEFINITELY worth money to keep the system going," Ald. Spencer Chase (3rd) said. "Historically, it will be difficult to get involved without it costing us money."

If Des Plaines purchases the firm or increases subsidies, service and local bus routes may change, most aldermen predicted.

"Many people say transportation is a critical issue. What they're really talking about is transportation within the city—getting down Thacker-Dempster to the library," Ald. Alan Abrams (8th) said. "The real question is the gain and service to area citizens."

"I lean toward service for Des Plaines," Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd) said. "A bus company could survive in Des Plaines with decent equipment."

Most aldermen favored use of a mini-bus system. "A number of people on the south side would make use of mini-buses. Service would be at a lower cost. Why run a 53-passenger bus for limited number of people?" Erbach said.

Bus officials estimated Monday that 40 per cent of the firm's riders are from Des Plaines. The company provides local school service to Maine Township schools. United's 2.8 million passenger service in 1971 served 20 Northwest suburbs.

Aldermen also indicated yesterday that city purchase could lead to changes in bus service outside Des Plaines. "We're going to need financial feedback from other communities to find out how much they're willing to participate," Erbach said. Niles, Park Ridge, Morton Grove and Des Plaines currently subsidize the firm.

"THERE ARE STILL a lot of unanswered questions," Ald. Daniel Bonaguidi (7th) said. Versions of possible sale price vary from Ernst and Ernst's report figure of $500,000, United's $793,000 appraisal and Mayor Herbert Behrel's $1 million prediction.

Chase said he will ask Sept. 18 for an independent appraisal of United's assets.

At least two aldermen will argue against Des Plaines purchase of the company.

"I'm not too keen on the whole idea," Ald. Robert Michaels (8th) said. "We're buying a dead horse. We're bailing out a sick company."

"If they came up with a bankrupt price, a good deal, I might consider it. But, I can't see paying a market price for an operation that's losing money," Michaels said.

"If someone can't convince me that this can break even on a long-term basis, I'm not sure we should burden the taxpayers with this," Daniel Kisslinger (4th) said.

"If someone came up with an ultimatum, I'd be inclined to say 'let them close the door,'" Kisslinger said.

The report, including cost of 65 new 53-passenger buses, lists a $3.42 million "gross project cost." More than $2.28 million of the price is maximum federal aid applicable to the program. Project cost for Des Plaines is estimated at $365,053.

"WE'RE TALKING about pretty large numbers. If there's any possibility of any chunk falling out, we can't do it," Kisslinger said.

"There comes a time when the cost would be prohibitive. We can't put up $3 million. We only have a $9 million total budget," Ald. Ewald Swanson (6th) said. "We have to make sure no one comes out of this smelling like a rose."

Michaels warned that bus company stockholders would profit from sale of the financially-plagued firm. "We'd get the dead weight. The employees and management would stay without having to worry about profit anymore."

Ald. Charles Bolek (3rd) warned of possible labor cost increases at Monday's council meeting. The report lists $751,740 in salaries and wages for 1971 and a 5 per cent increase to $788,990 this year. "Some union contracts were signed where people didn't take a raise to keep the company going," Bolek said. "If the city buys the company, are those unions going to turn around and demand more money?"

Both Ald. Kenneth Kehe (2nd) and Lois Czabakowski (5th) said city intervention, based on current information, to save the bus firm is necessary. "We can't let the transportation go down the drain," Mrs. Czabakowski said.

All aldermen called for city financial study of the proposal before determining Des Plaines bus company course.

Ogilvie To Speak At GOP Dinner

Gov. Richard Ogilvie will speak and be guest of honor Oct. 6 at the Maine Republican Dinner sponsored by the Maine Township Regular GOP Organization.

Committeeman Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines said other Republican officials and candidates for major state and national offices have been invited. Names of additional officials attending the dinner will be announced as confirmations are received, he said.

Dinner Chairman Ray Hollis said the $30 a plate dinner will provide operating funds for the Republican organization. Co-chairman Joan Hall said all township residents who want to show their support for the local organization are invited.

Tickets for the event, which will be held at the Marriott Motor Hotel, 8535 W. Higgins Rd., Chicago, can be obtained by calling Q. A. Ottinger at 823-6878 or the GOP headquarters at 824-8350.

Niles Board Opposes Beckwith Site

The Niles Village Board of Trustees, last night, unanimously opposed the location of the permanent campus of Oakton Community College on the Beckwith Road site in Morton Grove.

The announcement was made by Morton Grove Mayor Jules Bode during the public meeting called by the Oakton Board of Trustees. The meeting was attended by more than 900 citizens opposed to the Beckwith site.

The Niles board joined the board of trustees in Morton Grove and Golf as well as elementary school districts 67 and 70, the Morton Grove Park District Board, the board of auditors in both Niles and Maine townships, and two members of the Oakton College Board of Trustees in opposing Oakton's choice for a permanent campus site.

AT AGE 108 MARY Burkhardt, resident of the Des Plaines Convalescent Home, 866 Lee St., is still active. Each day she reads the paper, strolls through the nursing home and listens to music. Born in Chicago in 1864, she remembers working at Marshall Field's and the Chicago fire

Mary's 108—She Recalls Fire Of 1871

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"Once in a while, I have a birthday," said Mary Burkhardt, a resident of the Des Plaines Convalescent Home at 866 Lee St. Last month Miss Burkhardt celebrated her 108th birthday with a cake, presents and music.

Mrs. Carol Fruehe, director of the convalescent home, said Miss Burkhardt loves music and often is seen tapping her foot to modern rock.

Miss Burkhardt was born on Aug. 25, 1864, in Chicago. As a young woman she worked in Marshall Field's department store where she took phone orders and was a sales lady in the fur coat department.

She remembers the Chicago Fire of 1871, when, she says, "everything was burned." She heard that the fire was started by a kerosene lamp but said she never heard the story about Mrs. O'Leary's cow.

IN 1902, AT THE age of 38, she and her sister, Catherine, moved to Oklahoma where they took up farming. "It was hard work," she remembers milking the cows on the farm," she said. "They were mean and you had to be careful."

When Miss Burkhardt first came to the Des Plaines Home two years ago she was ill and very weak. Since then she has become stronger and is able to walk around the home, read the newspaper every day without using eye glasses, and every night she recites the Lord's Prayer.

She smiles when floor nurse Mary Kelly asks her if she was pretty in her youth. She had many beaux and she was particularly fond of one, but for reasons that will always remain a secret, they never married.

When Miss Kelly asked Miss Burkhardt if she ever indulged in liquor or cigarettes when she was young, she was shocked. "We don't talk about such things," she said.

Looking back on Chicago in the post-Civil War days, she said the "place was different" back then. "Time is short," she said.

Young, Mikva Renew Debates

Congressional candidates Sam Young and Abner Mikva will meet tonight in the fourth of a series of campaign debates at St. Anselm's Episcopal Church, 1800 N. Greenwood Ave., Park Ridge.

The debate, sponsored by the Cypress Chapter of the Women's American ORT, is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. U.S. Rep. Mikva, a Democrat who moved to Evanston last year from Chicago, and Young, a Glenview attorney, are seeking the vacant 10th District Congressional seat.

They will meet again tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Meyer Kaplan Jewish Community Center, 5050 Church St., Skokie. The two candidates also are scheduled to meet next Wednesday at Trinity Lutheran Church, 675 Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines, in a debate sponsored by the church's social ministry committee.

Washing Machine Thief Cleans Up

Three automatic washing machines and three oven range hoods valued at $600 were stolen from an apartment building under construction in Des Plaines, Monday night.

Police said the washing machines and hoods were still in their cartons when they were stolen from the building at 1425 Ashland Ave.

According to reports thieves removed boards nailed across the basement window to enter the building and apparently removed the appliances through the same window.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The citizen's commission named to investigate the Attica prison riot reported there was "no justification" for the "clearly indiscriminate firing" by state police which put an end one year ago to the nation's bloodiest prison riot in which 43 men died.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the 1976 Olympics be called off. "They have become too political, too racial, too anarchic, too murderous," he said. A vote in the Senate is due soon on a bill to provide $15 million for the 1976 Olympics at Denver.

Voter turnout was light despite generally sunny weather in eight states deciding contested primary nominations for governor and Congress. The closest race involved Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.,

chairman of the House Interior Committee.

Three years after he proposed it, the Senate approved President Nixon's revenue sharing plan to give $33.6 billion in federal taxes back to the cities and states over the next five years.

The State

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy leading the cheering section, Sen. George S. McGovern wooed Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic organization leaders, telling them they are essential to his victory chances. An estimated 100,000, largest crowd of the McGovern campaign, was in the Loop for the McGovern visit.

The Illinois Education Association announced filing of a suit on behalf of teachers and college instructors in Illinois, and alleging that retirement funds for three groups of teachers were about $3 billion in arrears because of inadequate funding.

The World

Bazooka rockets fired from Syria crashed into an Israeli-occupied village on the Golan Heights and Israeli jets reportedly violated Lebanese airspace, heightening tensions in the Middle East.

A military spokesman said the Irish Republican Army is not going to run British troops out of Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital. "It is not military policy to move units under threat," the spokesman said.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with Kremlin leaders in Moscow under strict secrecy, but in Washington the White House freely announced his travel plans which may include another secret meeting with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

'Typical Husband' Sought In Murders

by KAREN BLECHA

Police are searching for a 35-year-old white man with curly reddish brown hair in connection with the slaying of a Chicago housewife and her infant daughter, found dead Monday in Mount Prospect.

The nude bodies of Mrs. Barbara Flanagan, 27, and her 18-month-old baby were found early Monday morning in the parking lot at Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. Mrs. Flanagan, of Chicago, was partially covered by a grey blanket.

Police believe the suspect, who they said looked like "a typical suburban husband," is the man who reportedly hired Mrs. Flanagan as a babysitter Saturday. Police believe he picked up the two victims at the CTA bus terminal at Milwaukee and Imlay avenues in Chicago, where Mrs. Flanagan had agreed to meet him.

POLICE SAID Mrs. Flanagan at about 1 p.m. Saturday received a call from a man answering an add to babysit that she had placed on the bulletin board at a Chicago Jewel food store. The man, police said, gave Mrs. Flanagan a nonexistent address.

Chicago police said yesterday they will release an artist's description of the suspect at noon today.

The description of the man was given by a source police would not reveal yesterday, according to Capt. Ed Dennis of the Niles police. He and representatives of Mount Prospect and Chicago police met downtown yesterday to coordinate information on the case.

Dennis said the description was not supplied by the CTA bus driver who said he saw Mrs. Flanagan picked up by a man with a 1965 blue Pontiac or Oldsmobile.

"We think the suspect has a conservative type haircut, schoolboy type, and is a neat dresser. He was wearing a brown and white sports jacket, dark trousers, shirt and tie and white shoes," Dennis said.

Dennis said police also are looking for a 1965 "clean" Oldsmobile, which may be connected to the suspect.

"We've got a maniac on our hands, a sex fiend," Dennis said. "I would venture to say he is still in the area, sitting back and listening in."

ACCORDING TO the Cook County Coroner's office, Mrs. Flanagan died from brain damage after being hit on the head with a blunt object. She was also choked, the coroner's office said. Authorities said she was not sexually molested. The baby died of suffocation after being sexually assaulted, according to authorities.

Dennis said Niles police became involved in the case because the CTA terminal is only one block south of Niles borders. He said police assume that "the offender drove north on Milwaukee Avenue, through Niles." "We're proceeding along the lines of known sex offenders," he said.

Wheel Tax Enforcement 'Off Again,' Sheriff Says

The on-again, off-again Cook County wheel tax is off again.

At least for the moment. Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said Monday his policemen have been instructed to discontinue enforcing the controversial wheel tax ordinance in view of a recent court ruling against the tax.

The tax, adopted by the county board in late December, is similar to the charge of most villages and cities for vehicle stickers. The county version of the tax is levied only against residents of unincorporated areas, however. The rate varies from $10 and $15 for most automobiles up to $95 for heavy equipment.

Circuit Court Judge Raymond Sarnow recently ruled the tax is unconstitutional. Judge Sarnow, acting on a suit against the tax brought by the Prospect Heights Improvement Association and the Cook County School Bus Co., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township, said the tax violated the new state constitution because the ordinance failed to provide any new or specific services to the residents.

COUNTY BOARD PRES. George W. Dunne had indicated previously that the money received from the tax would be earmarked for use by the sheriff's department, but that provision was not included in the ordinance.

Following the ruling, Asst. State's Atty. Paul Biebel, representing the county, indicated he would appeal the ruling within the allotted 30 days. Last week Biebel said he expected the sheriff's police would continue to enforce the law pending the outcome of the appeal.

Similarly, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said Wednesday the police would continue to enforce the law until the appeal is settled.

Monday, however, Matthew Walsh, legal adviser to Elrod, said enforcement of the ordinance was "abated" following a meeting Thursday with Elrod and Chief Edmund Dobbs.

WALSH SAID THAT in view of the ruling the ordinance was unconstitutional, further enforcement would be an "exercise in futility."

He added, however, that if and when the state's attorney's office files an appeal, another meeting will be held and the merit of the appeal considered. At that time, Walsh said, it could be decided to resume enforcement of the law.

Walsh said he expects persons who have been ticketed for violating the ordinance will get relief from the court when they appear. He said it will be up to the individual judges whether to accept or reject Judge Sarnow's ruling.

Oakton Plans Child Care Center

A day care center for the children of Oakton Community college students, staff and faculty members will be opened Sept. 25 on the school's temporary campus at 7900 N. Nagle, Morton Grove. The center will be coordinated with the college's child care program and students will work as aides in the center.

Child care centers are in great demand throughout the United States, according to Clarence W. E. Luther, director of the child care curriculum at Oakton. There is a need for child care for two million children, he said, but there are only about 700,000 children now in child care centers.

Besides providing a service for parents who work or attend classes at Oakton, the center will serve as a learning laboratory for Oakton students studying child care. Upon graduation from Oakton the student may transfer to a four-year college, open a day care center, or work as a teacher aide in private and public schools.

If the student decides to obtain a bachelor's degree, he may transfer to a college of education or a university department of home economics and child care. Luther said many of the universities in Illinois have accepted all of Oakton's child care courses for university credit.

LUTHER SAID the curriculum at Oakton, which includes eight child care courses as well as courses in science, communications, psychology and sociology, prepares the student for children with various learning abilities. The curriculum includes courses dealing with children with above average intelligence as well as children with physical, mental and emotional handicaps.

Although there aren't many jobs open for teachers, said Luther, there is a demand for teacher aides in public and private schools. Teacher aides help to give each child individual instruction and schools that can't afford to hire additional teachers can often hire teacher aides.

Students in the child care program will observe children at play in the child care center. Those students who will work as teacher aides in the center, will have the opportunity to prepare lessons and practice teaching them to the children.

WHILE THERE WILL be no instruction in the alphabet or numerals, children will study colors and shapes as they fingerprint, play games, listen to stories, and act in skits. "It's not just a baby-sitting program," said Mrs. Allweiss.

The child care center will be located in Building 6 on the temporary campus. It will have a capacity for 15 to 20 preschool children and hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The cost will be 50 cents per child per hour.

Enlists In Marines

Pvt. Steven Photiades, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Subloski, 1788 Sycamore Ave., Des Plaines, has enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps for four years. According to Sgt. Thomson, the Marine recruiter at 800 Lee St., Des Plaines, Photiades has taken advantage of two Marine Corps programs. By enlisting in the delay program, Steve enlisted last week and will not leave until Sept. 22. He also took advantage of the guarantee program offering him the field of his choice.

Judge Rules In Village's Favor In Zenith Suit

A Cook County Circuit Court judge ruled in favor of Mount Prospect Monday in the court battle over the rezoning of Zenith Radio Corp. property at Central and Mount Prospect roads.

In their lawsuit against the village, both Zenith and the Dominion Development Co. asked the court to allow construction of a neighborhood convenience center at that location. Two radio towers and a transmission building now stand on the property.

The property is currently zoned for single-family use and an attempt last November to get the property rezoned for the shopping center failed. The village board voted to deny the change, saying the property is on a residential block and should stay zoned for residential use.

Between 25 and 35 neighborhood residents protested the rezoning which would allow a White Hen Pantry store and other small shops on the site.

The neighbors, as well as village officials, maintain the proposed center would worsen the traffic problem in that area.

$153 Burglary At Car Rental Agency

Thieves stole $153 in cash and travelers checks from a Des Plaines car rental agency Sunday night. It was the fifth such burglary at the agency in the last two months.

According to police $133 in cash and $20 in travelers checks were removed from a money bag at the Econo-Car Rentals located in the Holiday Inn at Touhy Avenue and Mannheim Road between 10:30 p.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday.

Police said the night clerk at the rental agency put $108 in cash and checks into the money bag Sunday night then placed the bag in a safe deposit box which was then placed in the lobby vault of the hotel.

The day clerk at 7 a.m. Monday noticed the missing money and called police.

In the last two months a total of $798 in cash has been stolen in a similar manner from the rental agency's safe deposit box.

Bowden Will Speak

James Bowden, administrator of the Brookwood Convalescent Center, 2380 Dempster Street, Des Plaines, will speak this week at the Institute for Administrative and Managerial Personnel of Long-Term Care Facilities in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Bowden's topic is "Human Relations in Management."

The three-day meeting has as its principal theme, "Development of Human Resources in Services to Aging." Bowden has been administrator at Brookwood since November 1971. He and his family reside in Highland Park.

Teacher Pact In Dist. 26 May Be Near

Though a salary agreement has not yet been reached in River Trails Dist. 26, there is a good possibility that negotiations may be concluded this week according to Jan White, chairman of the River Trails Education Association (RTEA).

The preamble and several other language differences in the procedural section of the contract were settled at the bargaining session Thursday night.

"We bounced back approaches to salary, how you handle increments and other financial matters," Mrs. White said. "Both sides expected the other to offer something more specific (on salary), but there was a bit of a misunderstanding. We both plan to have more specific facts to present on salary at the next meeting," she said.

BOTH THE teachers and the board seem optimistic about completing negotiations soon. "It's possible we might finish this week," Mrs. White said. "We definitely saw a more positive attitude at the bargaining table than before."

"There was good feeling at the table on both sides," Richard Zwieback, professional negotiator for the board, said. "I'm kind of optimistic."

At the last meeting of the board and the RTEA in June, Zwieback offered the teachers an average $350 raise. The raise, approximately 3.7 per cent, would be in the form of an increment, a raise based on experience and education. The amount of the increment would be the same as that in last year's salary schedule and would cost the district $52,000, according to Zwieback. The board is still waiting for the teachers to reply to this offer.

Originally, the RTEA proposal included a 6.5 per cent salary increase plus the increment. Teachers then said they expected the increment plus a cost of living raise which they estimated at about 3.2 per cent.

Crane Links Business Legislation To 'Hysteria'

by BOB LAHEY
U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, Monday told a group of Northwest suburban businessmen that small businessmen must form a vanguard to combat public pressure goading Congress into passage of "ill-conceived and ill-advised" legislation restricting business.

Crane told a combined meeting of the Palatine and Rolling Meadows Rotary clubs that repressive legislation is being passed in "an atmosphere of near hysteria" by legislators fearful of reactions by "the media, John Gardner or Ralph Nader" (Gardner is chairman of the self-styled "public lobby," common cause.)

Crane appeared before nearly 100 Rotarians from the two clubs, and guest members from Mount Prospect, on a program that included state Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer.

Prominent among the examples of legislation which Crane said is crippling small business was the recently enacted Occupational Health and Safety Act.

The bill contains "a good deal of harassment which goes far beyond the health and safety of employees," he declared.

"IT CONTAINS built-in production costs which are making many small businesses into marginal operations," said Crane.

He told of one manufacturer in Chicago who related to him that his business showed a profit of $76,000 last year on gross sales of $6 million. The cost of implementing the OSHA requirements for that business will be $30,000, he said.

In answer to a question by one of the Rotarians, the congressman said he believed that some provisions of the health and safety legislation to be clearly unconstitutional.

He cited a provision authorizing unlimited and almost unlimited inspections by federal authorities as a violation of the Constitutional amendment protecting against unwarranted search and seizure.

He also said the authority of federal inspectors to "arbitrarily shut down plants" is a violation of Constitutional protection against seizure of property without due process.

Crane said he has proposed a number of amendments to OSHA to correct these provisions, but cautioned that they probably would not be considered in Congress before 1973.

Crane blamed "capricious" action by federal authorities, abetted by the news media, for much of the "climate of fear" influencing Congress in actions against small business.

HE CITED RECENT government announcement that an antifreeze commercial on television was misleading. When the government claimed the antifreeze was actually harmful to automobile engines, the story appeared in 160 newspapers, "mostly on the front page," he declared.

When the government retracted its statement, "the story appeared in 80 newspapers, mostly next to the obituaries," he declared.

He also cited a government announcement, shortly before the Thanksgiving holidays, that insecticides had poisoned American cranberry crops. The government did not discover and retract its error until after Thanksgiving, when the cranberry industry's peak season had been decimated, he said.

He also told of a Highland, Ill., business which manufactured "that shredded cellophane known as Easter grass," which was wiped out, while holding a $250,000 inventory by a "capricious and arbitrary ruling" by the Federal Drug Administration that its product was flammable and dangerous to children.

At a meeting with FDA officials, Crane said he was unable to obtain an agreement that manufacturers of Easter grass be granted time to dispose of their inventories "although no government agency could produce any record of any child ever being burned" by it.

"IT IS HIGH TIME," declared Crane, "that the business community got up on its hind legs and roared its disapproval" of such government actions.

Businessmen, he said "need to reassure timid politicians that they don't need to be afraid of political fallout" from voting against measures which they believe to be harmful to business.

Unless businessmen counter unreasonable pressure for "God and motherhood" legislation harmful to them, they "will find business being conducted by government edict," he warned.

8 New Teachers Join Faculty At Maine East

Eight new teachers have joined the faculty at Maine East High School for the 1972-73 school year.

In the industrial education department Allen Brower will teach two classes each of auto fundamentals and power mechanics. Brower has a B.S. degree from Illinois State.

Two teachers have been hired to fill vacancies in the home economics department. Mrs. Gretchen Denny has a B.A. degree from Michigan State, and Mrs. Alice Gray has a B.S. degree from Michigan State. Mrs. Denny will be teaching psychology, and Mrs. Gray will be teaching both psychology and foods classes.

The music department filled three vacancies this fall. Those hired were Kenneth Gelz, with a B.S. degree from Northern Illinois University; Thomas Hageman, with an M.S. degree from the University of Illinois; and Preston Waldrop, who holds a master of music degree from the University of Texas.

In the speech/drama department, David Jeffers, who holds an M.A. degree from the University of Hawaii, will act as department chairman, and David Hamacher, with an M.S. degree from Butler University, will teach speech arts and debate.

'Matter' Is Topic For Church Service

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Laurel and Marion streets, Des Plaines this Sunday will hold a service titled "Matter." Bible citations and correlative statements from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will be read from the desk.

All are welcome to come to this service which begins at 11 a.m. — as does the Sunday School for students to the age of 20 years. A nursery is available for children too young for Sunday School.

Wednesday evening meetings begin at 8 p.m. and include a brief reading followed by testimonies from the congregation. The public is welcome to attend all services.

Park District Mailing Brochures

The Des Plaines Park District fall and winter brochure is being delivered to local homes this week. This year's brochure offers a wide range and variety of programs. There are day and evening programs scheduled for children and adults pre-school through Golden Ageds.

Registrations will be taken at the Park District Office on 748 Pearson St. Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Speaking Of . . .

Home, Sweet Home

by KAY MARSH

Are you sick and tired of crime and grime? Maximum taxes and minimum services? Crowded schools? Pollution? A miserable climate? Limited job opportunities?

Then it's definitely your move. And most of us do, eventually. But where?

You might try a little town in Alabama that offers you some of the lowest living costs to be found anywhere. Or maybe you'd like a Maine village that offers you both skiing and swimming — all the blessings of the mountains and the seashore. Or perhaps you're hoping that there's still at least one place in Florida that offers what Florida used to offer before everybody else discovered it. Or just possibly you'd prefer the wide open spaces of the West — especially in the Arizona town that claims the purest air in the country.

So how do you decide? Well, there are a couple of 1972 books that combine a wealth of information with just plain interesting reading. If you've ever thought about moving anywhere for any reason — to find a new job, open your own business, retire or whatever — you owe it to yourself to browse through both of these.

"SAFE PLACES" is a big, beautiful 932-page book that sells for a hefty $13.95. Its authors, David and Holly Franke, traveled some 20,000 miles to pick 47 "peaceful paradises where the living is easy . . . and safe."

"Safe Places" is billed as an "Escapologist's Baedeker." It concerns itself in considerable detail with such matters of personal security as crime statistics, police departments, community services, health facilities, et cetera for each of its "safe places." It also provides extensive information on the local employment picture, housing costs, tax rates, educational opportunities, community life and amenities, as well as some details about the surrounding areas.

Included, too, are general information and sources for further information, plus a wealth of miscellanea ranging from a map of California earthquakes to calendars of special events and climate statistics for various regions. The safe places, by the way, are to be found in some 35 of these United States — from Bellevue, Wash., to Dunedin, Fla.

WHERE TO RETIRE on a small income is a popular book by Norman D. Ford, issued this year in its 17th revised and enlarged edition. Its 200 pages sell for a modest $2.50. Written strictly from the standpoint of thrifty requirement, it deals with such matters as possibilities for gardening and part-time employment. It limits itself geographically to New England plus what the author calls the "retirement belt" and "America's island paradises." Most of the towns recommended feature the moderate climate that offers so many advantages to individuals seeking retirement.

What about the Midwest? Because of its emphasis on mild climate, the Ford book includes few midwestern towns.

"Safe Places" does: Wabash, Ind., for instance; Grinnell, Iowa; Gaylord, Mich.; Ogallala, Neb.; Tiffin, Ohio; and Green Bay, Wis. The authors seem especially enthusiastic about Winona, Minn., which, in the words of commentator Paul Harvey, has "no pollution, no riots, no organized crime and no traffic congestion, no mass unemployment, no vacant houses, no overcrowded schools and no polo team." He added, "They're thinking about a polo team." Though most recommended towns are small, "Safe Places" also includes a few big city suburban communities for the affluent, such as Belvedere, Calif., and Wellesley, Mass.

"WHERE TO RETIRE on a small income" concentrates entirely on smaller towns with populations ranging from 2,500 to a maximum of around 50,000. Its special feature is a list of 24 Treasure Towns, called "America's most livable, worry-free towns."

Both books list some of the same towns — such as the ones mentioned at the beginning of this column. The Alabama town is Fairhope, which offers excellent swimming and fishing, a climate to rival the French Riviera, and maximum cultural opportunities, all at minimum cost. The Florida town is Mount Dora, only half an hour from Orlando but "far enough away to avoid the problems caused by the new Florida boom," at least according to the Franks. Flagstaff, Ariz., has the purest air in the nation. And Camden, Maine, is the picturesque New England community Ford describes as "superbly situated where pineclad hills sweep down to the sea."

But check your library and browse a bit in both these books. You'll probably find some great new places to visit — and maybe one will be just right to live in, in your future.

To Install Mrs. D. Martiny President Of Double Dydee

Double Dydee Mothers of Twins Club will install newly elected officers at their meeting, Thursday evening. Mrs. Don Martiny, Mount Prospect, will be installed as president. Mrs. Pat Tuttle, Elk Grove, vice president, Mrs. Donald Jeanis, Palatine, secretary, and Mrs. Myron Tollefson, Buffalo Grove, treasurer. Mrs. Joe Gruspler, Prospect Heights, will be installing officer for the 8 o'clock meeting.

Plans to attend the Tenth Annual Convention of the Illinois Organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs will be finalized at this meeting. Double Dydee is hoping to have ten members attend the 2 day convention being held in Joliet this year on October 20 and 21.

Mrs. Bob Volck, Hoffman Estates, treasurer, reports that $2,947.14 was donated to Clearbrook School for the Retarded of Rolling Meadows. She also reports that $200 was donated to Illinois Organization of Mothers of Twins Club for their project this year, Lydia Children's Home of Chicago.

The following appointments to chairmanships are being announced: Mrs. Joe Kennedy, Buffalo Grove, publicity; Mrs. Floyd Lundeen, Elk Grove, hospitality; Mrs. Bob Volck, bowling party; Mrs. Tony Petricca, Schaumburg, Christmas party; Mrs. Edward Massart, Wood Dale, reporter; Mrs. Denny Walters, Elk Grove, picnic; Mrs. Lawrence Casey, Hoffman Estates, membership; Mrs. John Emmel, Buffalo Grove, social; Mrs. Jon Theeke, Rolling Meadows, banquet; Mrs. William Remer, Arlington Heights, advisor; Mrs. Lynda Peterson, Rolling Meadows, and Mrs. Joe Gruspler, ways and means; Mrs. John Lindsey, Wood Dale, editor; Mrs. Harold Chamberlain, Palatine, state representative.

Membership in Double Dydee is open to all mothers of multiple births. Meetings are the second Thursday of each month at Lauterburg and Oehler meeting room, 2000 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Tony Petricca, 529-8156, membership chairman.

Dear Dorothy: I'm so tired of the standard dinner party routine I could scream (cheeses, smoked oysters, little dabs of herring and so on during every cocktail round). Aren't there any new ideas on how to break the dreadful pre-dinner cycle? —Helen P.

Another Helen I know is highly innovative about this sort of thing. She had one party buzzing by serving a spiked lobster soup in a tureen as the first course — right in the living room. It's a heavenly dish. She mixes together one can of cream of mushroom soup, one can of chicken soup with rice, one can of evaporated milk and then adds 8 ounces of lobster (or crab) meat, either from a can or the frozen kind. She heats it well and at the last minute stirs in ¼ cup of bourbon whiskey. It can be made ahead of time, but the liquor has to be added at the last minute. I tried it, changing to sherry, and my company seemed to like it just as well. Give it a whirl.

Dear Dorothy: Because we're late evening snackers, I keep those little boxes of raisins around. We have a new use for them. My husband likes sliced bananas with his morning cereal, but you know how it is with bananas — half the time they're overripe. So one day recently he poured in some of the raisins and came up cheering. He claims they beat the dried kind that come in cereal by miles. —Josephine Kiley

Tip for the new cook: When making a salad with hard-boiled eggs, always put in everything, including the mayonnaise, before the eggs. Only after mixing thoroughly add the eggs. One more slight tossing and your eggs won't get too messed up.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Jim Cook

THE SIGN READS "Caution, telephone polls may be hazardous to your health," and can be found of all places on the hood scoop of a race car.

Steve Zinn and Mike Bauer, both in their 20's and residents of Wheeling, didn't have to be surgeon generals to issue the deadly warning.

They conducted their tests at the quarter-mile strip at Great Lakes Dragway in Union Grove, Wis., and unfortunately, the results proved positive.

The duo co-authored a beautifully handcrafted Goodyear Chevrolet Nova, a blue 432-cubic inch flash that was making a habit of mercilessly blowing its competition off the two-lane track.

Until, that is, that fateful 4th of July meeting that promised an assault of the track record of 10.82 seconds that they had personally established in their 12-Junior class.

The record was never threatened, but Bauer's life was.

He was behind the wheel of the modified screamer when the unscheduled and premature fireworks exploded.

Zinn, confined to the pit area where all the necessary preparations were made on the car, recalled the split-second tragedy as if it had elapsed the better part of an hour.

"After watching Mike get a good jump off the line," Steve said, "I kiddingly turned to 'my wife (Denise) and said, 'this should be a good one if he doesn't roll the damn thing.'"

Bauer kept the wheels on the pavement for the most part, but near the top end and at a speed of over 110 miles per hour, the nearly 10,000 fans that flock to the arena every weekend and holiday, witnessed one of the most spectacular crashes in the Grove's history.

"I felt something vibrating," Mike described. "I immediately got off of it (decelerated), but the car fishtailed and there wasn't much I could do — not at that speed, anyway."

In the wink of an eye, the gleaming machine was a twisted wreck, having showered its parts in a path of litter before making an abrupt halt on the shredded grass.

Bauer somehow escaped the pretzel-like collision without serious injury. After climbing out through the window, he could only gaze back at a sight that defied imagination.

Having lost contact with the asphalt track, Mike's aborted run ruptured the steel guard rail that may have interrupted his momentum, but it was the impact with the now-leveled telephone pole that finally brought the runaway vehicle to a stop.

The personal loss (insurance companies won't touch a race car) was still incomprehensible during the long ride back to the Goodyear Tire Store in Niles where Steve is the service manager.

The money and countless hours of labor all vanished in the same time it takes to say "Caution, telephone poles may be hazardous to your health," five times.

"Had it been a regular car on the highway, there would have been no way that anyone would have survived," Mike said. Only the required safety equipment — seat belt, roll cage, harness, helmet and fire extinguisher — provided Bauer with a new breath of life.

The mishap no longer pierces either's conscience. In fact, they've already invested in a Camaro that should afford another crack at the track and national marks.

The two will still swear that drag racing is as safe as playing chess. "There's no contact unless someone picks up the

Where The Hitters Are

Either hitting is better in the National League or pitching is superior in the American — or a combination of both. Official final batting averages for the 1971 major-league season show 14 National League hitters over .300 (led by Joe Torre of the Cards with .363) and only six in the A.L. (paced by the Twins' Tony Oliva with .337).

Classic Openers

Glaser Rolls 698; Morton Pontiac Hits 2921

by GENE KIRKHAM
The Paddock Classic Traveling League opened up its 1972-73 season at Hoffman Lanes with Bob Paddock of Paddock Publications rolling the first ball.

Paddock, founder of the eight team league, counted seven pins and started the league on its way to 32 weeks of action.

Bob Glaser of Morton Pontiac, returning president of the league, took command of the individual scoring honors with games of 233, 220, and 245 for a grand total of 698.

Along with some steady shooting by his teammates, Bob's 698 total enabled the veteran Morton Pontiac team to win five of seven points over the PCTL No. 2 five.

PCTL No. 2, made up of five newcomers to the league, showed their ability by winning the first game 971 to 962. Morton Pontiac's 2921 team total on games of 962, 988, and 971 was the high team total for the night's action. Jerry Kelly of PCTL No. 2 was high man for his team with a 617 total on games of 265, 192, and 220.

PCTL No. 3 won five of seven points over Uncle Andy's Cow Palace in a match where every game and the series had to be fought for. The last game was PCTL No. 3 over Uncle Andy's 925 to 923 which also gave PCTL No. 3 the series by only five pins.

Mike Shoop's 615 series was the high individual effort for PCTL No. 3. Mike rolled games of 158, 235, and 222.

Uncle Andy's Don Eberl fired games of 214, 212, and 182 for his team's high individual total of 608.

Des Plaines Ace Hardware won five points to two over Hoffman Lanes. Barry Stjernberg was high for Ace Hardware with a 572 sq while Ted Geiersbach of Hoffman Lanes was high on the pair with 590.

It was Gaare Oil over Bank of Rolling Meadows five points to two on lanes 27 and 28. Mike Golden led the scoring on the pair with a 565 series.

The four leading teams at this early stage now have a 5-2 won-loss record.

If the first night's action is an example we may have to wait until the final night to declare a winner.

A lot of good bowling by veterans and newcomers alike can be expected between now and April 14, 1973.

L-Tran Sweeps In Gals' Division

by GENE KIRKHAM
On opening night at Des Plaines Lanes the L-Tran quintet of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League took an early lead in the standings by sweeping seven points over Hoffman Lanes.

Lorrie Koch, captain of the L-Tran team, led all individual scoring on games of 199, 185, and 182 for a 566 total. Marlis Pleichardt of L-Tran contributed a 523 toward their winning effort.

Peggy Harris of Hoffman Lanes had the second best series of the night with 199, 181, and 171 for a 551.

Franklin-Weber Pontiac led the team scoring with the league high game of 928 and series total of 2545. They defeated Thunderbird Country Club five points to two.

Franklin-Weber totals included a 545 series by Leo Winski, a 587 series by Marge Lindenberg, and Carol Mertz's 501 series. Carol also had a 218 game which was high single game for the night. Mary Yurs of Thunderbird Country Club rolled a fine 541 series.

Arlington Park Towers' four points to Morton Pontiac's three was the story on lanes three and four. This match saw Arlington Park Towers win the first two games while the Morton Pontiac girls came back strong in the last game with a 900 game to win that game and the series point.

Arlington Park Towers was led by Dona Jean Sanders' 519 series which included an all spare game of 183. Betty Parkhurst contributed 518 for Morton Pontiac and Emily Dragoon rolled a 514 total also for Morton.

Doyle's Sport Shop-Des Plaines Lanes won the odd game and the series point over Striking Lanes. The series point was won by a scant 21 pins 2419 to 2398. DeLores Harris of Doyle's-Des Plaines rolled a 528 series while Bonnie Kuhn had a 507. Three girls for Striking Lanes reached the 500 mark. Lu Schoenberger had 506. Bette Brelle and Eunice Whitmore each rolled a 501 series.

Next week the Women Traveling Classic League can be seen in action at Thunderbird Lanes.

TRY TO KEEP PLAY 'LEVEL'...

BAD ANGLE LIES OF THE DOWNHILL, SIDEHILL AND UPHILL VARIETY CAN OFTEN BE ATTRIBUTED TO A LACK OF PLANNING. INSTEAD OF TO BAD LUCK OR A BAD SWING.

YOU CAN AVOID THESE AWKWARD SECOND SHOTS IF YOU SURVEY THE HOLE PROPERLY BEFORE YOU DRIVE, THEN AIM FOR AN AREA OF LEVEL TERRAIN. EVEN IF IT MEANS USING LESS CLUB AND SACRIFICING A LITTLE DISTANCE, A FIRM STANCE ON THE NEXT SHOT WILL MORE THAN COMPENSATE.

Five finalists
Five heroic dogs, who among them saved a total of 12 persons from death or severe injury, have been named as finalists in the competition for the Ken-L Ration gold medal, to be awarded to the dog chosen by the judges as America's Dog Hero of the Year for 1972.

The five include Thumper, a German Shepherd from Piedmont, S.D., owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Keenihan. Thumper was being boarded at kennels owned by Mrs. Russell Skog of Rapid City and helped save Mrs. Skog's life by swimming to safety with the woman hanging on to his collar during the flood last June 9.

Mini, a miniature Poodle, saved all eight members of the Nicholas Emerito family of Danbury, Conn., last January. She roused Mr. Emerito at 5:30 a.m., alerting him to the house being on fire, then raced to the second floor and awakened five children while the man was getting his wife and small son to safety.

Dee-Dog, a Collie owned by Don Perkins of Canyon, Texas, was instrumental in saving the life of his master when the man was knocked unconscious in a fall on a near-zero night last January. The dog broke out of his run and by constant smuggling up to the man's face and body kept him from freezing to death as he came to and then drifted off into unconsciousness from his severe injuries. After crawling almost 400 yards, the man was able to awaken his wife by throwing a stick at a window which aroused her, along with the dogs frantic barking.

A Collie named Michelle, owned by Lester Woods of Everton, Mo., raced to the rescue of her master when he was attacked by an enraged cow. Woods was attempting to help a newborn calf on his farm when the new mother turned on him. Michelle ran to the scene and drove the cow off long enough for Woods to crawl to safety.

The last dog in the finals is Tara, a Rottweiler from Quincy, Ill. An obedience trained dog, she helped save the life of Mrs. Frances Stranckmeyer when the woman fell in her bathroom in the early hours of the morning. Suffering a broken wrist, and bleeding profusely, she would have almost certainly died had not the dog set up such a din just outside the closed door to the bedroom of her daughter, Sandra Ann, and refused to be quiet. After giving her mother first aid, the girl, who is a registered nurse, summoned an ambulance. Mrs. Stranckmeyer was hospitalized for 32 days before recovering.

And so there you have it — the five dogs, and which will be judged number one for this year? Make your own predictions.

New blood disease test
Research begun four years ago by the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine at Urbana-Champaign and the U. S. Army has resulted in a test for a tropical blood disease fatal to dogs.

The hemorrhagic disease has killed more than 300 dogs used by the U.S. Army in southeast Asia and has infected dogs in the United States.

Lighting Problems May Force Switch In Opener

Friday night's home opener for Maine North could be moved or delayed due to lighting problems at the Maine East stadium, according to Dave Kennedy, North athletic director.

The Maine North Norsemen are scheduled to play a 6 p.m. sophomore game and 8 p.m. varsity contest against Rolling Meadows.

However, after making lighting improvements at its stadium, Maine East has been unable to purchase the proper bulbs.

Ordinarily, the contest would be switched to Maine West, but problems exist there also. Last Friday, problems were discovered in the underground circuitry. Kennedy said repairs are currently underway at West.

Should efforts fail at both stadiums, the Maine North-Rolling Meadows game could be pushed back to Saturday afternoon.

"We'll figure on playing at Maine East until we're told we can't," Kennedy said. "It's unusual that two sets of lights would go out at the same time."

"If both lighting systems are out, we'll have to play Saturday afternoon," he said, "but I don't even want to think about that."

Kennedy said contracts for Friday night game officials must be honored whether or not the game is played. Should the game be switched to Saturday, North must seek new officials.

"At this point, I'm not anticipating a problem," Kennedy said. "But I'm keeping a wary eye on both fields."
